

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

WITCH is a monthly magazine featuring articles, book, music and event reviews, recipes, spells, poetry and fiction from a variety of writers from anywhere in the world.

The magazine is released on or around the Full Moon each month. If your article is more suitable for another festival or issue period, we will contact you to let you know.

Our topics include, but are not limited to; witchcraft, paganism, druidism, Nordic, occult practices, esoteric subjects, mythology, spells, divination, ritual, magick and ceremony, nature and nature based religions, recipes and craft ideas.

How-to's, reportive pieces, reviews and narrative essays of varied styles are all welcome.

If your work is part of a longer series, novel or book, we are happy to publish excerpts of your work as part of a feature, or publish in monthly chapters. We'll let you know if we need to do this.

Please ensure you provide the full, final copy of your work. Whilst we will review your work for errors during the editing process, it is best to have it read or reviewed by someone else before submitting it to ensure quality.

All images used must belong to you, and you must give permission for us to use them in your article. They may also be reproduced as part of advertising on social media, so you need to be happy for us to do this, otherwise we won't share them anywhere else.

If you have provided images from an image provider (for example, Getty Images), please include the appropriate credits.

If no images are included, we may source suitable images to match your article.

If your submission is art based, please provide a brief commentary for the images you share, and an artist's profile with contact information and a little about you and the work you do.

Previously published works

We would prefer that your articles have not been previously published, however we are happy to make exceptions based on time passed and edited/updated works. If this is the case, please include the publication date of the previous version of your work, along with a link or reference information if it was published in print.

Please submit your work in Word (or Word compatible) files, with no style or formatting to submissions@witchzine.co.uk

For artwork, please email high resolution images, or provide a link to your cloud storage, and provide the commentary in a Word document.
