

Turning The Page... By Mike Haas

Our lives resemble a story book
Each day another page is written.
Each year becomes another look
Extending another chapter still unwritten.
With every page that is turned over
Another story of a life is added.
Keeping the story moving in changeover
Each page written and uncladded.
How many chapters is left undetermined
As every volume is unique and new.
All the stories are interdetermined
With patience you'll see it through.
Every year we end one chapter
Then begin the next one unscripted.
For some their story is a factor
With others stories become conflicted.
A year in a life seems miniscule
In the greater scheme of living.
So turning the page becomes natural
Each year as the story keeps giving.
It's important to keep focus forward
As we face each day, month and year.
We never know when time will fast-forward
Ending the story prematurely.
