DIRECTOR & FOUNDER

Dominican Development Center,
Women in Solidarity Network

Today, we have the opportunity to share our stories, celebrate our success and reflect on our struggles. As mothers, leaders, professionals and ordinary women, we feel the need to promote unity among all women. Still we face many issues, from the lack of fair housing, high school dropout and access to post secondary education, quality of healthcare benefits and discrimination, to name a few. However, among us we have many women, who against all odds, have become admirable leaders in communities many whom are here with us today.

Today, we acknowledge all of our accomplishments and continue with the ongoing dialogue of creating change in our communities.

Women, let's continue breaking barriers because it is time to understand that only action through collective ways can bring the changes needed in our world and in our communities. The Women Solidarity Network promotes unity among all women despite cultural differences. Solidarity is the word that we embrace to achieve this dream. Please stay with us until we see our dreams come true.

The Dominican Development Center (DDC) is a nonprofit organization led and directed by immigrants' residents of Boston, MA

Our mission

To develop and empower Dominican immigrants and immigrants representing all communities. We strive to improve the quality of life for our members by promoting immigration issues that might affect our communities, including but not limited to current laws, legal procedure, immigration and human rights. We do this through educational and leadership opportunities which would allow our members to learn and take full advantage of what this country has to offer and by this have a productive life.

The mission is accomplished by providing programs and organizing activities that bring together long-term residents and newcomers of all ages and diverse background to achieve economic, political and social justice. We believe that new emerging immigrant communities are the driving motor to promote families and cultural values. The DCC embraces a future of equal representation, equal rights and equal power for all immigrant families. We hope to establish an organization that will be a role model for other immigrant communities.

ACERCA DEL DÍA INTERNACIONAL DE LA MUJER

Mujeres en el mundo conmemoran este Día Internacional de la Mujer.

Reconocida en el año 1975 por la Organización de las Naciones Unidas (ONU), se conmemora la lucha de la mujer por su participación, en pie de igualdad con el hombre, en la sociedad y en su desarrollo íntegro como persona.

En 1910, la Internacional Socialista, reunida en Copenhague, proclamó el Día de la Mujer, con carácter internacional. Fue un homenaje al movimiento en favor de los derechos de la mujer y para ayudar a conseguir el sufragio femenino universal, según recuerda la ONU. La propuesta fue aprobada unánimemente por la conferencia de más de 100 mujeres procedentes de 17 países, entre ellas las tres primeras mujeres elegidas para el parlamento finés. En ese momento, no se estableció una fecha fija para la celebración.

El primer Día de la Mujer se celebró un año después, el 19 de marzo de 1911, en Alemania, Austria, Dinamarca y Suiza. Consistió en mítines a los que asistieron más de un millón de mujeres y hombres. Además del derecho de voto y de ocupar cargos públicos, exigieron el derecho al trabajo, a la formación profesional y a la no discriminación laboral. Menos de una semana después, el 25 de marzo, más de 140 jóvenes trabajadoras, la mayoría inmigrantes italianas y judías, murieron en el trágico incendio de la fábrica Triangle Shirtwaist en la ciudad de Nueva York. Este suceso tuvo grandes repercusiones en la legislación laboral de los Estados Unidos, y en las celebraciones posteriores del Día Internacional de la Mujer se hizo referencia a las condiciones laborales que condujeron al desastre.

Entre 1913 y 1914, las mujeres rusas celebraron su primer Día Internacional de la Mujer el último domingo de febrero de 1913 en el marco de los movimientos a favor de la paz que surgieron en vísperas de la primera guerra mundial. En el resto de Europa, las mujeres celebraron mítines en torno al 8 de marzo del año siguiente para protestar por la guerra o para solidarizarse con el resto de las mujeres. En 1917, como reacción ante los 2 millones de soldados rusos muertos en la guerra, las mujeres rusas escogieron de nuevo el último domingo de febrero para declararse en huelga en demanda de "pan y paz". Los dirigentes políticos criticaron la oportunidad de la huelga, pero las mujeres la hicieron de todos modos. Cuatro días después el Zar se vio obligado a abdicar y el gobierno provisional concedió a las mujeres el derecho de voto. Ese histórico domingo fue el 23 de febrero, según el calendario juliano utilizado entonces en Rusia, o el 8 de marzo, según el calendario gregoriano utilizado en otros países.

Desde entonces el Día Internacional de la Mujer se celebra los 8 de marzo.
