MEET YOUR ADJUDICATOR

Katrina George

She began her early dance training in Brisbane before continuing her studies at The Australian Ballet School, where she refined her technical and artistic development prior to being accepted into Queensland Ballet.

During her professional career, she danced under the direction of the late Harold Collins and toured extensively throughout Queensland, interstate, and internationally, performing in a wide range of productions. As the company was relatively small at the time, she experienced an extensive and varied touring repertoire and worked with respected choreographers including Natalie Weir, Harold Collins, Jacqui Carroll, and Gideon Obarzanek. The repertoire ranged across classical ballet, musical pantomime, contemporary dance, tap, and cabaret, providing her with a broad and adaptable understanding of performance practice and artistic interpretation.

For approximately twenty-five years, she has worked as a studio dance teacher (RAD Registered Teacher), specialising in classical ballet training, coaching variations, and choreographing group routines and solos for students of all ages, abilities, and performance goals. Through this work, she has developed a strong eye for technical detail alongside a genuine commitment to the discipline, artistry, and teamwork that dance fosters. She strives to support dancers in building confidence, resilience, musicality, and performance quality, attributes that contribute not only to successful performances, but also to lifelong learning and artistic growth.

She has experience coaching and choreographing both solo and group works, providing her with a strong understanding of technical expectations, artistic interpretation, musicality, stylistic awareness, and performance standards appropriate to each stage of a dancer's development. This experience has strengthened her capacity to deliver informed, constructive, and encouraging feedback across a broad range of ages and skill levels. She approaches adjudication with professionalism, fairness, and encouragement, with a genuine commitment to supporting dancers in their ongoing development and confidence as performers.

She has also worked as a trainer and assessor in vocational dance education, supporting qualifications in teaching and arts management, and is passionate about mentoring and supporting the next generation of dance teachers.

Her teaching practice is informed by curriculum-based learning, with a clear focus on dance as a learning area that supports creativity, expression, discipline, and physical literacy. Over the past fifteen years, she has observed numerous dance eisteddfods and ballet competitions in both educational and studio settings, gaining valuable insight into adjudication expectations, performance presentation, and the diverse approaches to training and assessment.

More recently, she has also been facilitating multi-genre dance programs for older adults, supporting wellbeing, creative expression, and social connection through movement. This work has further strengthened her ability to adapt teaching approaches to meet diverse participant needs while ensuring dance remains accessible, empowering, and artistically enriching for people of all ages.

She is excited to be adjudicating Dance X in 2026.
