Attorney Yueqi Yang is a dual-licensed attorney in California and Massachusetts, currently serving as an Associate Attorney at Causey & Ye Law, P.L.L.C. She focuses her practice on complex U.S. immigration law matters, including family-based and employment-based green cards, naturalization and citizenship, H-1B and other employment visas, visa extensions and reinstatements, change of status, as well as asylum and refugee status applications, including removal and deportation defense.

Personal Introduction

Attorney Yang earned her Juris Doctor from The George Washington University School of Law, where she was a member of the George Washington Journal of Energy & Environmental Law and actively participated in the Civil and Human Rights Clinic. She also holds dual Bachelor's degrees in Sociology and Japanese Language and Literature from the University of California, Santa Barbara.

She has extensive experience representing clients before EOIR and Immigration Courts, conducting in-depth legal research, and preparing country condition reports to support asylum and removal defense claims. Attorney Yang also gained practical legal experience at Magaletta, McCarthy & Nader, P.C., where she assisted in asylum and cancellation of removal cases, as well as at the Shanghai Jingan District People's Court, where she supported judicial and administrative functions.

Fluent in English and Mandarin, with intermediate proficiency in Japanese, Attorney Yang brings a global perspective to her practice. Her multicultural background and legal expertise allow her to guide clients through the complex and often stressful U.S. immigration process with clarity, compassion, and precision.

Achievements and Highlights

- Provide comprehensive representation in family-based and employment-based green card applications, helping numerous families and professionals secure permanent residency in the U.S.
- Successfully prepared and filed H-1B petitions, visa extensions, and change of status applications, ensuring compliance with complex USCIS requirements.
- Represent clients in asylum and refugee cases, including preparation of I-589 applications, country conditions evidence, legal research, and collaboration with senior attorneys on high-stakes matters before USCIS and EOIR.
- Defend clients in removal and deportation proceedings, drafting motions, preparing briefs, negotiating with DHS, and representing clients in court hearings.
- Guide clients through the citizenship and naturalization process, addressing issues such as continuous residence, good moral character, and prior immigration complications.
- Work closely with clients facing inadmissibility issues to prepare strong hardship waivers (I-601, I-601A), emphasizing both humanitarian and family-based factors.
- Draft and respond to Requests for Evidence (RFEs) and Notices of Intent to Deny (NOIDs), securing favorable outcomes in challenging cases.
- Support petitions under the EB-2 National Interest Waiver (NIW) and EB-1A extraordinary ability categories, helping scholars, researchers, and professionals demonstrate eligibility.
- Deliver multilingual legal services to diverse international clients, strengthening access to justice for immigrant communities.
