

The Relationship Bank Account

Founder Jacob Molitor

We must have a positive balance in our account to avoid bankruptcy. It is important to make sincere and consistent efforts to make more deposits than withdrawals.

In law enforcement, we will always make withdrawals with arrests, uses of forces, and general criticism.

We are supported and appreciated by most as we act on behalf of our community and society as a whole.

The truth is that most people form their opinions about law enforcement based on their own personal experiences over what they see or hear on television or elsewhere – we can control our own narrative and how we are generally viewed in our communities.

Behavior and attitude is contagious.

Strive to have a positive bank of trust with everyone and always maintain the bridges in your life.
