

Liliwanda Designs

Designing was my first language. I could sew before I could walk. I attended the Fashion Institute of Technology in NY, NY and finished my studies at Polimoda University in Florence, Italy. New York taught me how to be fearless & edgy in design and Italy taught me how to be detailed & accessorize. All those skills have a place in the form & function of design. Like most artists following their dreams, I had to support my endeavors.

I committed a great deal of my life working in the restaurant industry, which I have found to be rich in culture. I saw an opportunity to bridge my 2 passions and thus born the aprons.
