The birthstone for September is the sapphire. While often associated with a deep blue color, sapphires actually come in a wide array of colors, including pink, yellow, and green!

The Sepmtember flowers are morning glories and aster. The aster symbolizes love, affection, wisdom, daintiness, and patience. Morning glory symbolizes love, affection, and the fleeting nature of life, and are also associated with peace, harmony, and positive thinking

Celebrating Grandparents

Grandparents Day, celebrated on the first Sunday after Labor Day in the United States, is a heartfelt occasion dedicated to honoring the invaluable contributions of grandparents in our lives. This special day serves as a reminder of the wisdom, love, and guidance that grandparents offer, bridging generations with their stories and experiences. It's a time for families to come together and show appreciation, whether through heartfelt cards, shared meals, or simply spending quality time. Grandparents Day not only celebrates the unique bond between grandparents and grandchildren but also emphasizes the importance of family heritage and traditions, fostering a sense of belonging and continuity.

The Dough Must Go On

Over almost 70 years, more than one billion pounds of Play-Doh have been extruded into billions of little plastic canisters for kids to play with. In 1998, this modeling compound was even inducted into the National Toy Hall of Fame. And now it has its own holiday on September 16: National Play-Doh Day.

Play-Doh was invented to be wallpaper cleaner (rolled on walls to remove dirt and grime), but the glob of off-white putty soon inspired the imagination of school children. In 1956, Play-Doh inventor Joe McVicker cut a deal with Captain Kangaroo and other children's show hosts to promote the product.

There are many unofficial recipes for homemade dough, but what you may not be able to replicate, however, is Play-Doh's trademark smell. Even this was offered on its 50th anniversary—as a Demeter-brand cologne for creatives.
