

Bob Donaldson/Post-Gazette photos

Butler County Historical Society archaeologist Ed Dlutowski examines a shard of glass turned up by Robin Fleischer, right, 11, a pupil at Emily Brittain Elementary School in the Butler Area School District. Also digging at the former Hamilton Bottleworks on Monroe Street in Butler are, from left, Nikki Bruner, 14, of Butler Area Junior High School, and Sarah Slater, 12, of Portersville Christian School. The girls are volunteers in a junior archaeology program called the Dirt Dragons, which uses a lab at the Butler Heritage Center.