

Subject Waiver and Liability Release

I hereby grant and assign to Texas Tech University (TTU) and thereby “You Talk Funny – A Podcast” (YTF) exclusive rights, including copyright, to use, license, and sell this recording of my voice and the specific demographic information I may share about myself in my voice recording. Each and every such recording made for TTU/YTF is a "work made for hire" commissioned as a contribution to a collective work and research, and I understand that I will not be the copyright owner thereof and will have no rights thereto, nor will I receive any form of compensation at any time. I understand that the recordings may be published and distributed by means of various media, including, but not limited to, the internet and via radio. I make my voluntary, unremunerated contributions to TTU/YTF in the interests of sociolinguistic/dialect research. I further understand that the co-investigative researchers (Rachel Hirshorn-Johnston, Seth Warren-Crow, Amy Chaffee, and Randall Rapstine) may distribute and/or offer for sale copies of my recordings, compilations, or other documents in the archive to inform students, professionals, and the public about sociolinguistic study/dialects of English. I understand that TTU/YTF, its owners, publishers, employees, editors, and agents cannot warrant or guarantee that use of my sound recordings and compilations, made available on the internet, the World Wide Web or otherwise, will be subject to their supervision or control. The co-investigative research team will secure and never publicly share the name or contact information of any volunteer. That said, after publication, we can in no way guarantee a listener’s ability to identify or deduce the identity of a volunteer based on voice alone or any information voluntarily shared. Accordingly, I release TTU/YTF its owners, publishers, employees, editors, and agents from any and all liability related to dissemination of the material I have contributed or will contribute. I understand that TTU/YTF undertakes to keep my identity private and that my voice and the contents of what I say will appear on the website and podcast anonymously.

I have read this document and understand its contents.

Subject’s name: (please print) _____

Subject’s signature: _____

Date: (dd/mm/yyyy): _____

Contact number: _____

Contact email: _____

I acknowledge my name and contact information will remain secure, private, and unpublished*