Dear Ms. Sanders,

It is a great honor to write a letter in support of Alopecian Beauty CEO Monee Sanders. I fully stand by the company's diligent efforts to expand and employ medical experts as well as highly educated professionals to orchestrate literacy and research programs designed for Alopecia sufferers.

In conclusion, I fully support the efforts of the Alopecian Beauty CEO Monee Sanders as she seeks external funding in the amount one million dollars to support a program designed to assist and support individuals that are diagnosed with alopecia. The company has had great impact in the community it serves and has assisted thousands of men, women, and children with building confidence, gaining life long bonds, as well as hope for the medical advancements for alopecia in the near future. Monee Sanders works thoroughly and passionately at her craft daily by connecting with important community leaders, hosting an abundance outreach events, and utilizing her expertise to care for and educate individuals diagnosed with alopecia. If Monee Sanders were able to receive your funding Alopecian Beauty Co would be able to very hastily place an everlasting impact on the country and one day the world so that individuals with alopecia will never feel unsupported or overlook in regards to their condition again.

Sincerely,
