

BEYOND CONSULTING: co-creation in field

When it comes to strategy or program development, the co-creation with smallholders in the field – paired up with observation study and field stakeholder interviews – is a critical success factor to developing and implementing successful initiatives driving real impact and real sustainable transformation

