

I am not robot!

What celebrities are bloods and crips

Famous people who have been members of the Bloods or Crips gangs include rappers Snoop Dogg and Lil Wayne and actor and rapper Ice-T. The Bloods and the Crips are rival gangs based in Los Angeles, Calif., and are frequently tied to illegal activities involving drugs, guns and violent crime.Rapper Snoop Dogg joined the Crips as a teen, affiliated with the group “Rollin’ 20s Crips.” Lil Wayne, on the other hand, joined the Bloods after he became famous, and has frequently written lyrics about that affiliation. Ice-T was a member of the Crips before he joined the United States Army and deployed to Hawaii.

After Bangin' on Wax 2, the Bloods & Crips parted ways, with the Bloods becoming the Damu Ridas and the Crips became the Nationwide Rip Ridaz.
Albums First Bangin' on Wax was the first album by Bloods & Crips. The album was released in 1993 under Dangerous Records. Bangin' on Wax was a success, making it to No. 86 on the Billboard 200.[4] Four singles were released "Bangin' on Wax", "Piru Love", "Crip, Crip, Crip" and "Steady Dippin'". The album went on to sell over 500,000 copies, achieving Gold status. Official music videos for "Bangin' on Wax", "Piru Love" and "Steady Dippin'" were made, gaining widespread attention for the group. On the group's single "Piru Love", the hook is sung by Fo' Clips Eclipse, one of the group's Crip members. The next single, "Steady Dippin'", was performed by Crip members Do Or Die (a.k.a. A-Love), Miss C-Note (a.k.a. Dannygirl), Sin Loc, and Blue Ragg (a.k.a. The General). They emerged a group called the Underworld Connection. The Underworld Connection was formed in the early 1990s but was put on hold for projects like Tweedy Bird Loc's "187 Ride By" and the controversial album Bangin' On Wax. It was the first time the group reconnected in the late 2000s since the 1990s. Also DJ Battlecat made an appearance in the "Steady Dippin'" music video as the event's DJ for the intro. The song was produced by him along with QLuso and Ronnie Ron.[5] Second Bangin' on Wax 2… The Saga Continues was the second and last album by the Bloods & Crips. Music videos were made for the album singles "G's & Locs" and "Wish You Were Here". Both videos gained positive reviews. The album was recorded and released in 1994 under Dangerous Records. The album made it to No. 139 on the Billboard 200 and #20 for Top R&B/Hip-Hop Albums.[6] Third A third album: Bangin’ on Wax Part 3: No Passes was originally recorded in 2004, but not released until 2014. None of the original artists are featured on the album, although it was still distributed through Dangerous Records with the help of Tweedy Bird Loc, following the death of producer Ronnie M. Phillips on November 1, 2003, over a decade prior to release.[7][8] Aftermath Following the end of the project, the two gangs started separate projects, with the Crips releasing albums under the Nationwide Rip Ridaz name,[9] and the bloods under the Damu Ridas.[10] Nationwide Rip Ridaz The Nationwide Rip Ridaz released two albums, the self titled ‘Nationwide Rip Ridaz’ in 1995 and ‘Betrayed (Can't Trust Nobody)’ in 1999.[11] A notable member of the group was Donald “AWOL” Stallworth from Kelly Park, he was killed by law enforcement on June 4, 1997.[12] Damu Ridas Damu Ridas released their own self titled album ‘Damu Ridas’ in 1995, followed by ‘How Deep Is Your Hood’ in 1999.[13] The core members of the Damu Ridas were from two different Blood gangs: the L.A. Denver Lane Bloods and the Crenshaw Mafia Bloods.
The two gangs have been close allies for decades and are still allied today.[14] B-Brazy, Peanut II and Lil' Laniak II were from the Denver Lanes. Tip Toe, Pimp D, Spyder, O.G Mad Eye, Big Hawk and Lil' Hawk were from the Crenshaw Mafia.

History The success of N.W.A. had frustrated many in the gang community who saw the group capitalizing on the gang lifestyle. The Bloods & Crips project was originally organized by rappers O.Y.G Redrum 781 and Tweedy Bird Loc.[2] Actual gang members — Crips from Compton, Watts and Long Beach, and Bloods from Inglewood and Los Angeles — auditioned for the group and the best ones were chosen for the album.[3] In 1993, the Bloods & Crips released their debut album entitled Bangin' on Wax for Warlock Records. One year later, the group's second and final studio album, Bangin' on Wax 2...
The Saga Continues was released. After Bangin' on Wax 2, the Bloods & Crips parted ways, with the Bloods becoming the Damu Ridas and the Crips became the Nationwide Rip Ridaz.
Albums First Bangin' on Wax was the first album by Bloods & Crips. The album was released in 1993 under Dangerous Records. Bangin' on Wax was a success, making it to No. 86 on the Billboard 200.[4] Four singles were released "Bangin' on Wax", "Piru Love", "Crip, Crip, Crip" and "Steady Dippin'". The album went on to sell over 500,000 copies, achieving Gold status. Official music videos for "Bangin' on Wax", "Piru Love" and "Steady Dippin'" were made, gaining widespread attention for the group. On the group's single "Piru Love", the hook is sung by Fo' Clips Eclipse, one of the group's Crip members. The next single, "Steady Dippin'", was performed by Crip members Do Or Die (a.k.a. A-Love), Miss C-Note (a.k.a. Dannygirl), Sin Loc, and Blue Ragg (a.k.a. The General). They emerged a group called the Underworld Connection. The Underworld Connection was formed in the early 1990s but was put on hold for projects like Tweedy Bird Loc's "187 Ride By" and the controversial album Bangin' On Wax. It was the first time the group reconnected in the late 2000s since the 1990s. Also DJ Battlecat made an appearance in the "Steady Dippin'" music video as the event's DJ for the intro. The song was produced by him along with QLuso and Ronnie Ron.[5] Second Bangin' on Wax 2… The Saga Continues was the second and last album by the Bloods & Crips. Music videos were made for the album singles "G's & Locs" and "Wish You Were Here". Both videos gained positive reviews. The album was recorded and released in 1994 under Dangerous Records. The album made it to No. 139 on the Billboard 200 and #20 for Top R&B/Hip-Hop Albums.[6] Third A third album: Bangin’ on Wax Part 3: No Passes was originally recorded in 2004, but not released until 2014. None of the original artists are featured on the album, although it was still distributed through Dangerous Records with the help of Tweedy Bird Loc, following the death of producer Ronnie M.

History The success of N.W.A. had frustrated many in the gang community who saw the group capitalizing on the gang lifestyle. The Bloods & Crips project was originally organized by rappers O.Y.G Redrum 781 and Tweedy Bird Loc.[2] Actual gang members — Crips from Compton, Watts and Long Beach, and Bloods from Inglewood and Los Angeles — auditioned for the group and the best ones were chosen for the album.[3] In 1993, the Bloods & Crips released their debut album entitled Bangin' on Wax for Warlock Records. One year later, the group's second and final studio album, Bangin' on Wax 2... The Saga Continues was released. After Bangin' on Wax 2, the Bloods & Crips parted ways, with the Bloods becoming the Damu Ridas and the Crips became the Nationwide Rip Ridaz. Albums First Bangin' on Wax was the first album by Bloods & Crips. The album was released in 1993 under Dangerous Records.

Albums First Bangin' on Wax was the first album by Bloods & Crips. The album was released in 1993 under Dangerous Records. Bangin' on Wax was a success, making it to No. 86 on the Billboard 200.[4] Four singles were released "Bangin' on Wax", "Piru Love", "Crip, Crip, Crip" and "Steady Dippin'". The album went on to sell over 500,000 copies, achieving Gold status. Official music videos for "Bangin' on Wax", "Piru Love" and "Steady Dippin'" were made, gaining widespread attention for the group.
On the group's single "Piru Love", the hook is sung by Fo' Clips Eclipse, one of the group's Crip members. The next single, "Steady Dippin'", was performed by Crip members Do Or Die (a.k.a. A-Love), Miss C-Note (a.k.a. Dannygirl), Sin Loc, and Blue Ragg (a.k.a. The General). They emerged a group called the Underworld Connection. The Underworld Connection was formed in the early 1990s but was put on hold for projects like Tweedy Bird Loc's "187 Ride By" and the controversial album Bangin' On Wax. It was the first time the group reconnected in the late 2000s since the 1990s. Also DJ Battlecat made an appearance in the "Steady Dippin'" music video as the event's DJ for the intro. The song was produced by him along with QLuso and Ronnie Ron.[5] Second Bangin' on Wax 2... The Saga Continues was the second and last album by the Bloods & Crips. Music videos were made for the album singles "G's & Locs" and "Wish You Were Here". Both videos gained positive reviews. The album was recorded and released in 1994 under Dangerous Records. The album made it to No. 139 on the Billboard 200 and #20 for Top R&B/Hip-Hop Albums.[6] Third A third album: Bangin’ on Wax Part 3: No Passes was originally recorded in 2004, but not released until 2014. None of the original artists are featured on the album, although it was still distributed through Dangerous Records with the help of Tweedy Bird Loc, following the death of producer Ronnie M.
Phillips on November 1, 2003, over a decade prior to release.[7][8] Aftermath Following the end of the project, the two gangs started separate projects, with the Crips releasing albums under the Nationwide Rip Ridaz name,[9] and the bloods under the Damu Ridas.[10] Nationwide Rip Ridaz The Nationwide Rip Ridaz released two albums, the self titled ‘Nationwide Rip Ridaz’ in 1995 and ‘Betrayed (Can't Trust Nobody)’ in 1999.[11] A notable member of the group was Donald “AWOL” Stallworth from Kelly Park, he was killed by law enforcement on June 4, 1997.[12] Damu Ridas Damu Ridas released their own self titled album ‘Damu Ridas’ in 1995, followed by ‘How Deep Is Your Hood’ in 1999.[13] The core members of the Damu Ridas were from two different Blood gangs: the L.A. Denver Lane Bloods and the Crenshaw Mafia Bloods.
The two gangs have been close allies for decades and are still allied today.[14] B-Brazy, Peanut II and Lil' Laniak II were from the Denver Lanes. Tip Toe, Pimp D, Spyder, O.G Mad Eye, Big Hawk and Lil' Hawk were from the Crenshaw Mafia. Of those 9 members, 7 have been confirmed deceased.[15] B-Brazy was shot and killed in 2003.[16] Peanut II was shot 17 times and died in November 1995 by members of the Crips.

The Saga Continues was released. After Bangin' on Wax 2, the Bloods & Crips parted ways, with the Bloods becoming the Damu Ridas and the Crips became the Nationwide Rip Ridaz. Albums First Bangin' on Wax was the first album by Bloods & Crips. The album was released in 1993 under Dangerous Records. Bangin' on Wax was a success, making it to No. 86 on the Billboard 200.[4] Four singles were released "Bangin' on Wax", "Piru Love", "Crip, Crip, Crip" and "Steady Dippin'". The album went on to sell over 500,000 copies, achieving Gold status. Official music videos for "Bangin' on Wax", "Piru Love" and "Steady Dippin'" were made, gaining widespread attention for the group. On the group's single "Piru Love", the hook is sung by Fo' Clips Eclipse, one of the group's Crip members. The next single, "Steady Dippin'", was performed by Crip members Do Or Die (a.k.a. A-Love), Miss C-Note (a.k.a. Dannygirl), Sin Loc, and Blue Ragg (a.k.a. The General). They emerged a group called the Underworld Connection. The Underworld Connection was formed in the early 1990s but was put on hold for projects like Tweedy Bird Loc's "187 Ride By" and the controversial album Bangin' On Wax. It was the first time the group reconnected in the late 2000s since the 1990s. Also DJ Battlecat made an appearance in the "Steady Dippin'" music video as the event's DJ for the intro. The song was produced by him along with QLuso and Ronnie Ron.[5] Second Bangin' on Wax 2... The Saga Continues was the second and last album by the Bloods & Crips. Music videos were made for the album singles "G's & Locs" and "Wish You Were Here". Both videos gained positive reviews. The album was recorded and released in 1994 under Dangerous Records. The album made it to No. 139 on the Billboard 200 and #20 for Top R&B/Hip-Hop Albums.[6] Third A third album: Bangin' on Wax Part 3: No Passes was originally recorded in 2004, but not released until 2014. None of the original artists are featured on the album, although it was still distributed through Dangerous Records with the help of Tweedy Bird Loc, following the death of producer Ronnie M. Phillips on November 1, 2003, over a decade prior to release.[7][8] Aftermath Following the end of the project, the two gangs started separate projects, with the Crips releasing albums under the Nationwide Rip Ridaz name,[9] and the bloods under the Damu Ridas.[10] Nationwide Rip Ridaz The Nationwide Rip Ridaz released two albums, the self titled 'Nationwide Rip Ridaz' in 1995 and 'Betrayed (Can't Trust Nobody)' in 1999.[11] A notable member of the group was Donald "AWOL" Stallworth from Kelly Park, he was killed by law enforcement on June 4, 1997.[12] Damu Ridas Damu Ridas released their own self titled album 'Damu Ridas' in 1995, followed by 'How Deep Is Your Hood' in 1999.[13] The core members of the Damu Ridas were from two different Blood gangs: the L.A. Denver Lane Bloods and the Crenshaw Mafia Bloods. The two gangs have been close allies for decades and are still allied today.[14] B-Brazy, Peanut II and Lil' Laniak II were from the Denver Lanes. Tip Toe, Pimp D, Spyder, O.G Mad Eye, Big Hawk and Lil' Hawk were from the Crenshaw Mafia. Of those 9 members, 7 have been confirmed deceased.[15] B-Brazy was shot and killed in 2003.[16] Peanut II was shot 17 times and died in November 1995 by members of the Crips. Lil' Laniak II was with his daughter when he was killed around 1995 by the 83 Gangsters.[17] Tip Toe was killed by a member of the Neighborhood Piru. Spyder was in the neighborhood of the Rollin' 60 Crips when he was shot and killed in 2000.
O.G Mad Eye and his little brother Lil' Mad Eye were both killed before 2001. Big Hawk is deceased[18] and Lil' Hawk is serving a 25 to life prison sentence for murder.[19] Members Tweedy Bird Loc Bloody Mary Battlecat Domino AWOL (Donald Stallworth) O.Y.G Redrum 781 B-Brazy Ahmed Younes aka Lefty Saif Salama aka big s Cixx Pac Miss C-Note Sin Loc Bobby Williams (Lil' Hawk) Lil' Leak (CK) Green Eyez Twin Loc (O.G. Cell-E-Cel) Big Freeze G-Len B.G. Scarface Peanut II Big Mad-Eyez Samari Doby (Lil' Stretch) Tip-Toe Broncoe Koolay June Dawg Batman (Evil Bat) G-Spyder Blue Ragg Do or Die Lil' 8 Baby Maniak Lil' CK Stretch Robert W. Lewis III (Producer) Gangsta Red Gangsta Yank Big Stretch Baby Stretch Big Hawk Baby Hawk Big Wy (Red Rag) Green AK Discography Bangin' on Wax (1993) Bangin' on Wax 2... The Saga Continues (1994) Bangin' on Wax Part 3: No Passes (2014) See also Crime in Los Angeles Nationwide Rip Ridaz (album) Damu Ridas (album) References ^ Wade Kergan. "Bloods & Crips". AllMusic. Retrieved 2019-12-11. ^ Exclusive interview with redruM781 Archived 2009-07-14 at the Wayback Machine RapTalk.net.
2008-04-11 Retrieved. 2008-04-11 ^ Bloods & Crips biography at Allmusic AllMusic.com 2014-05-17 Retrieved. 2014-05-17 ^ "Bangin'" on Wax at Billboard BillBoard.com 2014-05-17 Retrieved 2014-05-17 ^ "Steady Dippin'" by Bloods & Crips WhoSampled.com 2014-05-19 Retrieved. 2014-05-19 ^ Bloods & Crips at AllMusic AllMusic.com 2014-05-17 Retrieved. 2014-05-17 ^ Bloods & Crips – Bangin On Wax Part III (No Passes) (2014, CD), retrieved 2021-03-29 ^ "Ronnie M Phillips". AncientFaces. Retrieved 2021-03-31. ^ Nationwide Rip Ridaz – Nationwide Rip Ridaz (CD), retrieved 2021-03-29 ^ "Damu Ridas". Discogs. Retrieved 2021-03-28. ^ Nationwide Rip Ridaz – Nationwide Rip Ridaz (CD), retrieved 2021-03-29 ^ "Kelly Park Compton Crips | StreetGangs.Com". Retrieved 2021-03-29. ^ "Damu Ridas".
Discogs. Retrieved 2021-03-29. ^ "Crenshaw Mafia Gang (CMG)". 2010-04-05. Retrieved 2021-03-29. ^ "Damu Ridas (Rap Group)". 2013-10-24. Retrieved 2021-03-29. ^ "Inglewood Website - News Details". 2007-06-22.
Archived from the original on 2007-06-22. Retrieved 2021-03-29. ^ mtdb8 (2018-10-19). "Its a BK All Day". Music To Drive By. Retrieved 2021-03-29. ^ "Gang-Infested Area's Real Enemies Are Drugs and Guns".
Los Angeles Times. 1997-01-30. Retrieved 2021-03-29. ^ "B-Brazy in Los Angeles | Rap - The Good Ol'Dayz". www.thegoodoldayz.com.
Retrieved 2021-03-29. External links Warlock Records & Dangerous Records official site. Bloods & Crips Archived 2014-10-10 at the Wayback Machine at Billboard. Bloods & Crips on iTunes Bloods & Crips discography at Discogs. Portals: Los Angeles California Retrieved from " 1 / 10Rapper Snoop Dogg ist ein aktives Mitglied der berüchtigten Gang Crips (darum die Vorliebe für Blau). Allerdings will er mit der Gewalt nichts zu tun haben, wie er in einem Interview mit dem «Spiegel» gestand. «Für mich zählt der Zusammenhalt», so der Musiker.
«Trotzdem muss man sagen, dass die Gewalt in Gangs kein Märchen ist.» Zusammen mit ...Instagram/Snoop Dogg... The Game, einem bekannten Mitglied der Bloods, rief er 2016 bei einer Demonstration zum Frieden zwischen der Polizei und der schwarzen Bevölkerung in den USA auf. Es war die Grundlage für ein Treffen von Snoop Dogg, The Game ...Instagram/Gangs... und anderen Mitgliedern der Bloods und Crips. Bei der Veranstaltung führte man den Anwesenden vor Augen, wie viele Menschen bei Gang-Rivalitäten ihr Leben verloren haben. Und betonte, dass...Instagram/losangelesconfidentialZusammen mit der örtlichen Polizei bemühte sich der am Sonntag ermordete US-Rapper Nipsey Hussle um Lösungen im Kampf gegen die zuletzt zunehmenden Gang-Konflikte in Los Angeles. Und der 33-Jährige wusste genau, wovon er sprach.
In seiner Jugend war er Mitglied der berüchtigten Crips-Gang. Was macht diese Banden so gefährlich?In Los Angeles sind Dutzende Gangs aktiv, zwei sind besonders berüchtigt: die Bloods und die Crips. Sie haben sich in den 1970er-Jahren in den Strassen im Viertel South Central in Los Angeles gebildet, genährt von Unterdrückung, Rassismus und fehlenden Entwicklungsperspektiven für die Bewohner.Raymond Washington war ein grosser Bewunderer der Black Panther Party, die sich für die Rechte der Schwarzen in den USA starkmachte. Aufgrund seiner Jugend durfte er der Gruppierung nicht beitreten, weshalb er mit anderen Jugendlichen 1969 die Gang «Baby Avenues» gründete. Schnell gewannen sie durch Diebstähle, Einbrüche und sogar Mord an Bedeutung und Einfluss.Das Erkennungsmerkmal der Mitglieder war ihre Kleidung, die aus einer schwarzen Lederjacke, beiger Hose und einem Spazierstock bestand. Letzerer trug vermutlich dazu bei, dass die Gang die Bezeichnung Crip (zu Deutsch: Krüppel) von der lokalen Presse erhielt. Der Name hat sich durchgesetzt, und steht nun auch für «Community Revolution in Progress».Aus einer Abspaltung der Crips entstanden 1972 die Bloods. Der Name ist kurz für «Blood Alliance» und wird auch in die Alltagssprache der Mitglieder integriert. Statt Hallo wird «Blood» als Gruss verwendet. Einige Mitglieder haben zudem drei mit einer Zigarette eingebrannte Punkte auf der rechten Schulter als Merkmal.Mitglieder der Crips sind an ihren blauen Bandanas zu erkennen. Im Gegensatz dazu tragen die Bloods rote Bandanas. Das Tragen von blauer oder roter Kleidung fand früher mehr Anklang, mittlerweile hat der Brauch bei den Mitgliedern an Bedeutung verloren. Beide Gangs sind für ihre Gewalttaten berüchtigt. Dabei schrecken sie auch vor Mord nicht zurück. Gemäss der «Los Angeles Times» warten rund 100 Mitglieder der beiden Banden derzeit in den USA in Todeszellen auf ihre Hinrichtung. Verbreitet und gefürchtet sind die sogenannten Drive-by-shootings. Sie dienen vor allem für Neumitglieder als Aufnahmeritual, bei dem aus dem fahrenden Auto auf ein Mitglied einer rivalisierenden Gang geschossen wird. Der Haken: Wer nicht trifft, kriegt oftmals selbst eine Kugel in den Kopf.Zudem gilt das Gesetz: Tötet ein Blood einen Crip, wird ein Blood von einem Crip getötet. US-Rapper The Game ist ein aktives Mitglied der Bloods. Der Musiker schloss sich schon früh der Gang an, was ihm bereits fünf Kugeln einbrachte. Er hat sich auch schon auf Social Media für die Bloods ausgesprochen.Auch Rapper Big WY ist Mitglied. Er begann sich «Ende der 80er darüber zu identifizieren, Teil des Ganglebens zu sein», wie er in einem Interview mit Noisey.com erzählt. Er veröffentlichte mit einigen Urgesteinen der Bande ausserdem den Song «Not for Sale», in dem es darum geht, dass grosse Künstler die Banden dafür bezahlen, in ihren Videos oder bei Fotoshootings die Gangfarben und -zeichen verwenden zu dürfen. Einer der bekanntesten Crips ist Rapper Snoop Dogg. «Ich landete bei den Rolling 20s. Es ging mir nie darum, Schlägereien anzuzetteln. Für mich zählte der Zusammenhalt. Trotzdem muss man sagen, dass die Gewalt in Gangs kein Märchen ist. Sie haben einen guten Freund von mir erschossen», erzählte der 47-Jährige dem «Spiegel».Sein Rapper-Kollege Vince Staples ist ebenfalls ein aktiver Crip. Nach einer sehr kriminellen Jugend versucht er das Image von Gangs, das immer noch viele Jugendliche anzieht, in der Öffentlichkeit bewusst zu ändern, indem er ungeschönt darüber spricht. «Ich bin der Gang beigetreten, weil ich Menschen töten wollte», verriet er 2015 dem «Guardian». «Ich wollte Menschen verletzen. Es gab keinen Grund: Es ist ein Blutdurst.» Mittlerweile konzentriert er sich auf seine Musik, seine Crip-Loyalität zeigt er dennoch weiterhin offen – auch auf Twitter.In Los Angeles gibt es laut einer Dokumentation von Arte über 40'000 Gang-Mitglieder, mehr als 4000 davon sind Frauen. Eine der bekanntesten ist Rapperin Cardi B. Die 26-Jährige ist gemäss Eigenaussage eine Blood, wie sie im Mai 2017 auf Twitter schrieb. «Ich bin eine Blood, seit ich 16 bin.» Neben den aktiven Mitgliedern gibt es auch berühmte Rapper, die sich mit den Farben, Bandanas und Zeichen der Gangs brüsten. So etwa der im Gefängnis sitzende 6ix9ine, der sich mit den New Yorker Bloods anfreundete. In seinen Hits ruft er immer wieder das Wort «treyway» – eine Anspielung auf die Gang. Im laufenden Prozess gegen den Rapper sagte sein Anwalt nun aber, er habe die Bloods nur benutzt, um sein Gangster-Image aufzumotzen. Auch Lil Eazy-E, Sohn von Rapper Eazy-E, pflegt gute Kontakte zu den Gangs – allerdings zu den Crips. Der 34-Jährige wuchs in der Gegend in Los Angeles auf, in dem die Kelly Park Compton Crips herrschen.Gemäss dem Los Angeles Police Department sind Gang-Morde und Schiessereien in den letzten Jahren wieder angestiegen. Gang-Experten führen die Zunahme der Morde laut der «NZZ» auf jüngere Bandenmitglieder zurück, die sich beweisen wollen. Zudem können sich diese nicht an die vereinbarte Waffenruhe zwischen den Crips und den Bloods erinnern, die unter anderem von The Game und Snoop Dogg 2016 initiiert wurde. Wenn du den People-Push abonnierst, verpasst du nichts mehr aus der Welt der Reichen, Schönen und Menschen, bei denen nicht ganz klar ist, warum sie eigentlich berühmt sind. So gehts: Installiere die neuste Version der 20-Minuten-App. Tippe auf dem Startbildschirm rechts oben auf die drei Streifen, dann auf das Zahnrad. Unten bei «Themen» schiebst du den Riegel bei «People» nach rechts – schon läufts. Auf Instagram ist das 20-Minuten-People-Team übrigens auch unterwegs.