WELCOME

to Bluffton

Bluffton is more than just a quaint, charming southern town—it’s a “State of Mind,” as any Blufftonian will tell you. Bluffton has been lauded as the most charming small town in the South, and once you experience it, you’ll understand why. Its laid-back pace of life and eclectic collection of shops, galleries, and eateries is a stroll back in Southern time.

Shrimp and grits anyone? How about a sweet oyster straight from the May River? You can’t leave Bluffton without sampling one of its best-kept secrets that locals have always enjoyed: restaurants, cafes, and outdoor patios filled with Lowcountry seafood, live music, and friendly folks who know how to enjoy the simple pleasures of Southern life.

Meander down to the waterfront Oyster Factory Park, home to South Carolina’s only working oyster factory, Bluffton Oyster Company, and the Garvin-Garvey House, one of the first freedmen’s homes, built in 1870.

Bluffton is a town that takes its parks seriously. Don’t be surprised if you turn the corner and find yourself in a “pocket park” draped in Spanish moss and steeped in history and charm.

In Old Town Bluffton, you’ll find a unique collection of shops and galleries topped off by the picturesque, historic Church of the Cross at the end of Calhoun Street. Built in 1857, it was noted by Southern Living magazine among the best places in the South to catch the sunset.

Bluffton has its fair share of unique luxe accommodations. The Forbes 5-star Montage Palmetto Bluff is an experience not to be missed. With its firepit s’mores along the river, equestrian center, and beautiful backdrop of centuries-old live oaks, it beckons you to stay for a while.

The Old Town Bluffton Inn is just steps away from historic Calhoun Street. You can’t call your stay in Bluffton complete without trying their custom-blend Pluff Mudd coffee.

Bluffton is known as the Heart of the Lowcountry™. Blufftonians are proud of their town and the Bluffton “State of Mind.” Bluffton’s roots run deep, and its charm is endless. Spend a day or spend a lifetime ... you’ll be glad you did.

LAY of the LAND

Welcome to the Heart of the Lowcountry™.

Experience the Lowcountry's gentle allure. In Bluffton, you'll discover a rare sense of place, full of the charm of a time past and the energy of the present. Stroll down centuries-old streets lined with stately oaks dripping with lacy Spanish moss. Enjoy the majestic natural beauty of the May River. The river relies on tidal shifts from the ocean. This unique saltwater environment has made the May River an oasis for oysters, shrimp, crabs, and saltwater finfish. Get to know the friendly locals. Bluffton, you'll soon learn, is a town with its own state of mind. Roll down the windows, breathe in the salty air, and make yourself at home.

GO BACK IN TIME

Walkable Old Town Bluffton is steeped in rich history.

By Linda Lanier

Campbell Chapel AME Church and oysters illustrations by Robin Sutton Anders

The Church of the Cross

Ancient majestic oak trees have been keeping watch over Bluffton for over two hundred years.

Nestled on the banks of the May River, Bluffton, which is only one square mile, began about 1805 as a haven for folks who wanted to enjoy the breezes from the river that tempered the summer heat. These original Blufftonians built cottages and even a few grander houses, then churches when there were enough people to attend the services. The steamboat ran from Savannah to Beaufort in those days and brought supplies and visitors to the dock at the end of Calhoun Street (where it still stands today).

After facing Union Army gunboats and fire during the Civil War in 1863, today it is a vibrant community that blends the old and the new, and where remembrances of the past are as ever-present as the Spanish moss that drapes the little town in lacy finery.

There is a sense of familiarity about Bluffton, even if you've never been here before. The quintessential Southern town—actually more of a village—Old Town Bluffton was designated a National Register Historic District in 1996. The Heyward House Historic Center, an 1840s farmhouse turned museum, doubles as the town's welcome center and offers walking tours through the historic district, an enjoyable way to learn about the fascinating history and the heritage of Old Town Bluffton.

After Union forces razed the town, only 15 homes survived, along with the two churches and a few businesses. Among the antebellum structures that remain today are the 1830s Fripp House, with its stately three stories and white fence, and Seven Oaks, built in 1850, which served as a popular boarding house for summer visitors after the Civil War. The interior of the original section has remained unchanged. The 1850s Allen-Lockwood House and the John Seabrook House were built as summer cottages.

TWO HISTORIC CHURCHES

Campbell Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Church and The Anglican Church of the Cross, have served Bluffton for over a century and continue to be at the center of the town's spiritual and cultural life. Both Campbell Chapel AME Church and The Church of the Cross have been added to the National Register of Historic Places.

Campbell Chapel AME Church

was established by nine African American freedmen in 1874, who purchased the church building from another congregation. It was enhanced and enlarged over the years to accommodate its growth. The church, on Boundary Street, is cared for by descendants of the original founders.

The Church of the Cross

located at the end of Calhoun Street, dates to 1857. The church was spared during the burning of Bluffton and has served as a house of worship for over 150 years.

GULLAH CULTURE

Traditions and heritage live on.

By Linda Lanier

Campbell Chapel AME Church

For more than 300 years, the Gullah, descendants of slaves, have lived in the Lowcountry of South Carolina. Brought against their will from West and Central Africa, they endured hardship and heartbreak. After emancipation, they made a new home on the Daufuskie and Saint Helena sea islands. These native islanders and their ancient culture remain a vibrant thread in the fabric of Bluffton life.

After the Civil War and well into the 20th century, the Gullah community continued to live in relative isolation on islands with no bridges and little contact with the mainland. Fishing, oystering, and farming were the way of life. Much of the Lowcountry's beloved food culture originated with the Gullah—rice perlo, okra gumbo, shrimp and gravy, cooked with spices and time-honored African cooking methods.

The rich Gullah creole dialect, a distinctive mixture of English and African languages, is still spoken and written. One of the best-known Gullah expressions, “Kumbaya,” translated “come by here,” found its way into a famous folk song. And Gullah sweetgrass baskets, treasured for their beauty and artistry, are sewn by hand today as they were in the 18th century.

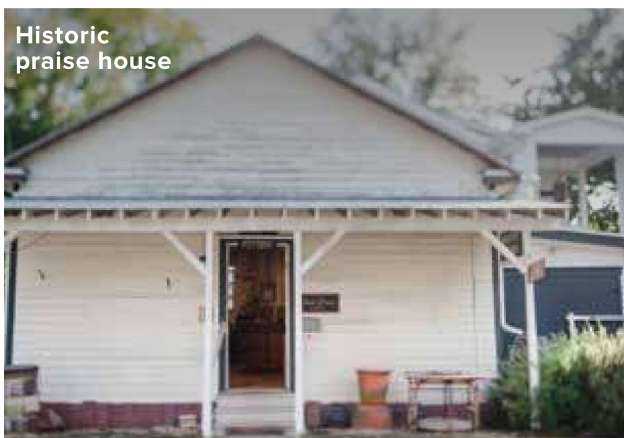

Spiritual life remains at the heart of Gullah culture. Small historic praise houses are tucked under majestic oak trees, and the New Testament has been translated into Gullah.

About 20 minutes from Bluffton, Historic Mitchelville, located on Hilton Head Island's Port Royal Sound, was America's first self-governed town of freed slaves. Established in 1862 by General Ormsby Mitchel, the commander of the Union forces that occupied Hilton Head Island, the town was built by and for formerly enslaved people who were granted their freedom, prior to the Emancipation Proclamation, in the Port Royal Experiment. Gullah people, direct descendants of Mitchelville, continue to tell their story through the Historic Mitchelville Freedom Park and the Mitchelville Preservation Project. Storytelling is an important way to bring awareness of the Gullah way of life in the Lowcountry and preserve the rich past and importance of this centuries-old culture.

5 REASONS WHY...

Bluffton is the place to go this year!

1 Soak up that Vitamin D. Bluffton enjoys a mild, sub-tropical climate all year long. A trip in March or November is just as enjoyable as a June or July visit. Whether it's kayaking, biking, fishing along the May River, or going on a guided tour through Old Town, there's a new adventure to be had each and every beautiful day.

2 Get Creative. Whether you're looking for a locally made piece as a souvenir or you're a serious collector of fine art, Bluffton offers a lovely array of art galleries featuring acrylics, mixed media, pottery, woodcarvings, and photography, as well as local and traveling exhibits and art shows. Read more on p. 30.

3 Eat Local. Bluffton's thriving oyster industry means it's practically mandatory you try the local specialty while in town. Learn more on p. 27.

4 Taste the Seasons. On Thursday afternoons year round, find vegetables, fruits, flowers, plants, and herbs—all from nearby—plus a potpourri of artisan quality food at the Farmers Market of Bluffton. Read more on p. 22.

5 Explore it all. Spend a few hours in charming Old Town. It's never been easier thanks to Bluffton Bike Taxi, offering rides throughout the Historic District. Get ideas for more activities in Bluffton on p. 19.

GETTING HERE

Time to explore...

By Linda Lanier

Sometimes referred to as “the last true coastal village of the South,” the best way to get to know Bluffton is through its waterways. Much of life here revolves around the May River—you can’t leave town without swimming, boating, or having a fresh-caught seafood picnic along its shores.

Outdoor lovers will want to explore even further. Renting a kayak or canoe is a great way to explore Bluffton’s marshland. The views are spectacular, and you’re likely to spot bottlenose dolphins and seabirds on your paddle. There are also fishing and boat charters available, plus guided tours and family outings.

No matter the adventure you choose, soak up the fresh air, feel the sunshine on your face, and #LoveBlufftonSC!

HOME COOKING

MEET ONE LOCAL CHEF WHO PROVIDES RESTAURANT-QUALITY FOOD FOR VISITORS TO ENJOY.

By Linda Lanier

Bridgette Frazier, a Bluffton native, learned to cook in the kitchen of her grandmother, Daisy Frazier. After teaching school for 15 years, she realized her calling in cooking for others and opened Chef B's Eatz food truck and Deliciously Couture. Taste her creations by tracking down her food truck or digging into one of her catered meals.

A Gullah connoisseur, Frazier's grandmother taught her how to prepare authentic Gullah dishes like red rice, gumbo, cornbread, and crab cakes. Her father, Oscar Frazier, the owner of a Bluffton barbecue joint, Oscar's BBQ, taught her the art of barbecue. She attended Le Cordon Bleu College of Culinary Arts in Florida and expanded her knowledge of techniques and cooking styles. Today, Frazier offers her customers beef bourguignon and beef tenderloin alongside regional favorites like shrimp and grits and peach cobbler.

Frazier's red rice, an authentic Gullah dish of rice, tomatoes, onions, peppers, and spices—with a little pork added—is one of her signature dishes. Most people are familiar with gumbo, but her Gullah version combines okra, tomatoes, and spices for a distinctive flavor.

With so much plentiful seafood in the area, Frazier uses fresh-off-the-boat crab in her Deviled Crab, based on an old family recipe. She serves gumbo fries topped with fried local shrimp and incorporates fresh local shrimp in hibachi bowls with fried rice, teriyaki chicken, and yummy sauce. And she uses local oysters in rice perlo—"or perloo, as some people call it," she says.

"Even when times are challenging, we can adapt. People always want good food!"

BLUFFTON'S NEW EATERY COMBINES A POWERHOUSE CHEF AND LOCAL FARMERS TO CELEBRATE EVERY PART OF THE REGION'S BEST.

By Jessie Rumbley

Around here, fresh and local seafood is a given most anywhere you go. Lowcountry Fresh Market and Cafe, which opened in spring 2021, takes it up a notch by serving a menu based on local seafood and produce alongside a marketplace of fresh fruits and veggies plus gourmet prepared foods. If you're eating it, it came from somewhere nearby.

The concept is a locavore's delight, proudly partnering with the Gullah Farmers' Cooperative. On the market side, three-quarters of the shelf space features regional produce, and the rest are add-ons like prepared meals, smoothies, and baked goods. On the restaurant side, head chef Benjamin "B.J." Dennis draws on his Charleston roots and Gullah expertise to cook up breakfast and lunch dishes that showcase the best of the Lowcountry. It's all part of the mission, "cultivating community." The way to any Southerner's heart is through their stomach—the team at Lowcountry Fresh wants you to think about the folks who grow your food, too.

SHELL-ICIOUS

Bluffton's thriving oyster industry means it's practically mandatory you try the local specialty while in town. Here's a cheat sheet to tasting an oyster in three stages.

SALINITY: The first and sometimes primary flavor. A fully saline oyster can be described as briny. An oyster with minimal salinity can taste flat, sweet, or almost buttery.

TEXTURE: An oyster's texture should be soft and fleshy, crisp on the palate.

FINISH: The last flavors you'll commonly experience after tasting an oyster include mineral, metallic, melon, cucumber, and with earthy hints.

WHAT'S BREWING

Sip the spirits of the Lowcountry.

In the Lowcountry, a “cold beer” used to be any basic brew in a can. Luckily, those days are long gone, and Bluffton boasts its own craft beer and distilling scene today. From a refreshing pilsner to a hearty IPA and even locally made whiskey, there’s something on tap for everyone.

BURNT CHURCH DISTILLERY

120 Bluffton Road

New to Bluffton is this expansive distillery and tasting room, where you can find “completely unique” whiskey and bourbon. Every offering has an anecdote and bit of folklore. Make yourself comfortable in the Sanctuary Tasting Room and sip Bluffton Whiskey, Burnt Church Vodka, or Devil’s Elbow Gin. Choose flights or cocktails, and a non-alcoholic special is always on the menu. Gather with friends for an “out of the ordinary” experience—and check out the mouth-watering gourmet pies at Pizza Co. Afternoon music in the courtyard adds to the fun.

350 Mt. Pelia Rd.

This award-winning 18-hole course designed by Jack Nicklaus is as unique as it is inviting. For every skill level, the private course (with an open visitor policy) features a scenic layout that meanders alongside the May River. Fairways wind past ancient live oaks, and slopes undulate to challenge putting skills. Nicklaus imported sand from Ohio as its angular grain adheres well to sloped surfaces and sustains well with coastal weather. The course is open year round.

OLD SOUTH GOLF LINKS

50 Buckingham Plantation Dr.

Just minutes from downtown Bluffton, Old South has received awards and accolades since its debut in 1991. The rolling terrain and towering live oaks burst with abundant wildlife—wood storks, hawks, deer, and alligators in nearby lagoons. The course has also been commended for its consistency of course conditioning and outstanding customer service.

HILTON HEAD NATIONAL GOLF CLUB

60 Hilton Head National Drive

You'll use every club on this challenging, award-winning public course located one mile from the bridges connecting Bluffton to Hilton Head Island. Earning a score of 4.6 out of 5 by GolfAdvisor, Hilton Head National was designed in 1989 by Hall of Famer Gary Player and heralded course designer Bobby Weed. At its debut, Gary Player described the course as "truly a treat to be given 300 acres of the best tree-rich bottom land I have ever seen." Hilton Head National is open year round and offers an open visitor policy.

IMAGINE living HERE

*“The last true coastal village of the South.”
You could call it home.*

Bluffton blooms as a residential community. Among playing golf, shopping, and enjoying the dramatic natural beauty of the May River estuary, not to mention the true Southern hospitality, it’s no surprise Bluffton is now one of the fastest growing communities in South Carolina.

Having the magical Lowcountry coast right in your backyard never gets old. “People want open space, a backyard, the ability to go outside,” says Cindy Creamer, a realtor with Dunes Real Estate. “They want to go get in the water!” Whether you buy a charming cottage or build the house of your dreams, the unique spirit and relaxed pace of Bluffton is hard to beat. Go ahead, imagine what it might be like to call this place home. Learn more at VisitBluffton.org/living-here.
