

Tampa Bay Bondage Club Meeting Minutes/February 6, 2026

The February 6, 2026 meeting of the Tampa Bay Bondage Club began a bit early at 7:50pm because anyone who was going to be there would have been there already.

TBBC met at the comfy indoor Gulfport home of Barry Y. and Kimball R., a last minute cold-weather change from meeting at Jeff J.'s palatial yet decidedly outdoor Gulfport home. 13 members attended.

There was an abundance (and by abundance we mean an absolute cornucopia of cascading plates-o-plenty, rivaling any Legion Post, VFW, or Amish barn-raising potluck dinner) of chicken. Fried, baked, wings, salad - you name it, there was chicken, chicken, and more chicken.

It once gave a cluck. It was all there, like a featherless leather event sponsored by the National Chicken Council.

Dinner was finger-lickin' good. Pledgemaster Jim P. reported no new membership requests. Steve, in attendance, was a pledge. Mark, an associate member pledge, was also there, as was Pup Bruce, another pledge on his way to a future meeting demo. Mark will demo with Joe W., later, after the meeting, in the dungeon.

Treasurer Craig C. reported a $500 Bingo night deposit and $3040 in the TBBC treasury. He said the February Bingo prizes would again be the ever-popular Bag O' Booze. He also outlined the cost of a vehicle in the St. Petersburg Pride parade on June 27th. $750. No action taken on the parade.

Discussion followed on the Camp Mars TBBC July 4th retreat. Three cabins are likely to be rented. Talk included demo ideas. One was silver body painting to make nude club members, or anyone else who wanted to be painted, look like aliens, because, you know, Camp Mars.

President Joe W. reminded new members to always bring playtime stuff and not to rely on others for fetish needs.

Sweet girthy sausage returns to the February 28 cookout at Mr. D'z in Tampa. If participation is sparse, it will be the last of these cookouts, the treasurer reported. The previous two cookouts, one marred and cancelled by an enormous grill grease fire, was followed a month later by a confusing double-booking cancellation incident by Mr. D'z management that left TBBC members and volunteers frustrated.

Jim P. said he was in contact with the Purple Rhino in Sarasota for a TBBC event with a tentative date of Friday, April 10. Whether it was in conjunction with the critters group or not, it was decided to book the event; if the critters participate, all the better, but TBBC will proceed with another roping and flogging event. Management at Purple Rhino was reported to be excited to have us back.

Associate membership admission of Jeff N. and Dale R. voted on and approved.

Business concluded and the meeting, adjourned at 8:37pm, was followed by a TBBC instructional session and demo in the dungeon.
