Authentic Flavours of Africa

Common ingredients for fish feed pellet making include fishmeal, soybean meal, wheat flour, fish oil, vitamins, and minerals.

These ingredients are mixed in specific proportions to ensure a balanced diet for the fish.

Fishmeal is a natural and well-balanced source of high-quality protein. As ingredients in aquaculture feed, fishmeal and fish oil supply essential amino acids and fatty acids reflected in the normal diet of fish.

Whether floating or sinking, your fish feed needs are all fulfilled for fish of all sizes, shapes and ages, ensuring healthy nutrition every step of the way.

Our deluxe fish feed pellets are specially formulated to float, thus they have been produced under best manufacturing practices (BMP).

We supply excellent quality, fish feed to the African aquaculture sector.

- Floating pellets: Floating fish feed pellets are usually used in larger underlings, food fish and broodfish. Floating on the surface of the water, the fish come up to the surface to eat. The farmer can observe their fish each day, which helps in monitoring their health and vigor. Also they can adjust the amount of feed per day and minimize wasted feed and pond pollution problem due to easier monitoring of unconsumed pellets.

- Sinking pellets: Sinking fish feed pellets are ideally used for heavier fish that tend to remain at the bottom of the feeding tanks - they are usually slower in their movement and consumption and thus they can take their time feeding on the sunken feed.

Our experts are ready to support you, and consult with you on what products are best for you.
