Enter Flowerdale the Merchant, and his Brother.

FATHER.

Brother, from Venice, being thus disguis'd,
I come to prove the Humours of my Son: How hath he borne himself since my Departure, I leaving you his Patron and his Guide?

Unc. 'Tis faith, Brother, so, as you will grieve to hear, And I almost ashamed to report it.

Fath. Why how is't Brother? What, doth he spend Beyond the Allowance I left him?

Unc. How! beyond that? and far more; why, your Exhibition is nothing; he hath spent that, and since hath borrow'd, protested with Oaths, alleged Kindred to wring Money from me, by the Love I bore his Father, by the Fortunes might fall upon himself, to furnish his Wants: That done, I have had since his Bond, his Friend and Friends Bond; although I know that he spends is yours, yet it grieves me to see the unbridled Wildness that reigns over him.

Fath. Brother, what is the manner his Life? how is the Name of his Offences? if they do not relish altogether of Damnation, his Youth may privilege his Wantonness: I myself ran an unbridled Course 'till thirty, nay, almost 'till forty; well, you see, how I am: For Vice once looked into with the Eyes of Discretion, and well ballanced with the Weights of Reason, the Course past, seems so abominable, that the Landlord of himself, which is the Heart of his Body, will rather intomb himself in the Earth, or seek a new Tenant to remain in him, which once settled, how much better are they that in their Youth have known all these Vices, and left 'em, than those that knew little, and in their Age run into 'em? Believe me, Brother, they that die most Virtuous, hath in their Youth liv'd most Vicious; and none knows the Danger of the Fire more than he that falls into it: But say, how is the Course of his Life? let's hear his Particulars.

Unc. Why I'll tell you, Brother, he is a continual Swearer, and a Breaker of his Oaths, which is bad.

Fact. I grant indeed to Swear is bad, but not in keeping those Oaths is better; for who will set by a bad thing? Nay, by my Faith, I hold this rather a Virtue than a Vice. Well, I pray, proceed.

Unc. He is a mighty Brawler, and comes commonly by the worst.

Fact. By my Faith this is none of the worst neither, for if he brawl and be beaten for it, it will in time make him shun it: For what brings a Man or Child more to Virtue than Correction? What reigns over him else?

Unc. He is a great Drinker, and one that will forget himself.

Fact. Of all, Vice should be forgotten, let him drink on, so he drink not Churches. Nay, and this be the worst, I hold it rather Happines in him, than any Iniquity. Hath he any more Attendants?

Unc. Brother, he is one that will borrow of any Man.

Fact. Why you see so doth the Sea, it borrows of all the small Currents in the World to encrease himself.

Unc. Ay, but the Sea pays it again, and so will never your Son.

Fact. No more would the Sea, neither, if it were as dry as my Son.

Unc. Then, Brother, I see you rather like these Vices in your Son, than any way condemn them.

Fact. Nay mistake me not, Brother, for though I shew them over now, as Things slight and nothing, his Crimes being in the Bud, it would gait my Heart, they should ever reign in him.

Flow. Ho? who's within ho?

Flowerdale knocks within.

Unc. That's your Son, he is come to borrow more Mony.

Fact. For God's Sake give it out, I am dead.
See how he'll take it.
Say, I have brought you News from his Father.
I have here drawn a formal Will, as it were from myself.
Which I'll deliver him.

Unc. Go to, Brother, no more: I will.
Flow. Uncle, where are you, Uncle? [Within.
Unc. Let my Cousin in there.
Fath. I am a Sailor come from Venice, and my Name is Christopher.

Enter Flowerdale.

Flow. By the Lord, in Truth, Uncle.
Unc. In Truth would a serv'd, Cousin, without the Lord.

Flow. By your Leave, Uncle, the Lord is the Lord of Truth. A Couple of Rascals at the Gate, set upon me for my Purse.

Unc. You never come, but you bring a Brawl in your Mouth.

Flow. By my Truth, Uncle, you must needs lend me ten Pound.

Unc. Give my Cousin some small Beer here.

Flow. Nay look you, you turn it to a Jest now, by this Light, I should ride to Crowden Fair, to meet Sir Lancelot Sparrock, I should have his Daughter Vive, and for fourty ten Pound, a Man shall lose nine hundred threescore and odd Pounds, and a daily Friend beside, by this Hand, Uncle, 'tis true.

Unc. Why, any thing is true for ought I know.

Flow. To see now; why you shall have my Bond, Uncle, Tom White's, James Brock's, or Nick Hall's; as good Rapier and Dagger Men, as any be in England; let's be damn'd if we do not pay you, the world of us all will not damn ourselves for ten Pound. A-Pox of ten Pound.

Unc. Cousin, this is not the first time I have believ'd you.

Flow. Why trust me now, you know not what may fall; if one Thing were but true, I would not greatly care, I should not need ten Pound, but when a Man cannot be believ'd, there's it.

Unc. Why what is it, Cousin?

Flow. Marry this, Uncle, can you tell me if the Katerne Hue be come home or no?

Unc. Ay marry is't.
Flow. By Gad I thank you for that News.
What, is't in the Pool can you tell?
Unc. It is; what of that?
Flow. What? why then I have six Pieces of Velvet sent me, I'll give you a Piece, Uncle: For thus said the Letter, a Piece of Ash-colour, a three-pil'd black, a colour'd Deroy, a Crimson, a sad Green, and a Purple: Ye, i'faith.
Unc. From whom should you receive this?
Flow. From who? why from my Father; with Commmendations to you, Uncle, and thus he writes; I know, faith he, thou hast much troubled thy kind Uncle, whom God willing at my Return I will see amply satisfied, amply I remember was the very Word; so God help me.
Unc. Have you the Letter here?
Flow. Yes, I have the Letter here, here is the Letter:
No, yes, no, let me see, what Breeches wore I on Saturday: Let me see, a Tuesday, my Calamanka, a Wednesday, my Peach-colour Sattin, a Thursday, my Vellure, a Friday, my Calamanka again, a Saturday, let me see, a Saturday. for in those Breeches I wore a Saturday is the Letter: O my riding Breeches, Uncle, those that you thought had been Velvet, in those very Breeches is the Letter.
Unc. When should it be dated?
Flow. Marry Didissimo tercis Septembris, no, no, trilissimo tertio Octobris, Ay Octobris, so it is.
Unc. Didissimo tertis Octobris: And here receive I a Letter that your Father died in June: How say you, Kester?
Keth. Yes truly, Sir, your Father is dead, these Hands of mine holf to wind him.
Flow. Dead?
Keth. Ay, Sir, dead.
Flow. 'Sblood, how should my Father come dead?
Keth. I'faith Sir, according to the old Proverb, The Child was Born, and cried, became Man,
After fell Sick, and Died.
Unc. Nay, Cousin, do not take it so heavily.
Flow. Nay, I cannot weep you Extempory; marry some two or three Days hence I shall weep without any Stittance. But I hope he died in good Memory.
Keth. Very well, Sir, and set down every Thing in good Order, and the Katherine and How you talkt of, I came over in; and I saw all the Bills of Lading, and the Velvet that you talkt of, there is no such aboard.
Flow.
The London Prodigal.

Flow. By Gad, I assure you, then there's Knavery abroad.

Fath. I'll be sworn of that; there's Knavery abroad, altho' there was never a Piece of Velvet in Venice.

Flow. I hope he died in good Estate.

Fath. To the Report of the World he did, and made his Will, of which I am an unworthy Bearer.

Flow. His Will, have you his Will?

Fath. Yes, Sir, and in the Presence of your Uncle I was willed to deliver it.

Unc. I hope, Cousin, now God hath blessed you with Wealth, you will not be unmindful of me.

Flow. I'll do Reason, Uncle; yet 'tis faith I take the Denial of this ten Pound very hardly.

Unc. Nay, I denied you not.

Flow. By Gad you deny'd me directly.

Unc. I'll be judg'd by this good Fellow.

Fath. Not directly, Sir.

Flow. Why, he said, he would lend me none, and that had wont to be a direct Denial, if the old Phrase hold: Well Uncle, come we'll fall to the Legacies. In the Name of God, Amen.

Item, I bequeath to my Brother Flowerdale, three hundred Pounds, to pay such trivial Debts as I owe in London.

Item, To my Son Mat. Flowerdale, I bequeath two Bail of false Dice, videlicet, high Men and low Men, Fullomes, stop Cater Traies, and other Bones of Function.

Flow. 'Sblood, what doth he mean by this?

Unc. Proceed, Cousin.

Flow. These Precepts I leave him, Let him borrow of his Oath, for of his Word no body will trust him. Let him by no means marry an honest Woman, for the other will keep herself. Let him steal as much as he can, that a guilty Conscience may bring him to his destinate Repentance: I think he means Hanging. And this were his last Will and Testament, the Devil stood laughing at his Bed's Feet while he made it. 'Sblood, what doth he think to lop off his Posterity with Paradoxes?

Fath. This he made, Sir, with his own Hands.

Flow. Ay, well, nay come, good Uncle, let me have this ten Pound, imagine you have lost it, or robb'd of it, or misreckon'd yourself so much; any way to make it come easily off, good Uncle.
Unc. Not a Penny.

Fath. I'faith lend it him, Sir, I myself have an Estate in the City worth twenty Pound, all that I'll engage for him, he faith it concerns him in a Marriage.

Flow. Ay marry doth it, this is a Fellow of some Sense, this: Come good Uncle.

Unc. Will you give your Word for it, Kester?

Fath. I will, Sir, willingly.

Unc. Well, Cousin, come to me an Hour hence, you shall have it ready.

Flow. Shall I not fail?

Unc. You shall not, come or send.

Flow. Nay, I'll come myself.

Fath. By my Troth, would I were your Worship's Man.

Flow. What? would'st thou serve?

Fath. Very willingly, Sir.

Flow. Why I'll tell thee what thou shalt do, thou say'st thou hast twenty Pound, go into Birchin-Lane, put thy self into Cloaths, thou shalt ride with me to Croydon Fair.

Fath. I thank you, Sir, I will attend you.

Flow. Well, Uncle, you will not fail me an Hour hence.

Unc. I will not, Cousin.

Flow. What's thy Name, Kester?

Fath. Ay, Sir.

Flow. Well, provide thyself: Uncle farewell 'till anon.

Unc. Brother, how do you like your Son?

Fath. I'faith Brother, like a mad unbridled Colt,

Or as a Hawk, that never stoop'd to lure;

The one must be tamed with an Iron Bit,

The other must be watch'd, or still she is wild;

Such is my Son, a while let him be so;

For Counsel still is Folly's deadly Foe.

I'll serve his Youth, for Youth must have his Course,

For being restrain'd, it makes him ten times worse;

His Pride, his Riot, all that may be nam'd,

Time may recall, and all his Madness tam'd,

[Exeunt.

Enter Sir Lancelot, Master Weathercock, Daffidil, Artichoak, Luce and Frank.

Lanc. Sirrah, Artichoak, get you home before;

And as you prov'd yourself a Calf in buying,

Drive home your Fellow-Calves that you have bought.
Art. Yes, forsooth, shall not my Fellow Daffidil go along with me?

Lanc. No, Sir, no; I must have one to wait on me.

Art. Daffidil, farewell, good Fellow Daffidil.

You may see, Mistref, I am set up by the Halves,
Instead of waiting on you, I am sent to drive home Calves.

Lanc. I'faith Frank, I must turn away this Daffidil:

He's grown a very foolish sawcy Fellow.

Fran. Indeed, Father, he was so since I had him:

Before he was wise enough for a foolish Serving-Man.

Weath. But what say you to me, Sir Lancelot?

Lanc. O, about my Daughters, well, I will go forward:

Here's two of them, God save them; but the third,

O she's a Stranger in her Course of Life,

She hath refused you, Master Weathercock.

Weath. A, by the Road, Sir Lancelot, that she hath,

But had she try'd me, she should have found a Man of me indeed.

Lanc. Nay, be not angry, Sir, at her Denial, she hath refus'd seven of the worshipful it, and worthiest Housekeepers this Day in Kent: Indeed she will not marry, I suppose.

Weath. The more Fool she.

Lanc. What, is it Folly to love Chastity?

Weath. No, misthe me not, Sir Lancelot,

But 'tis an old Proverb, and you know it well,

That Women dying Maids, lead Apes in Hell.

Lanc. That's a foolish Proverb and a false.

Weath. By the Mafs, I think it be, and therefore let it go:

But who shall marry with Mistref Frances;

Fran. By my Troth they are talking of Marrying me.

Sister.

Luce. Peace, let them talk:

Fools may have Leave to Prattle as they Walk:

Daff. Sentences still, sweet Mistref,

You have a Wit; and it were your Alabaster.

Luce. I'faith and thy Tongue trips trench more.

Lanc. No of my Knighthood, not a Suiter yet;

Alas, God help her, silly Girl, a Fool, a very Fool;

But there's the other black Brows a shrewd Girl,

She hath Wit at Will, and Suiters two or three;

Sir Arthur Greenfield one; a gallant Knight,

A valiant Soldier, but his Power but poor.

Then there's young Oliver, the Devonshire Lad,
The London Prodigal.

A wary Fellow, marry full of Wit,
And rich by the Rood; but there's a third all Air,
Light as a Feather, changing as the Wind:
Young Flowerdale.

Weath. O he, Sir, he's a desperate Dick indeed:
Bar him your Houfe.

Lanc. Fie, not so, he's of good Parentage.

Weath. By my say and so he is, and a proper Man.

Lanc. Ay, proper enough, had he good Qualities.

Weath. Ay, marry, there's the Point, Sir Lancelot:
For there's an old saying,
Be he rich, or be he poor,
Be he high, or be he low:
'Tis Manners makes the Man and all.

Lanc. You are in the right, Master Weathercock.

Enter Monfieur Civet.

Civ. Soul, I think I am crossed sure, or witcht with an Owl, I have haunted them, Inn after Inn, Booth after Booth, yet cannot find them; ha, yonder they are, that's she, I hope to God 'tis she, nay, I know 'tis she now, for she treads her Shoe a little awry.

Lanc. Where is this Inn? We art past it, Daffiel.

Daf. The good Sign is here, Sir, but the black Gate is before.

Civ. Save you, Sir, I pray may I borrow a Piece of a Word with you?

Daf. No Pieces, Sir.

Civ. Why then the whole.

I pray, Sir, what may yonder Gentlewomen be?

Daf. They may be Ladies, Sir, if the Destinies and Mortality work.

Civ. What's her Name, Sir?

Daf. Mistress Frances Spurcock, Sir Lancelot Spurcock's Daughter.

Civ. Is she a Maid, Sir.

Daf. You must ask Pluto, and Dame Proserpine that:
I would be loth to be ridled, Sir.

Civ. Is she married I mean, Sir?

Daf. The Fates know not yet what Shoe-maker shall make her Wedding Shoes.

Civ. I pray where Inn you, Sir? I would be very glad to bestow the Wine of that Gentlewoman.

Daf. At the George, Sir.

Civ. God save you, Sir.
The London Prodigal.

Daf. I pray your Name, Sir?
Civ. My Name is Master Civet, Sir.
Daf. A sweet Name, God be with you, good Master Civet.

Lanc. Ay, have we spy'd your stout St. George?
For all your Dragon, you had best fell's good Wine.
That needs no Ivy Bush: Well, we'll not fit by it,
As you do on your Horse, this Room shall serve:
Drawer, let me have Sacks for us Old Men;
For these Girls and Knaves small Wines are best.
A Pint of Sack, no more.

Draw. A Quart of Sack in the three Tuns.
Lanc. A Pint, draw but a Pint. Daffodil.
Call for Wine to make yourselves drink.

Fran. And a Cup of Small Beer, and a Cake, good Daffodil.

Enter Young Flowerdale.

Lanc. Nay Royster, by your Leave we will away.

Flow. Come, give some Musick, we'll go Dance.
Be gone, Sir Lancelot, what and fair Day too?

Lanc. 'Twere fouly done, to dance within the Fair.

Flow. Nay if you say so, fairest of all Fairs; then I'll not dance; a Pox upon my Taylor, he hath spoild me a Peach-colour Sattin Suit, cut upon Cloth of Silver, but if ever the Rascal serve me such another Trick, I'll give him Leave, 'I'faith, to put me in the Calendar of Fools and you, and you, Sir Lancelot; and Master Weathercock, my Goldsmith too on t'other side, I bespoke thee, Luck, a Carkenet of Gold, and thought thou shouldst a had it for a Fairing, and the Rogue puts me in Reages for Orient Pearl; but thou shalt have it by Sunday Night, Wench.

Enter the Drawer.

Draw. Sir, here is one that hath sent you a Bottle of Rhenish Wine, brewed with Rose-Water.

Flow. To me?

Draw. No, Sir, to the Knight; and desires his more Acquaintance.

Lanc. To me? What's he that proves so kind?

Daf. I have a Trick to know his Name, Sir, he hath
The London Prodigal.

30. Month's Mind here to Mistress Frances, his Name is Master Civet.

Lanc. Call him in, Daffidil.

Flow. O, I know him, Sir, he is a Fool, but reasonable Rich, his Father was one of these Lease-mongers, these Corn-mongers, these Money-mongers, but he never had the Wit to be a Whore-monger.

Enter Master Civet.

Lanc. I promise you, Sir, you are at too much Charge.

Civ. The Charge is small Charge, Sir, I thank God my Father left me wherewithal; if it please you, Sir, I have a great Mind to this Gentlewoman here, in the way of Marriage.

Lanc. I thank you, Sir; please you to come to Lewsome, to my poor House, you shall be kindly welcome: I knew your Father, he was a wary Husband. To pay here, Drawer?

Draw. All is paid, Sir; this Gentleman hath paid all.

Lanc. I'faith you do us wrong. But we shall live to make amends ere long:

Master Flowardale, is that your Man?

Flow. Yes Faith, a good old Knave.

Lanc. Nay then I think you will turn wise, Now you take such a Servant:

Come, you'll ride with us to Lewsome, let's away,
'Tis scarce two Hours to the End of Day. [Exeunt.

Enter Sir Arthur Greenhood, Oliver, Lieutenant and Soldiers.

Arth. Lieutenant, lead your Soldiers to the Ships, There let them have their Coats, at their Arrival They shall have Pay; farewel, look to your Charge.

Sol. Ay, we are now sent away, and cannot so much as speak with our Friends.

Oli. No Man what ere you used a zuch a Fashion, thick you cannot take your Leave of your Vreens.

Arth. Fellow, no more. Lieutenant lead them off.

Sol. Well, if I have not my Pay and my Cloaths, I'll venture a running away, though I hang for't.

Arth. Away, Sirrah, charm your Tongue: [Exeunt Soldiers.

Oli. Bin you a Presser, Sir?

Arth. I am a Commander, Sir, under the King.

Oli. 'Shoot, Man, and you be ne'er zuch a Command, Shud a spoke with my Vreens before I chid a goy.
Arb. Content yourself, Man, my Authority will stretch to press so good a Man as you.

Oli. Press me? I devy, press Scoundrels, and thy Me-fell; Press me, chee scorns thee i'faith: For feell thee, here's a worshipful Knight knows, cham not to be pressed by thee.

Enter Sir Lancelot, Weathercock, young Flowerdale, old Flowerdale, Luce-and Frank.

Lanc. Sir Arthur, welcome to Lawsome, welcome by my Troth: What's the Matter Man, why are you vex'd?

Oli. Why Man he would press me.

Lanc. O fie, Sir Arthur, press him?

He is a Man of reckoning.

Weath. Ay, that he is, Sir Arthur, he hath the Nobles;
The golden Ruddocks he.

Asth. The fitter for the Wars:
And were he not in favour
With your Worships, he should see,
That I have Power to press so good as he.

Oli. Chil[stand to the Trial, to chill.

Flow. Ay marry shall he, press Cloth and Karfy, White-Rot and drewien-Broth; tut, tut, he cannot.

Oli. Well, Sir, though you see vlouten Cloth and Karfy, chee a zeen zutch a Karfy-Coat wear out the Town sick a zilken Jacket, as thack a one you wear.

Flow. Well fed vitan vllatt.

Oli. A, and well fed Cocknell, and Boc-Bell too: What doesn't tham chame a read of thy Zilken-Coat, no-fer were thee.

Lanc. Nay, come no more, be all Lovers and Friends.

Weath. Ay, it: beat so, good Master Oliver.

Flow. Is your Name Master Oliver, I pray you.

Oli. What tit and be tit, and grieve you.

Flow. No, but I'd gladly know if a Man might not have a foolish Plot out of Master Oliver to work upon.

Oli. Work thy Plots upon me, stand aside, work thy foolish Plots upon me, chill so ufe thee, thou were neve-so used since thy. Dam bound thy Head, work upon me?

Flow. Let him come, let him come.

Oli. Zyrha, Zyrha, if it were not for shame, chee would a given thee zutch a whitter poop under the Ear, chee would have made thee a vanged another at my Feet: Stand aside, let me loose, cham all of a vling
Firebrand, stand aside.
Flow. Well, I forbear you for your Friend's Sake.
Oli. A vig for all my Vreens, do'ft thou tell me of my Vreens?

Lanc. No more, good Master Oliver, no more, Sir Arthur. And Maidens, here in the fight of all your Suitors, every Man of worth, I'll tell you whom I fainest would prefer to the hard Bargain of your Marriage Bed; shall I be plain among you, Gentlemen?

Lanc. Then, Sir, first to you, I do confess you a most gallant Knight, a worthy Soldier, and honest Man: But Honesty maintains a French-hood, goes very seldom in a Chain of Gold, keeps a small Train of Servants; hath few Friends: And for this wild Oats here, young Flowerdale, I will not judge, God can work Miracles, but he were better make a hundred new, than thee a thrifty and an honest one.

Weath. Believe me he hath hit you there, he hath touch'd you to the quick, that he hath.

Flow. Woodcock a my side, why Master Weathercock, you know I am honest, howsoever trifles.

Weath. Now by my Troth I know no otherwise.

O, your old Mother was a Dame indeed: Heav'n hath her Soul, and my Wife's too, I trust: And your good Father, honest Gentleman, He is gone a Journey, as I hear, far hence.

Flow. Ay, God be praised, he is far enough, He is gone a Pilgrimage to Paradise, And left me to cut a Caper against Care.

Luce. Look on me that am as light as Air.

Luce. T'faith I like not Shadows, Bubbles, Broth, I hate a light Love, as I hate Death.

Lanc. Girl, hold thee there: Look on this Devonshire Lad:
Fat, fair, and lovely, both in Purse and Person.

Oli. Well, Sir, cham as the Lord hath made me, you know me well evin, cha have three-score pack of Karfy, and Blacken Hall, and chief Credit beside, and my Fortunes may be so good as another's, so it may.

Lanc. 'Tis you I love, whatsoever others say.

Arth. Thanks, Fairest.

Flow. What, would'st thou have me quarrel with him?

Faith. Do but say he shall hear from you.

Lanc. Yet, Gentlemen, howsoever I prefer this Devonshire Suitoor, I'll enforce no Love, my Daughter shall have her Liberty to chuse whom she likes best.
In your Love-suit proceed:
Not all of you, but only one must speed.
  Weath. You have said well: Indeed right well.
  Enter Artichoak.

  Art. Mistrefs, here's one would speak with you, my Fellow Daffidil hath him in the Cellar already, he knows him, he met him at Croydon Fair.
  Lanc. O, I remember, a little Man.
  Art. Ay, a very little Man.
  Lanc. And yet a proper Man.
  Art. A very proper, very little Man.
  Lanc. His Name is Monsieur Civet.
  Art. The same, Sir.
  Lanc. Come, Gentlemen, if other Suitors come,
My foolish Daughter will be fitted too:
But Delia my Saint, no Man dare move.
[Exeunt all but young Flowerdale, Oliver, and old Flowerdale.
  Flow. Hark you, Sir, a Word.
  Oli. What ha an you to say to me now?
  Flow. Ye shall hear from me, and that very shortly.
  Oli. Is that all, vare thee well, chee vere thee not a vig.
  [Exit Oliver.

  Flow. What if he should come now? I am fairly drest.
  Fath. I do not mean that you shall meet with him.
But presently we'll go and draw a Will;
Where we'll set down Land, that we never saw,
And we will have it of fo large a Sum,
Sir Lancelot shall intreat you to take his Daughter:
This being formed, give it Master Weathercock.
And make Sir Lancelot's Daughter Heir of all:
And make him swear never to shew the Will
To any one, until that you be dead,
This done, the foolish Changeling Weathercock
Will straight Discourse unto Sir Lancelot,
The Form and Tenor of your Testament.
Nor stand to pause of it, be rul'd by me:
What will ensue, that shall you quickly see.
  Flow. Come let's about it; if that a Will, sweet Kit,
Can get the Wench, I shall renown thy Wit. [Exeunt
  Enter Daffidil and Luce.

  Daf. Mistrefs, still froward?
No kind Looks unto your Daffidil, now by the Gods.
The London Prodigal.

Luce. Away my foolish Knave, let my Hand go.

Daf. There's your Hand; but this shall go with me:
My Heart is thine, this is my true Love's Fee.

Luce. I'll have your Coat stript o'er your Ears for this,
You fawcy Rascal.

Enter Lancelot and Weathercock.

Lanc. How now, Maid, what is the News with you?

Luce. Your Man is something fawcy. [Exit Luce.

Lanc. Go to, Sirrah, I'll talk with you anon.

Daf. Sir, I am a Man to be talked withal.
I am no Horse, I trow;
I know my Strength, then no more than so.

Weather. Ay, by the Matkins, good Sir Lancelot, I saw him the other Day hold up the Bucklers, like an Hercules.
P'faith God-a-mercy, Lad, I like thee well.

Lanc. Ay, ay, like him well, go Sirrah, fetch me a Cup of Wine,
That ere I part with Master Weathercock,
We may drink down our Farewel in French Wine.

Weather. I thank you, Sir, I thank you, friendly Knight, I'll come and visit you, by the Mouse-foot I will;
In the meantime, take heed of cutting Flowerdale.
He is a desperate Dick, I warrant you.

Lanc. He is, he is: Fill, Daffidil, fill me some Wine.

Weather. What wears he on his Arm?
My Daughter Luce's Bracelet, ay, 'tis the same.

Lanc. To you, Master Weathercock.

Weather. I thank you, Sir: Here, Daffidil, an honest Fellow, and a tall, thou art. Well, I'll take my Leave, good Night; and I hope to have you and all your Daughters at my poor House, in good time: I must.

Lanc. Thanks, Master Weathercock, I shall be bold to trouble you, be sure.

Weather. And welcome, heartily Farewel. [Exit Weather.

Lanc. Sirrah, I saw my Daughter's Wrong, and withal her Bracelet on your Arm; off with it; and with it my Livery too. Have I care to see my Daughter match'd with Men of Worship, and are you grown too bold? Go, Sirrah, from my House, or I'll whip you hence.

Daf. I'll not be whip't, Sir, there's your Livery.

This is a Servingman's Reward, what care I,
I have Means to trust to, I scorn Service. I. [Exit Daffidil.

Lanc. Ay a lusty Knave, but I must let him go.

Our Servants must be taught what they should know.
Enter Sir Arthur and Luce.

Luce. Sir, as I am a Maid, I do affect you above any Suitor that I have, although that Soldiers scarce know how to love.

Arth. I am a Soldier, and a Gentleman, Know what belongs to War, what to a Lady: What Man offends me, that my Sword shall right: What Woman loves me, I am her faithful Knight.

Luce. I neither doubt your Valour nor your Love But there be some that bear a Soldier's Form, That swear by him they never think upon, Go swaggering up and down from House to House, Crying, God pays: And —

Arth. I'faith, Lady, I'll defcry you such a Man. Of them there be many which you have spoke of. That bear the Name and Shape of Soldiers, Yet, God knows, very seldom saw the War: That haunt your Taverns and your Ordinaries. Your Ale-houses sometime, for all a-like, To uphold the brutish Humour of their Minds, Being mark'd down for the Bondmen of Despair: Their Mirth begins in Wine, but ends in Blood, Their Drink is clear, but their Conceits are mud.

Luce. Yet these are great Gentlemen Soldiers.

Arth. No they are wretched Slaves, Whose desperate Lives doth bring them timeless Graves.

Luce. Both for yourself, and for your Form of Life. If I may chuse, I'll be a Soldier's Wife.

Enter Sir Lancelot and Oliver.

Oil. And tut trust to it, so then.

Lanc. Assure yourself,

You shall be married with all Speed we may: One Day shall serve for Frances and for Luce.

Oil. Why che-wodn vain know the time, for providing Wedding Raiments.

Lanc. Why no more but this; first get your Assurance made touching my Daughter's Jointure, that dispatch, we will in two Days make Provision.

Oil. Why Man, chill have the Writings made by To-morrow.

Lanc. To-morrow be it then, let's meet at the King's Head in Fish-street.

Oil. No, sir-Man, no; let's meet at the Rose at Temple-Bar, that will be nearer your Counsellor and mine.
The London Prodigal.

Lanc. At the Rose be it then, the Hour nine,
He that comes last forfeits a Pint of Wine.

Oli. A Pint is no Payment,
Let it be a whole Quart, or nothing.

Enter Artichoak.

Art. Master, here is a Man would speak with Master Oliver; he comes from young Master Flowerdale.

Oli. Why chill speak with him, chill speak with him.

Lanc. Nay, Son Oliver, I'll surely see
What young Flowerdale hath sent to you.

Oli. Why Man, if he quarrel with me, chill give him his Hands full.

Enter old Flowerdale.

Fath. God save you, good Sir Lancelot.

Lanc. Welcome, honest Friend.

Fath. To you and yours my Master wisheth Health,
But unto you, Sir, this, and this he sends:
There is the Length, Sir, of his Rapier,
And in that Paper shall you know his Mind.

Oli. Here, chill meet him my Friend, chill meet him.

Lanc. Meet him, you shall not meet the Russian, fie.

Oli. And I do not meet him, chill give you Leave to call me Cut. Where is't, Sarah? where is't? where is't?

Fath. The Letter shows both Time and Place,
And if you be a Man, then keep your Word.

Lanc. Sir, he shall not keep his word, he shall not meet.

Fath. Why let him chuse, he'll be the better known
For a base Rascal, and reputed so.

Oli. Zirrah, Zirrah; and 'twere not an old Fellow, and sent after an Errant, chill give thee something, but chud be no Mony: But hold thee, for I see thou art some-what testorn, hold thee, there's vorthy Shillings, bring thy Master a veeld, chill give thee vorty more, look thou bring him, chill mall him tell him, chill mar his dancing Trefiels, chill use him, he was ne'er so used since his Dam bound his Head, chill make him for capering any more chy vor thee.

Fath. You seem a Man, stout and resolute,
And I will so report, whate'er befall.

Lanc. And fall out ill, assure thy Master this,
I'll make him fly the Land, or use him worse.

Fath. My Master, Sir, deserves not this of you,
And that you'll shortly find.
Lanc. Thy Master is an Unthrift, you a Knave,
And I'll attach you first, next clap him up:
Or have him bound unto his good Behaviour.

Oli. I wold you were a Sprite if you do him any harm for this: And you do, chil nere see you, nor any of yours, while chil have Eyes open: What do you think, chil be abaffelled up and down the Town for a Messel, and a Scoundrel, no chy bor you: Zirrah, chil come, zay no more, chil come, tell him.

Fath. Well, Sir, my Master deserves not this of you,
And that you'll shortly find. [Exit.

Oli. No matter, he's an Unthrift, I desie him.

Lanc. No, gentle Son, let me know the Place.

Lanc. Let me see the Note.

Oli. Nay, chil watch you for zuch a Trick.
But if chee meet him, zo, if not, zo: chil make him know me, or chil know why I shall not, chil vare the worse.

Lanc. What will you then neglect my Daughter's Love?
Venture your State and her's for a loose Brawl?

Oli. Why Man, chil not kill him, marry chil veze him too, and again; and zo God be with you vather.

What, Man, we shall meet To-morrow. [Exit.

Lanc. Who would have thought he had been so deperate. Come forth my honest Servant Artichoak.

Enter Artichoak.

Arti. Now, what's the Matter; some Brawl toward, I warrant you.

Lanc. Go get me thy Sword bright scower'd, thy Buck-ler mended. O for that Knave, that Villain Daffidil would have done good Service. But to thee.

Arti. Ay, this is the Tricks of all you Gentlemen, when you stand in need of a good Fellow. O for that Daffidil, O where is he? but if you be angry, and it be but for the wagging of a Straw, then out a Doors with the Knave, turn the Coat over his Ears. This is the Humour of you all.

Lanc. O for that Knave, that luyt Daffidil.

Arti. Why there 'tis now; our Year's Wages and our Vails will scarce pay for broken Swords and Bucklers that we use in our Quarrels. But I'll not fight if Daffidil be a t'other side, that's flat.

Lanc. 'Tis no such matter, Man, get Weapons ready, and be at London ere the Break of Day; watch near the Lodging of the Devonshire Youth, but be unseen; and as he goes out, as he will go out, and that very early with out doubt.

Arti. What, would you have me draw upon him.

And he goes in the Street?

Lanc. Not for a World, Man, into the Fields. For as the Field he goes, there to meet the desperate Flow-erdale:
Take thou the Part of Oliver my Son, for he shall be my Son, and marry Luce: Do’st understand me, Knave?

Arti. Ay, Sir, I do understand you, but my young Mistress might be better provided in matching with my Fellow Daffidil.

Lanc. No more; Daffidil is a Knave.

That Daffidil is a most notorious Knave. [Exit Arti.

Enter Weathercock.

Master Weathercock, you come in a happy time; the desperate Flow-erdale hath writ a Challenge; and who think you must answer it, but the Devonshire Man, my Son O-

Lanc. I will rather follow her unto her Grave.

Weath. Ay, Sir Lancelot, I would have thought so too; but you and I have been deceiv’d in him; come read this Will, or Deed, or what you call it, I know not: Come, come, your Spectacles I pray.

Lanc. Nay, I thank God, I see very well.

Weath. Marry, God bless your Eyes, mine have been dim almost this thirty Years.

Lanc. Ha, what is this? what is this?

Weath. Nay there is true Love indeed, he gave it to me but this very Morn, and bad me keep it unseen from any one; good Youth, to see how Men may be deceiv’d.

Lanc. Passion of me, what a Wretch am I to hate this loving Youth? he hath made me, together with my Luce
he loves so dear, Executors of all his Wealth.

Weath. All, all, good Man, he hath given you all.

Lanc. Three Ships now in the Straits, and homé-ward-bound;

Two Lordships of two hundred Pounds a Year;
The one in Wales, the other in Gloucestershire;
Debts and Accounts are thirty thousand Pound,
The London Prodigal.

Plate, Money, Jewels, sixteen thousand more:
Two Housen furnish'd well in Coleman-street;
Beside whatsoever his Uncle leaves to him,
Being of great Demens and Wealth at Peckham.

Weath. How like you this, good Knight? How like you this?

Lanc. I have done him wrong, but now I'll make amends,
The Devonshire Man shall whistle for a Wife.
He marry Luce! Luce shall be Flowerdale's.

Weath. Why that is friendly said, let's ride to London and prevent their Match, by promising your Daughter to the lovely Lad.

Lanc. We'll ride to London, or it shall not need.
We'll cross to Dedford-strand, and take a Boat.
Where be these Knaves? what Artichoak? what Fop?

Enter Artichoak.

Art. Here be the very Knaves, but not the merry Knacks.

Lanc. Here take my Cloak, I'll have a walk to Dedford.

Art. Sir, we have been scouring of our Swords and Bucklers for your Defence.

Lanc. Defence me no Defence, let your Swords rust,
I'll have no fighting: Ay, let Blows alone, Delia see all Things be in Readiness against the Wedding, we'll have two at once, and that will save Charges, Master Weathercock.

Art. Well we will do it, Sir.

[Exeunt.

Enter Civet, Frank, and Delia.

Civ. By my troth this is good luck, I thank God for this.
In good sooth I have even my Heart's desire: Sister Delia, now I may boldly call you so, for your Father hath frank and freely given me his Daughter Frank.

Frank. Ay, by my troth, Tom, thou hast my good will too, for I thank God I long'd for a Husband, and would I might never stir, for one his name was Tom.

Del. Why, Sister, now you have your Wish.

Civ. You say very true, Sister Delia, and I prithee call me nothing but Tom; and I'll call the sweet Heart, and Frank. Will it not do well, Sister Delia?

Del. It will do very well with both of you.

Frank. But Tom, must I go as I do now when I am married?

Civ. No, Frank, I'll have thee go like a Citizen
In a garded Gown, and a French Hood.

Frank. By my Troth that will be excellent indeed.
Del. Brother, maintain your Wife to your Estate.
Apparel you yourself like to your Father:
And let her go like to your antient Mother;
He sparing got his Wealth, left it to you,
Brother take heed of Pride, some bids Thrift adieu.

Civ. So as my Father and my Mother went, that’s a jest indeed; why she went in a fring’d Gown, a single Ruff, and a white Cap; and my Father in a Mocado Coat, a pair of red Sattin Sleeves, and a Canvas Back.

Del. And yet his Wealth was all as much as your’s.

Civ. My Estate, my Estate, I thank God, is forty Found a Year in good Leaves and Tenements; besides twenty Marks a Year at Cuckolds-Haven, and that comes to us all by Inheritance.

Del. That may indeed, ‘tis very fitly plied,
I know not how it comes, but so it falls out
That those whose Fathers have died wond’rous rich,
And took no Pleasure but to gather Wealth,
Thinking of little that they leave behind;
For them they hope, will be of their like mind.
But falls out contrary, forty Years sparing
Is scarce three seven Years spending, never caring
What will ensue, when all their Coin is gone,
And all too late, then Thrift is thought upon;
Oft have I heard, that Pride and Riot kill,
And then Repentance cries, for had I wifed?

Civ. You say well, Sister Delia, you say well; but I mean to live within my Bounds; for look you, I have set down my rest thus far, but to maintain my Wife in her French Hood, and her Coach, keep a couple of Geldings, and a Brace of Greyhounds, and this is all I’ll do.

Del. And you’ll do this with forty Pounds a Year?

Civ. Ay, and a better Penny, Sister.

Frank. Sister, you forget that at Cuckolds-Haven.

Civ. By my Troth well remembred, Frank,
I’ll give thee that to buy thee Pins.

Del. Keep you the rest for Points; alas the Day,
Fools shall have Wealth, though all the World say nay.
Come, Brother, will you in, Dinner stays for us.

Civ. Ay, good Sister, with all my Heart.

Frank. Ay, by my Troth Tom, for I have a good Stomach.

Civ. And I the like, sweet Frank; no Sister,
Do not think I’ll go beyond my Bounds.
Del. God grant you may nbt. [Exeunt. Enter young Flowerdale, and his Father, with foils.
in their Hands.

Flow. Sirrah, Kit, tarry you there, I have spied Sir Lancelot and old Weathercock coming this Way, they are hard at Hand, I will by no means be spoken withal. Fath. I'll warrant you; go get you in. Enter Lancelot and Weathercock.

Lanc. Now, my honest Friend, thou dost belong to Master Flowerdale? Fath. I do, Sir. Lanc. Is he within my good Fellow ? Fath. No, Sir, he is not within, Lanc. I prethee, if he be within, let me speak with him.

Fath. Sir, to tell you true, my Master is within, but indeed would not be spoke withal; there be some Terms that stands upon his Reputation, therefore he will not admit any Conference till he hath shook them off. Lanc. I prethee tell him his very good Friend Sir Lancelot Spurcock intreats to speak with him.

Fath. By my Troth, Sir, if you come to take up the matter between my Master and the Devonshire Man, you do but beguile your Hopes, and lose your Labour. Lanc. Honest Friend, I have not any such things to him, I come to speak with him about other Matters.

Fath. For my Master, Sir, hath let down his Resolution, either to redeem his Honour, or leave his Life behind him.

Lanc. My Friend, I do not know any Quarrel touching thy Master, or any other Person, my Business is of a different Nature to him, and I prethee so tell him.

Fath. For howsoever the Devonshire Man is, My Master's Mind is bloody; that's a round O, And therefore, Sir, Intreaties are but vain. Lanc. I have no such thing to him, I tell thee once again. Fath. I will then so signify to him. [Exit Father. Lanc. Ay, Sirrah, I see this matter is hotly carried. But I'll labour to dissuade him from it.

Enter young Flowerdale and his Father.

Good morrow, Master Flowerdale.

Flow. Good morrow, good Sir Lancelot.

Good morrow, Master Weathercock;

By my Troth, Gentlemen, I have been reading over [Nick:
Nick Machiavel; I find him
Good to be known, not to be followed:
A pestilent human fellow, I have made Certain Annotations of him such as they be:
And how is't, Sir Lancelot? ha? how is't?
A mad world, men cannot live quiet in it.

Lanc. Master Flowerdale, I do understand there is some Jar between the Devonshire man and you.

Fath. They, Sir; they are good friends as can be.

Flow. Who Master Oliver and I? as good friends as Lanc. It is a kind of safety in you to deny it, and a generous silence, which too few are induced withal: But, Sir, such a thing I hear, and I could wish it otherwise.

Flow. No such thing, Sir Lancelot, at my reputation, as I am an honest man.

Lanc. Now I do believe you then, if you do
Ingage your reputation there is none.

Flow. Nay I do not ingage my reputation there is not,
You shall not bind me to any condition of hardness:
But if there be any thing between us, then there is,
If there be not, then there is not. Be, or be not, all is Lanc. I do perceive by this, that there is something between you, and I am very sorry for it.

Flow. You may be deceiv'd, Sir Lancelot, the Italian
Hath a pretty saying, Questo? I have forgot it too,
'Tis out of my head, but in my translation (him.
If't hold thus, Thou haft a friend keep him; if a foe trip

Lanc. Come, I do see by this there is somewhat between you,
And before God I could wish it otherwise.

Flow. Well, what is between us, can hardly be alter'd:
Sir Lancelot, I am to ride forth to-morrow,
That way which I must deny,
Me the sun, I would not by any particular man
Be denied common and general passage. If any one
Saith, Flowerdale, thou passest not this way;
My answer is, I must either on or return:
But return is not my word, I must on:
If I cannot then make my way, Nature
Hath done the last for me, and there's the fine.

Lanc. Mr. Flowerdale, every man hath one tongue,
And two ears; Nature in her building,
Is a most curious Work-master.

Flow. That is as much as to say, a Man should hear more
Than he should speak.

Flow. You say true, and indeed I have heard more,
Than at this time I will speak.

Law. You say well.

Lane. Slanders are more common than Troths, Master
Flowerdale, but Proof is the Rule for both.

Flow. You say true, what do you call him
Hath it there in his third Caution?

Law. I have heard you have been wild; I have believ'd it.

Flow. 'Twas fit, 'twas necessary.

Lane. But I have seen somewhat of late in you,
That hath confirm'd in me an Opinion of Goodness toward you.

Flow. 'Faith, Sir, I am sure I never did you Harm:
Some Good I have done, either to you or yours,
I am sure you know not, neither is it my Will you should.

Law. Ay, your Will, Sir.

Flow. Ay, my Will, Sir; 'sfoot do you know ought of Begod and you do, Sir, I am abus'd.

Flow. Nay, Mr. Flowerdale, what I know, I know;
And know you thus much out of my Knowledge,
That I truly love you. For my Daughter,
She's yours. And if you like a Marriage better Than a Brawl, all Quirks of Reputation let aside, go with me presently: And where you should fight a bloody Battle, you shall be married to a lovely Lady.

Flow. Nay but, Sir Lancelot?

Law. If you will not embrace my offer, yet assure yourself thus much, I will have order to hinder your Encounter.

Flow. Nay but hear me, Sir Lancelot.

Law. Nay, stand not you upon imputative Honour,
'Tis meerly unfound, unprofitable, and idle
Inferences; your Business is to wed my Daughter, therefore give me your present Word to do it; I'll go and provide the Maid, therefore give me your present Resolution, either now or never.

Flow. Will you so put me to it?

Law. Ay, afore God, either take me now, or take me Else what I thought should be our match, shall be our parting
'So fare you well for ever.

Flow. Stay! fall out, what my Fall, my Love
Is above all: I will come.

Lanc. I expect you, and so fare you well.

[Exit Sir Lancelot.

Fath. Now, Sir, how shall we do for wedding Apparel?

Flow. By the Mafs that's true; now help Kit,
The Marriage ended, we'll make Amends for all.

Fath. Well, no more, prepare you for your Bride,
We will not want for Cloaths, whatsoe'er betide.

Flow. And thou shalt see, when once I have my Dower
In Mirth we'll spend full many a merry Hour:
As for this Wench, I not regard a Pin,
It's her Gold must bring my Pleasures in.

[Exit.

Fath. 'Is't possible, he hath his second living,
Forsaking God, himself to the Devil giving;
But that I knew his Mother firm and chaff,
My Heart would say, my Head she had disgrac'd:
Elfe would I sware, he never was my Son,
But her fair Mind so foul a Deed did shun.

Enter young Flowerdale's Uncle.

Unc. How now, Brother, how do you find your Son?

Fath. O Brother, heedless as a Libertine, Ev'n grown a Master in the School of Vice,
One that doth nothing, but invent Deceit;
For all the Day he humours up and down,
How he the next Day might deceive his Friend:
He thinks of nothing but the present time:
For one Groat ready down, he'll pay a Shilling;
But then the Lender must needs stay for it.
When I was young, I had the scope of Youth,
Both wild and wanton, careless and desperate:
But such mad Strains as he's posset withal,
I thought it wonder for to dream upon.

Unc. I told you so, but you would not believe it.

Fath. Well I have found it, but one thing comforts me,
Brother, To-morrow he's to be married
To beautous Luce, Sir Lancelot Spurcock's Daughter.

Unc. 'Is't possible?

Fath. 'Tis true, and thus I mean to curb him:
This Day, Brother, I will you shall arrest him;
If any thing will tame him, it must be that,
For he is rank in Mischief, chain'd to a Life,
That will encrease his Shame, and kill his Wife.

Unc. What, arrest him on his Wedding Day?
That were unchristian, and an unhuman Part:
How many Couple ev'n for that very Day,
Have purchas'd seven Years Sorrow afterward?
Forbear it then to Day, do it to Morrow,
And this Day mingle not his Joy with Sorrow.

Fath. Brother, I'll have it done this very Day,
And in the view of all, as he comes from Church.
Do but observe the Course that he will take,
Upon my Life he will forfeit the Debt:
And for we'll have the Sum shall not be flight.
Say that he owes you near three thousand Pound:
Good Brother, let it be done immediately.

Unc. Well, seeing you will have it so,
Brother I'll do't, and straight provide the Sheriff.

Fath. So Brother, by this means shall we perceive
What Sir Lancelot in this pinch will do:
Add how his Wife doth stand affected to him,
Her Love will then be tried to the uttermost:
And all the rest of them. Brother, what I will do,
Shall harm him much, and much avail him too.

[Exeunt.

Enter Oliver.

Oli. Cham assured thick be the Place, that the scoundrel
Appointed to meet me, if a come, zo; If a come not, zo.
And she war avise, he would make a Coytrel an us, Ched vele him, and che vang him in hand, che would Hoy't him, and give it him too and again, zo chud:
Who ha been there, Sir Arthur? Chil stay aside.

Enter Sir Arthur.

Art. I have dog'd the Devonshire Man into the Field,
For fear of any harm that should befall him:
I had an incline of that Yeasternight,
That Flovverdale and he should meet this Morning.
Tho' of my Soul, Oliver fears him not,
Yet for I'd see fair Play on either side,
Made me to come, to see their Valours try'd—
Good Morrow to Master Oliver.

Oli. God and good Morrow.

Art. What, Master Oliver, are you angry?
Oli. What an it be, tyt an griven you?
Art. Not me at all, Sir, but I imagine,
By your being here thus Arm'd,
You stay for some that you should fight withal.

Oli. Why and he do, she would not desire you to take his part.
The London Prodigal.

Art. No, by my Troth, I think you need it not. For he you look for, I think means not to come.
Oli. No, and she were ahure of that, ched averse him in another Place.

Enter Daffidil.

Daff. O, Sir Arthur, Master Oliver, ay me, Your Love, and yours, and mine, sweet Mistress Luce, This Morning is married to young Flowerdale.
Art. Married to Flowerdale! 'tis impossible.
Oli. Married, Man? She hope thou dost but jest: To make an a volowten merriment of it.
Daff. O 'tis too true, here comes his Uncle Enter young Flowerdale's Uncle, with Sheriff and Officers.
Unc. Good morrow, Sir Arthur, good morrow, Master Oliver.
Oli. God and good Morn, Mr. Flowerdale, I pray tellen us, is your Scoundrel Kinsman married?
Art. Mr. Oliver, call him what you will, but he is married to Sir Lancelot's Daughter here.
Unc. Sir Arthur, unto her?
Oli. Ay, ha the old vellow zerved me thick a trick? Why Man, he was a promise, chil chud a had her: Is a zitch a vox, chil look to his Water che vor him.
Unc. The Musick plays, they are coming from the Church, Sheriff, do your Office: Fellows, stand stouly to it.

Enter all to the Wedding.

Oli. God give you Joy, as the old said Proverb is, and sone Zorrow among. You met us well, did you not?
Lanc. Nay, be not angry, Sir, the fault is in me, I have done all the wrong, kept him from coming to the Field to you, as I might, Sir, for I am a Justice, and sworn to keep the Peace.
Wearb. Ay marry is he, Sir, a very Justice, and sworn to keep the Peace, you must not disturb the Weddings.
Lanc. Nay, never frown nor frowm, Sir, if you do, I'll have an Order taken for you.
Oli. Well, well, ch'il be quiet
Wearb. Mr. Flowerdale, Sir Lancelot, look you, who here is? Mr. Flowerdale.
Lanc. Mr. Flowerdale, welcome with all my Heart. Flowerdale, this is she 'tfaith, Master Under-Sheriff, Arreft me? At whole Suit? Draw, Kit.
Unc. At my Suit, Sir.
Lanc. Why, what's the matter, Mr. Flowerdale?
Unc. This is the matter, Sir, this Unthrift here
Hath cozen'd you, and hath had of me
In several Sums three thousand Pound.
Flow. Why, Uncle, Uncle.
Unc. Cousin, Cousin, you have Uncled me,
And if you be not flaid, you'll prove
A Cozener unto all that know you.
Lanc. Why, Sir, suppose he be to you in debt
Ten Thousand Pound, his State to me appears,
To be at least three thousand by the Year.
Unc. O, Sir, I was too late inform'd of that Plot,
How that he went about to cozen you:
And form'd a Will and sent it to your good Friend there, Master Weathercock, in which was Nothing true, but brags and lies.
Lanc. Ha, hath he not such Lordships,
Lands, and Ships?
Unc. Not worth a Great, not worth a Halfpenny he.
Lanc. I pray tell us true, be plain, young Flowerdale.
Flow. My Uncle here's mad,
And dispos'd to do me wrong.
But here's my Man an honest Fellow
By the Lord, and of good Credit, knows all I true.
Fath. Not I, Sir, I am too old to lye; I rather know
You forg'd a Will, where every Line you writ,
You studied where to quote your Lands might lie.
Weathercock. And I prithee where be thy honest Friends?
Fath. I'faith no where, Sir, for he hath none at all.
Weathercock. Beneficicy, we are o'er reach'd, I believe.
Lanc. I am cozen'd, and my hopefull Child undone.
Flow. You are not cozen'd, nor is she undone,
They flander me, by this Light, they flander me;
Look you my Uncle here's an U'urer, and would undo me,
But I'll flaid in Law, do you but bail me, you shall do no more:
You Brother Civel, and Master Weathercock, do but Bail me, and let me have my Marriage Money
Paid me, and we'll ride down,
And there your own Eyes shall see
How my poor Tenants there will welcome me.
You shall but Bail me, you shall do no more,
And you, greedy Gnat, there Bail will serve.
Unc. Ay, Sir, I'll ask no better Bail.
Lanc. No, Sir, you shall not take my Bail, nor his,
Nor my Son Cive't's, I'll not be cheated, I.
Sheriff, take your Prisoner, I'll not deal with him:
Let's Uncle make false Dice with his false Bones,
I will not have to do with him: Mock'd, gull'd, and wrong'd!

Come, Girl, tho' it be late, it falls out well,
Thou shah not live with him in Beggar's Hell.
Luce. He is my Husband, and high Heav'n doth know.

With what unwillingness I went to Church,
But you enforc'd me, you compell'd me to it:
The holy Churchman pronounce'd those Words but now,
I must not leave my Husband in Distress:
Now I must comfort him, not go with you.
Luce. This Day you caus'd me on your Curfe to take him:

Do not, I pray, my grieved Soul oppress?
God knows my Heart doth bleed at his Distress.
Lance. O Master Weathercock,
I must confess I force'd her to this Match,
Led with Opinion his false Will was true.
Weather. Ah, he hath over-reach'd me too.
Lance. She might have liv'd like Delia, in a happy
Virgin's state.

Del. Father be patient, Sorrow comes too late,
Lance. And on her Knees she beg'd and did intreat,
If she must needs taste a sad Marriage Life,
She crave'd to be Sir Arthur Greenfield's Wife.
Art. You have done her and me the greater wrong.
Lance. O take her yet.
Art. Not I.
Lance. Or, Master Oliver, accept my Child, and half my Wealth is yours.

Oli. No, Sir, chil break no Laws.
Luce. Never fear, she will not trouble you Del. Yet, Sitter in this Passion do not run headlong to Confusion. You may affect him, tho' not follow him.
Frank. Do, Sitter, hang him, let him go.
Weather. Do faith, Master's Luce, leave him.
Luce. You are three gros Fools, let me alone,
I swear, I'll live with him in all his moan.
Oli. But an he have his Legs at Liberty,
Cham aver'd he will never live with you.
Ay, but he is now in Hucksters handling, for running away.

Hulwife, you hear how you and I are wrong'd,
And if you will redress it yet you may:
But if you stand on terms to follow him,
Never come near my sight, nor look on me,
Call me not Father, look not for a Great,
For all the Portion I will this Day give Unto thy Sister Frances.

How say you to that, Tom?
I shall have a good deal.

Besides, I'll be a good Wife: and a good Wife
Is a good thing I can tell.

Peace, Frank. I would be sorry to see thy Sister call away, as I am a Gentleman.

What, are you yet resolv'd?
Yes, I am resolv'd.

Come then away, or now, or never come.
This way I turn, go you unto your Feast,
And I to weep, that am with Grief oppreft.

For ever fly my sight: Come Gentlemen,
Let's in, I'll help you to far better Wives than her.

Safe Baggage, in such haste to Beggary?
Sheriff, take your Prisoner to your Charge.

Uncle, be gad you have us'd me very hardly,
By my Troth, upon my Wedding Day.

Exeunt all but Luce, young Flowerdale, his Father, Uncle, Sheriff and Officers.

O Master Flowerdale, but hear me speak,
Stay but a little while, good Master Sheriff,
If not for him, for my false pity him:
Good Sir, stop not your Ears at my Complaint,
My Voice grows weak, for Womens words are faint.

Look you, she kneels to you.

Fair Maid, for you, I love you with my Heart,
And grieve sweet Soul, thy Fortune is so bad,
That thou shouldst match with such a graceless Youth.

Go to thy Father, think not upon him,
Whom Hell hath mark'd to be the Son of Shame.

Impute his wildnes, Sir, unto his Youth,
And think that now's the time he doth repent:
Alas, what good or gain can you receive,
To imprison him that nothing hath to Pay?
The London Prodigal.

And where nought is, the King doth lose his due;
O pity him as God shall pity you.

Unc. Lady, I know his Humours all too well,
And nothing in the World can do him good,
But Misery itself to chain him with.

Luce. Say that your Debts were paid, then is he free?

Unc. Ay, Virgin, that being answered, I have done.
Put to him that is all as impossible,
As I to scale the high Pyramids.
Sheriff take your Prisoner; Maiden fare thee well.

Luce. O go not yet, good Master Flowerdale:
Take my Word for the Debt, my Word, my Bond.

Flow. Ay, by Gad Uncle, and my Bond too.

Luce. Alas, I ne'er ought nothing but I paid it;
And I can Work, alas, he can do nothing:
I have some Friends perhaps will pity me,
His chiefest Friends do seek his Misery.
All that I can, or beg, get or receive,
Shall be for you: O do not turn away:
Methinks within a Face so reverend,
So well experienced in this tottering World,
Should have some feeling of a Maiden's Grief:
For my sake, his Father's and your Brothers sake,
Ay, for your Soul's sake that doth hope for Joy.
Pity my state, do not two Souls destroy.

Unc. Fair Maid, stand up; not in regard of him,
But in pity of thy hapless Choice,
I do release him: Master Sheriff, I thank you:
And Officers, there is for you to drink.
Here, Maid, take this Money, there is a hundred Angels,
And, for I will be sure he shall not have it,
Here, KESER, take it you, and use it sparingly,
But let her have any want at all.
Dry your Eyes. Neice, do not too much lament
For him, whose Life hath been in Riot spent:
If well he useth thee, he gets him Friends,
If ill, a shameful end on him depends. [Exit Unc.

Flow. A plague go with you for an old Pornicator.

Come, Kit, the Money, come honest Kit.

Fath. Nay by my Faith, Sir, you shall pardon me.

Flow. And why, Sir, pardon you? Give me the Money you old Rascal, or I will make you.

Luce. Pray hold your Hands, give it him honest Friend.

Fath. If you be so content, with all my Heart.

Flow.
Flor. Content, Sir, 'sblood the shall be content
Whether she will or no. A rattle Baby, come to follow me:
Go, get you gone to the greasy Chuff your Father,
Bring me your Dowry, or never look on me.
Fath. Sir, she hath forsook her Father, and all her Friends, for you.
Flor. Hang thee, her Friends and Father altogether.
Fath. Yet part with something to provide her Lodging.
Flor. Yes, I mean to part with her and you, but if I part with one Angel, hang me at a Post. I'll rather throw them at a cast of Dice, as I have done a thousand of their Fellows.
Fath. Nay then I will be plain, degenerate Boy,
Thou hadst a Father would have been ashamed.
Flor. My Father was an Ass, an old Ass.
Fath. Thy Father? Proud licentious Villain:
What, are you at your Foils? I'll foil with you.
Luce. Good Sir, forbear him.
Fath. Did not this whining Woman hang on me,
I'd teach thee what it was to abuse thy Father:
Go hang, beg, starve, dice, game, that when all's gone,
Thou may'st after despair and hang thyself.
Luce. O do not curse him.
Fath. I do not curse him, and to pray for him were vain,
It grieves me that he bears his Father's Name.
Flor. Well, you old Rascal, I shall meet with you.
Sirrah, get you gone, I will not strip the Livery
Over your Ears, because you paid for it:
But do not use my Name, Sirrah,
Do you hear? Look you do not Use my Name, you were best.
Fath. Pay me the twenty Pound then that I lent you,
Or give me Security when I may have it.
Flor. I'll pay thee not a Penny,
And for Security I'll give thee none.
Minckins, look you do not follow me, look you do not.
If you do, Beggar, I shall slit your Nose.
Luce. Alas, what shall I do?
Flor. Why turn Whore, that's a good Trade,
And so perhaps I'll see thee now and then.
[Exit Flowerdale.
Luce. Alas the day that ever I was born.
Fath. Sweet Mistress, do not weep, I'll stick to you.
Luce. Alas, my Friend, I know not what to do.
The London Prodigal.

My Father and my Friends, they have despis'd me:
And I a wretched Maid, thus cast away,
Knows neither where to go, nor what to say.

Fath. It grieves me at the Soul, to see her Tears
Thus stain the Crimson Roses of her Cheeks:
Lady, take comfort, do not mourn in vain,
I have a little Living in this Town,
The which I think, comes to a hundred Pound,
All that and more shall be at your dispose;
I'll strait go help you to some strange Disguise,
And place you in a Service in this Town;
Where you shall know all, yet yourself unknown:
Come, grieve no more, where no help can be had,
Weep not for him, that is more worse than bad.

Luce, I thank you, Sir. [Exeunt.

Enter Lancelot, Master Weathercock and the rest.

Oli. Well, cha a bin zerved many a fluttish Trick,
But such a Lerripoop as thick ych was ne'er a farved.

Lanc. Son Civet, Daughter Frances, bear with me,
You see how I am pres'd down with inward Grief,
About that luckless Girl, your Sister Luce.
But 'tis fall'n out with me, as with many Families beside,
They are most unhappy that are most belov'd.

Civ. Father, 'tis so, 'tis even fain out so,
[paus
But what Remedy? Set Hand to your Heart, and let it
Here is your Daughter Frances and I, and we'll not say,
We'll bring forth such witty Children, but as pretty Children as ever she was: tho' she had the prickle
And praise for a pretty Wench: But Father, done is
The Mouse, you'll come?

Lanc. Ay, Son Civet, I'll come.

Civ. And you Master Oliver.

Oli. Ay, for che a vex't out this veast, chill see if a gan
Make a better Veast there.

Civ. And you Sir Arthur?

Art. Ay, Sir, altho' my Heart be full,
I'll be a Partner at your Wedding Feast.

Civ. And welcome all indeed, and welcome; come

Frank, are you ready?

Frank. Jethue, how hasty these Husbards are; I pray Father, pray to God to bless me.

Lanc. God bless thee, and I do; God make thee wise,
Send you both Joy, I wish it with wet Eyes.

Frank. But Father, shall not my Sister Delia go along with.
with us? She is excellent good at Cookery, and such things.

Lanc. Yes marry shall she: Delia, make you ready.

Del. I am ready, Sir, I will first go to Greenwich.

From thence to my Cousin Chesterfield, and so to London.

Civ. It shall suffice, good Sister Delia, it shall suffice, but fail us not, good Sister; give order to Cooks and others, for I would not have my sweet Frank to soil her Fingers.

Frank. No by my troth not I, a Gentlewoman, and a married Gentlewoman too, to be Companion to Cooks, and Kitchin-boys, not I faith, I scorn that.

Civ. Why, I do not mean thou shalt, sweet Heart, thou feest I do not go about it; well, farewell too: Yea, Gods pity Mr. Weathercock, we shall have your Company too?

Weath. With all my Heart, for I love good Cheer.

Civ. Well, God be with you all, come, Frank.

Frank. God be with you, Father, God be with you, Sir Arthur, Master Oliver, and Master Weathercock, Sister, God be with you all: God be with you, Father, God be with you every one.

Weath. Why, how now, Sir Arthur, all a mort, Master Oliver, how now, Man?

Cheerly, Sir Lancelot, and merrily say,

Who can hold that will away.

Lanc. Ay, she is gone indeed, poor Girl, undone,

But when thes be self-will’d, Children must smart.

Art. But, Sir, that she is wronged, you are the chiefest
Cause, therefore ’is reason you redress her wrong.

Weath: Indeed you must; Sir Lancelot, you must.

Lanc. Mutil? who can compel me, Mr. Weathercock?

I hope I may do what I list.

Weath. I grant you may, you may do what you list.

Oli. Nay, but and you be well evisen, it were not good,

By this vrampoiness, and vrowardness, to cast away
As pretty a dowsselabel, as am should chance to see
In a Summer’s Day; chill tell you what shall do,
Chill go spy up and down the Town, and see if I
Can hear any Tale or Tydings of her,
And take her away from thick a Messel, vor cham,
Ashured, heel but bring her to the spoil,
And so vay you well, we shall meet at your Son Civet’s.

Lanc. I thank you, Sir, I take it very kindly.
Arb. To find her out, I'll spend my dearest Blood,
So well I lov'd her, to effect her Good. [Exeunt Ambo-Lanc. O Master Weathercock,
What hap had I, to force my Daughter
From Master Oliver, and this good Knight,
To one that hath no Goodness in his Thought?
Weather. I'll luck, but what remedy?
Lanc. Yes, I have almost devis'd a Remedy.
Young Flowerdale is sure a Prisoner.
Weather. Sure? nothing more sure,
Lanc. And yet perhaps his Uncle hath releas'd him.
Weather. It may be very like, no doubt he hath.
Lanc. Well if he be in Prison, I'll have Warrants
To Tache my Daughter 'till the Law be tired,
For I will sue him upon CouzORAGE,
Weather. Marry may you, and overthrow him too.
Lanc. Nay that's not so; I may chance be scoffed,
And sentence past with him.
Weather. Believe me, so he may, therefore take heed.
Lanc. Well howsoever, yet I will have warrants,
In Prison, or at Liberty, all's one:
You will help to serve them, Master Weathercock?
[Exeunt.]

Enter Flowerdale.

Flowerdale. A plague of the Devil, the Devil take the Dice;
The Dice, and the Devil, and his Dam go together.
Of all my hundred golden Angels,
I have not left me one Denier:
A Pox of come a Five, what shall I do?
I can borrow no more of my Credit:
There's not any of my acquaintance, Man nor Boy,
But I have borrowed more or less of:
I would I knew where to take a good Purse,
And go clear away, by this Light I'll venture for it.
Gods lid my Sister Delia,
I'll rob her, by this Hand.

Enter Delia and Artichoak.

Delia. I prithee, Artichoak, go not so fast,
The Weather is hot, and I am something weary. [you Artichoak. Nay I warrant you, Missress Delia, I'll not tire
With leading, we'll go on extreme moderate pace.
Flowerdale. Stand deliver your Purse.
Flowerdale. Come, come, your Purse, Lady your Purse.

Delia.
Del. That Voice I have heard often before this time.

What, Brother Flowerdale become a Thief?

Flow. Ay, plague on’t, I thank your Father;

But Sister, come, your Money, come;

What the World must find me, I am born to live,
’Tis not a Sin to steal, when none will give.

Del. O God, is all Grace banisht from thy Heart,

Think of the Shame that doth attend this Fact.

Flow. Shame me no Shames, come give me your Purse;

I’ll bind you, Sister, lest I fare the worse.

Del. No, bind me not, hold, there is all I have,

And would that Money would redeem thy Shame.

Enter Oliver, Sir Arthur, and Artichoak.

Art. Thieves, Thieves, Thieves.

Oli. Thieves, where Man? why how now, Miftrels

Ha you a liked to been a robbed?

Del. No, Matter Oliver, ’tis Matter Flowerdale, he did but jest with me.

Oli. How, Flowerdale, that Scoundrel? Sirrah, you meten us well, vang thee that.

Flo. Well, Sir, I’ll not meddle with you, because I have a Charge.

Del. Here Brother Flowerdale, I’ll lend you this same

Money.

Flow. I thank you, Sister.

Oli. I wad you were yiplit, and you let the Mezel have a Penny; but since you cannot keep it, chil keep it my self.

Artb. ’Tis pity to relieve him in this sort,

Who makes a triumphant Life his daily sport.

Del. Brother, you see how all Men centure you,

Farewel, and I pray God amend your Life.

Oli. Come, chil bring you along, and you safe enougt.

From twenty such Scoundrels as lick an one is.

Farewell and be hanged, zyrrah, as I think so thou.

Wilt be shortly: come, Sir Arthur.

[Except all but Flowerdale.

Flow. A plague go with you for a Karlie Rascal;

This Deco fiire Man I think is made all of Pork.

His Hands made only for to heave up Packs,

His Heart as fat and big as his Face.

As differing far from all brave gallant Minds,

As I to serve the Hogs, and drink with Hinds,

As I am very near now; well what remedy,

When.
When Money, Means, and Friends, do grow so small,
Then farewell Life, and there's an end of all. [Exit:
Enter young Flowerdale's Father, Luce like a Dutch Prow.
Civit and his Wife Frances.

Civ. By my troth God a Mercy for this, good Christopher I thank thee for my Maid, like her very well, how dost thou like her, Frances?

Fran. In good Sadness, Tom, very well, excellent well,
She speaks so prettily, I pray what's your Name?

Luce. My name, forsooth, be called Tanikin.

Fran. By my troth a fine Name: O Tanikin, you are, excellent for dressing ones Head a new Fashion.

Luce. Me fall do every thing about da Head.

Civ. What Countrywoman is she, Kester?

Fath. A Dutch Woman, Sir.

Civ. Why then she is Outlandish, is she not?

Fath. Ay, Sir, she is.

Fran. O then thou canst tell how to help me to Cheeks and Ears?

Luce. Yes, Mistress, very well.

Fath. Checks and Ears why, Mistress Frances, want:
you Cheeks and Ears? methinks you have very fair ones.

Fran. Thou are a Fool indeed: Tom, thou knowest what I mean.

Civ. Ay, ay, Kester, 'tis such they wear a their Heads.
I prithee, Kit, have her in, and shew her my House.

Fath. I will, Sir? come Tanikin.

Fran. O Tom, you have not buss'd me to Day, Tom.

Civ. No Frances, we must not kiss afore Folks.

God save my Franck.

Enter Delia and Artichoak.

See yonder, my Sister Delia is come, welcome, good Sifter.

Fran. Welcome, good Sifter, how do you like the Tire of my Head?

Del. Very well Sister.

Civ. I am glad you're come, Sifter Delia, to give order for Supper, they will be here soon.

Art. Ay, but if good luck had not serv'd, she had Noi been here now filching Flowerdale had like
To perper'd us, but for Master Oliver we had been robb'd.

Del. Peace, Sirrah, no more.

Fath. Robb'd! by whom?

Art. Marry by none but by Flowerdale, he is turn'd
Th. ef.
Civ. By my Faith, but that is not well, but God be prais'd for your Escape, will you draw near, Sister?

Fath. Sirrah, come hither; would Flowerdale he that was my Master, a robbed you, I prithee tell me true?

Art. Yes, I'Faith, even that Flowerdale that was thy Master.

Fath. Hold thee, there is a French Crown, and speak no more of this.

Art. Not I, not a Word, now do I smell Knavery:
In every Purse Flowerdale takes, he is half:
And gives me this to keep Countel, not a Word I.

Fath. Why God a Mercy.

Fran. Sister, look here. I have a new Dutch Maid,
And she speaks so fine, it would do your Heart good:

Civ. How do you like her, Sister?

Del. I like your Maid well.

Civ. Well, dear Sister, will you draw near, and give Directions for Supper, Guests will be here presently.

Del. Yes, Brother, lead the Way, I'll follow you.

[Exeunt all but Delia and Luce.

Hark you, Dutch Frow, a Word.

Luce. Vat is your Vill wit me?

Del. Sister Luce, 'tis not your broken Language,
Nor this same Habit can disguise your Face
From I that know you; pray tell me, what means this?

Luce. Sister, I see you know me, yet be secret:
This borrow'd Shape that I have ta'n upon me,
Is but to keep my feif a Space unknown
Both from my Father and my nearest Friends;
Untill I see how Time will bring to pass,
The desperate Courie of Master Flowerdale.

Del. O he is worle than bad, I prithee leave him;
And let not once thy Heart to think on him.

Luce. Do not persuade me once to such a Thought,
Imagine yet, that he is worse than nought;
Yet, one good Time may all that Hit undo,
That all his former Life did run into.
Therefore, kind Sister, do not disclose my Estate;
If c'er his Heart doth turn, 'tis ne'er to late.

Del. Well, seeing no Counsel can remove your Mind,
I'll not disclose you; that are wilful blind.

Luce. Delia, I thank you. I now must please her Eyes.

My Sister Frances, neither fair nor wise.

[Exeunt. Enter
The London Prodigal.

Enter Flowerdale Solus.

Flow. On goes he that knows no end of his journey,
I have pass'd the very utmost bounds of Shifting,
I have no Course now but to hang my self;
I have liv'd since yesterday two a Clock, of a Spice cake I had at a Burial: And for Drink,
I got it at an Ale-house among Porters, such as
Will bear out a Man, if he have no Money indeed;
I mean out of their Companies, for they are Men
Of good Carriage. Who comes here?
The two Coney catchers, that won all my Mony of me:
I'll try if they'll lend me any.

Enter Dick and Ralph.

What, Mr. Richard, how do you?
How dost thou Ralph? By Gad, Gentlemen, the World
Grows bare with me, will you do as much as lend
Me an Angel between you both, you know you
Won a hundred of me the other Day.

Ralph. How, an Angel? Gad damn us if we lost not every Penny within an Hour after thou wert gone.

Flow. I prithee lend me so much as will pay for my Sup-
I'll pay you again, as I am a Gentleman.

Ralph. I' Faith, we have not a farthing, not a mite;
I wonder at it, Mr. Flowerdale,
You will so carelessly undo your self;
Why you will lose more Money in an Hour,
Then any Honest Man spends in a Year;
For Shame be take you to some honest Trade,
And live not thus to like a Vagabond.

[Exeunt. Flow. A Vagabond indeed, more Villains you:
They gave me Counsel that first cozen'd me;
Those Devils first brought me to this I am,
And being thus, the first that do me wrong.
Well, yet I have one Friend left in store.
Not far from hence there dwells a Cockatrice,
One that I first put in a Sattin Gown,
And not a Tooth that dwells within her Head,
But it stands me at the least in twenty Pound:
Her will I visit now my Coyn is gone,
And as I take it here dwells the Gentlewoman.
What ho, is Mistress Apricoxk within?

Enter Ruffian.

Ruf. What saucy Rascal is that which knocks so bold?
O, is it you, old Spend-thrift? are you here?
One that is turned Cozener about the Town.
My Mistress saw you, and sends this Word by me,
Either he packing quickly from the Door,
Or you shall have such a Greeting sent your straight,
As you will little like on, you had best be gone. [Exit.

Frob. Why so, this is as it should be, being poor,
Thus art thou serv'd by a vile painted Whore.
Well, since thy damned Crew do so abuse thee,
I'll try of honest Men, how they will use me.

Enter an ancient Citizen.

Sir, I beseech you to take Compassion of a Man;
One whose Fortunes have been better than at this Instant they seem to be: but if I might crave of you some little Portion, as would bring me to my Friends, I would rest thankful, until I had requited so great a Courtesie.

Ctt. Fy, fy, young Man, this Course is very bad,
Too many such have we about this City;
Yet for I have not seen you in this fort,
Nor noted you to be a common Beggar,
Hold, there's an Angel to bear your Charges
Down, go to your Friends, do not on this depend,
Such Bad Beginnings oft have worser Ends. [Exit Ctt.

Frob. Worser ends: Nay, if it fall out
No worse than in old Angels I care not,
Nay, now I have had such a fortunate Beginning,
I'll not let a sixpenny Purse escape me:
By the Mass here comes another.

Enter a Citizen's Wife with a Torch before her.

God bless you, fair Mistress.
Now would it please you, Gentlewoman, to look into the Wants of a poor Gentleman, a younger Brother, I doubt not but God will treble restore it back again, one that never before this time demanded Penny, Half-penny, nor Farthing.

Ctt. Wife. Stay, Alexander now by my Troth a very proper Man, and 'tis great Pity; hold my Friend, there's all the Money I have about me, a couple a Shillings, and God bless thee.

Frob. Now God thank you, sweet Lady; if you have any Friend, or Garden-house, where you may employ a poor Gentleman as your Friend, I am yours to command in all secret Service.

Ctt. Wife. I thank you good Friend, I prithee let me see that again I gave thee, there is one of them a brass Shilling,
Shilling, give me them, and here is half a Crown in Gold. [He gives it her.

Now out upon thee, Rascal: Secert Service! What doth thou make of me? It were a good Deed to have thee whipt: Now I have my Money again, I'll see thee hang'd before I give thee a Penny. Secret Service? On, good Alexander. [Exeunt Ambo.

Flow. This is villainous Luck, I perceive Dishonesty Will not thrive; here comes more, God forgive me, Sir Arthur, and Mr. Oliver, afore God I'll speak to them. God have you Sir Arthur: God have you, Mr Oliver.

Oli. Been you there, Zirrah, come will you taken yourselves to your Tools, Coystrel?

Flow. Nay, Mr. Oliver, I'll not fight with you, Alas, Sir, you know it was not my doing, It was only a Plot to get Sir Lancelot's Daughter; By Gad I never meant you harm.

Oli. And where is the Gentlewoman thy Wife, Mezel? Whore is she, Zirrah, ha?

Flow. By my troth Mr. Oliver, sick, very sick: And Gad is my Judge, I know not what means to make for her, good Gentlewoman.

Oli. Tell me true, is she sick; tell me true itch'vile thee. Flow. Yes faith, I tell you true: Mr Oliver, if you would do me the small kindnels, but to lend me forty Shillings; So Gad help me, I will pay you so soon as my Ability shall make me able, as I am a Gentleman.

Oli. Well thou zailt thy Wife is zick; hold, there's vorty Shillings, give it to thy Wife, look thou give it her, or I shall zo veze thee, thou wert not so vezed this seven year, look to it.

Art. I'faith, Mr. Oliver, it is in vain
To give to him that neve. thinks of her.

Oli. Well, would she could yvind it.

Flow. I tell you true, Sir Arthur, as I am a Gentleman.

Flow. By the Lords this is excellent.
Five golden Angels compass'd in an Hour.
If this Trade hold, I'll never teck a new.
Welcome sweet Gold, and Beggary adieu.

Enter Uncle and Father.

Unc. See, Kester, if you can find the House.
The London Prodigal.

Flow. Who's here, my Uncle, and my Man Kester?

By the Mass 'tis they.

How do you Uncle, how dost thou, Kester?

By my Troth, Uncle, you must needs lend

Me some Money, the poor Gentle-woman

My Wife, Jo Gad help me, is very sick.

I was robb'd of the hundred Angels

You gave me, they are gone.

Unc. Ay, they are gone indeed, come, Kester, away.

Flow. Nay, Uncle, do you hear, good Uncle?

Unc. Out Hypocrite, I will not hear thee speak,

Come, leave him, Kester.

Flow. Kester, honest Kester.

Fath. Sir, I have nought to say to you,

Open the Door to my Kin, thou had'it best

Lock't fast, for there's a false Knave without.

Flow. You are an old lying Rascal,

So you are.

[Exeunt Ambos]

Enter Luce.

Luce. Vat is the Matter, Vat be you, Yonker?

Flow. By this Light a Dutch Frow, they say they are called kind, by this Light I'll try her.

Luce. Vat be you, Yonker, why do you not speak?

Flow. By my Troth, sweet Heart, a poor Gentleman that would desire of you, if it stand with your Liking, the Bounty of your Purse,

Enter young Flowerdale's Father.

Luce. O here God, so young an Armine.

Flow. Armine, sweet Heart, I know not what you mean by that, but I am almost a Beggar.

Luce. Are you not a married Man, vere been your Vife?

Here is all I have, take dis.

Flow. What Gold, young Frow? this is brave

Fath. If he have any Grace, he'll now repent,

Luce. Why speake you not, vere be your Vife?

Flow. Dead, dead, she's dead, tis she hath undone me:

Spent me all I had, and kept Rascals under my Nose to brave me.

Luce. Did you use her vell?

Flow. Use her, there's never a Gentlewoman in England could be better used than I did her; I could but

Coach her; her Diet stood me in forty Pound a Month, but she is dead, and in her Grave my Cares are buried.

Luce. Indeed dat was not scone.

Fath.
'The London Prodigal.'

Fath. He is turn'd more Devil than he was before.

Flow. Thou dost belong to Master Civet here, dost thou not?

Luce. Yes, me do.

Flow. Why there's it, there's not a handful of Plate but belongs to me, Gad's my Judge: If I had such a Wench as thou art, There's never a Man in England would make more Of her, than I would do, so she had any Stock.

[They call within.

O why Tanikin.

Luce. Say, one doth call, I shall come by and by again.

Flow. By this Hand this Dutch Wench is in Love with me,

Were it not admirable to make her steal

All Civet's Plate, and run away.

Fath. 'Twere beastly. O Master Flowerdale: Have you no Fear of God, nor Conscience? What do you mean, by this vile Course you take?

Fath. To live in this Sort, is upon the Course,

Your Life doth show, you are a very Coward.

Flow. A Coward! I pray in what?

Fath. Why you will borrow Six-pence of a Boy.

Flow. 'Snails, is there such a Cowardice in that? I dare borrow it of a Man, ay, and of the tallest Man in England, if he will lend it me: Let me borrow it how I can, and let them come by it how they dare. And it is well known, I might ride out a hundred times if I would, so I might.

Fath. It was not want of Will, but Cowardice, There is none that lends to you, but know they gain: And what is that but only stealth in you?

Delia might hang ye now, did not her Heart Take Pity of you for her Sister's Sake.

Go get you hence, lest lingering here you'll slay,

You fall into their Hand you look not for.

Flow. I'll tarry here, till the Dutch Frow comes,

If all the Devils in Hell were here. [Exit Father.

Enter Sir Lancelot, Mr. Weathercock, and Artichoak.

Lanc. Where is the Door? Are we not past it? Artichoak?

Art. By the Mass here's one.

I'll ask him: Do you hear, Sir?
What, are you so proud? Do you hear, which is the Way
To Mr. Civet's House? What, will you not speak?
O me, this is tilching Flowerdale.

Lanc. O, wonderful! Is this lewd Villain here?
O you cheating Rogue, you Cut-purse, Cony-catcher,
What Ditch, you Villain, is my Daughter's Grave?
A cozening Rascal, that must make a Will,
Take on him that stifi Habit, very that:
When he should turn to Angel, a dying Grace,
I'll Father in Law you, Sir, I'll make a Will:
Speak, Villain, where's my Daughter?
Poison'd, I warrant you, or knock'd a the Head:
And to abuse good Master Weathercock, with His forg'd Will, and Master Weathercock,
To make my grounded Resolution;
Then to abuse the Devonshire Gentleman:
Go, away with him to Prison.

Flow. Wherefore to Prison? Sir, I will not go.
Enter Master Civet, his Wife, Oliver, Sir Arthur, young Flowerdale's Father, Uncle, and Delia.

Lanc. O here's his Uncle:
Welcome Gentleman, welcome all:
Such a Cozenor, Gentlemen, a Murderer too
For any Thing I know, my Daughter is missing,
Hath been look'd for, cannot be found, a Vild upon thee,
Unc. He is my Kinsman, although his Life be vile, Therefore, in God's Name, do with him what you will.

Lanc. Marry to Prison.
Flow. Wherefore to Prison, Snick-up? I owe you nothing.

Lanc. Bring forth my Daughter then, away with him.

Flow. Go seek your Daughter, what do lay to my Charge?

Lanc. Suspicion of Murder, go, away with him,
Flow. Murder your Dogs, I murder your Daughter!

Come Uncle, I know you'll bail me.

Unc. Not I, we're there no more,
Than I the Jaylor, thou the Prisoneer.

Lanc. Go, away with him.

Enter Luce like a Fcaso.

Luce. O my Life, where will you ha de Man?
Vat ha de Yonker done!

Wraith. Woman, he hath kill'd his Wife,
The London Prodigal.

Luce. His Wife, dat is not good, dat is not seen.

Lanc. Hang not upon him, Huswife, if you do I'll lay you by him.

Luce. Have me no, and or way do you leave him, He tell me dat he love me heartily.

Fran. Lead away my Maid to Prison! Why Tom, will you suffer that?

Civv. No, by your Leave, Father, she is no Vagrant: She is my Wife's Chamber-maid, and as true as the Skin between any Man's Brows here.

Lanc. Go to, you're both Fools: Son Civv, of my Life this is a Plot, Some stragling Counterfeit proffer'd to you: No doubt to rob you of our Plate and Jewels: I'll have you led away to Prison, Trull.

Luce. I am no Trull, neither Outlandish Frow, Nor he, nor I shall to the Prison go: Know you me now? nay, never stand amaz'd. Father, I know I have offended you. And though that Duty wills me bend my Knees To you in Duty and Obedience; Yet this ways do I turn, and to him yield My Love, my Duty, and my Humb'liness.

Lanc. Baffard in Nature, kneel to such a Slave?

Luce. O Master Flowerdale, if too much Grief Have not stop up the Organs of your Voice, Then speak to her that is thy faithful Wife, Or doth Contempt of me thus tie thy Tongue? Turn not away, I am no Ethiop, No wanton Cresst, nor a changing Hellen: But rather one made wretched by thy Los't. What turn'st thou still from me? O then I guess thee wofull'd among hapless Men.

Flow. I am indeed, Wife, Wonder among Wives! Thy Chastity and Virtue hath influs'd Another Soul in me, red with Defame, For in my blushing Cheeks is seen my Shame.

Lanc. Out, Hypocrite, I charge thee trust him not.

Luce. Not trust him? — By the Hopes of after Bliss, I know no Sorrow can be compar'd to his.
Lanc. Well, since thou wert ordain'd to Beggary, Follow thy Fortune, I dese thee.
Oliv. Ywood che were so well ydoussed as was ever white Cloth in tocking Mill, au che ha not made me Grace.

Weath. If he hath any Grace he'll now repent.
Arth. It moves my Heart.
Weath. By my Troth I must weep, I cannot chuse.
Unc. None but a Beall would such a Maid misuse.
Flow. Content thy self, I hope to win his Favour,
And to redeem my Reputation lost:
And, Gentlemen, believe me, I beseech you,
I hope your Eyes shall behold such Change,
As shall deceive your Expectation.

Oli. I would che were split now, but che believe him.
Lanc. How, believe him!
Weath. By the Matkins, I do.
Lanc. What do you think that c'er he will have Grace?
Weath. By my Faith it will go hard.
Oli. Well, che vor ye he is chang'd; and, Mr. Flowerdale, in Hope you been so, hold there's vorty Pound toward your Zetting up; what be not ashamed, vang it Man, vang it, be a good Husband, loven to your Wife:
And you shall not want for vorty more, I che vor thee.

Arth. My Means are little, but if you'll follow me,
I will instruct you in my ablest Power:
But to your Wife I give this Diamond,
And prove true Diamond fair in all your Life.

Flow. Thanks, good Sir Arthur: Mr. Oliver,
You being my Enemy, and grown so kind,
Binds me in all Endeavour to restore.

Oli. What, restore me? No Restorings, Man,
I have vorty Pound more here, vang it:
Zouth chil devie London else: What, do not think me
A Mezel or a Scoundrel, to throw away my Money? che have an hundred Pound more to pace of any good Spatation: I hope your Under and your Uncle will vollow my Zampas.

Unc. You have Guett-right of me, if he leave off this Course of Life, he shall be mine Heir.

Lanc.
Lant. But he shall never get a Groat of me;
A Cozener, a Deceiver, one that kill’d his painful
Father, honest Gentleman,
That pass’d the fearful Danger of the Sea,
To get him Living, and maintain him brave.
Weth. What, hath he kill’d his Father?
Lanc. Ay, Sir, with Conceit of his vile Courses.
Fath. Sir, you are misinform’d.
Lanc. Why, thou old Knave, thou told’st me so thy self.
Fach. I wrong’d him then:
And toward my Master’s Stock,
There’s twenty Nobles for to make Amends.
Flow. No, Kister, I have troubled thee, and wrong’d thee more,
What thou in Love gives, I in Love restore.
Frau. Ha, ha Sister, there you plaid Bo-peep with us:
Tom. What shall I give her toward Houshold!
Sister Delia, shall I give her my Fan?
Del. You were best ask your Husband.
Fran. Shall I, Tom?
Civ. Ay, do, Frank, I’ll buy thee a new one, with a longer Handle.
Frau. A ruffet one, Tom.
Civ. Ay with ruffet Feathers.
Fran. Here, Sister, there’s my Fan toward Houshold, to keep you warm.
Luce. I thank you Sister.
Weth. Why this is well, and toward fair Luce’s Stock, here’s forty Shillings: And forty good Shillings more,
I’ll give her Marry. Come Sir Lancelot, I must have you Friends.
Lanc. Not I, all this is Counterfeit,
He will confunde it, were it a Million.
Fath. Sir, what is your Daughter’s Dower worth?
Lanc. Had she been married to an honest Man,
' twas better than a thousand Pound.
Fath. Pay it him, and I’ll give you my Bond.
To make her Joynture better worth than three.
Lanc. Your Bond, Sir! Why, what are you?
Fath. One whose Word in London, tho’ I lay it,
Will pass there for as much as yours.
Lanc. Wot not thou late that Unthrift’s Serving man?
Fath. Look on me better, now my Scar is off:
Ne’er muse Man, at this Metamorphosy.
The London Prodigal.

Lanc. Master Flowerdale!
Flow. My Father! O I shame to look on him.
Pardon, dear Father, the Follies that are past.
Fath. Son, Son, I do, and joy at this thy Change,
And applaud thy Fortune in this virtuous Maid,
Whom Heav'n hath sent to thee to save thy Soul.
Luce. This addeth Joy to Joy, high Heav'n be prais'd.
Wath. Mr. Flowerdale, welcome from Death, good Mr. Flowerdale.
'Twas said so here, 'twas said so here good Faith.
Fath. I caus'd that Rumour to be spread my self,
Because I'd see the Humours of my Son,
Which to relate the Circumstance is needless:
And Sirrah, see you run no more into that same Disease:
For he that's once cur'd of that Malady,
Of Riot, Swearing, Drunkenness, and Bride,
And falls again into the like Distress,
That Fever is deadly, doth 'till Death endure.
Such Men die mad, as of a Calenture.
Flow. Heav'n helping me, I'll hate the Course as He'll.
Unc. Say it, and do it, Cousin, a'1 is well.
Lanc. Well being in Hope you'll prove an honest Man,
I take you to my Favour. Brother Flowerdale,
Welcome with all my Heart: I see your Care
 Hath brought these Acts to this Conclusion,
And I am g'ad of it, come let's in and feast.
Oliv. Nay zoft you a While, you promis'd to make
Sir Arthur and me Amends; here is your wifelit Daughter, see which An's she'll have.
Lanc. A God's Name, you have my good Will, get here.
Oliv. How say you then, Damfeli.
Del. I, Sir, am yours.
Oliv. Why, then send for a Vicar, and chil have it Dispatched in a Trice, so chil.
Del. Pardon me Sir, I mean I am yours,
In Love, in Duty, and Affection.
But not to love as Wife, shall never be said,
Delta was buried, married, but a Maid.
Arth. Do not condemn your fei't for ever,
Virtuous Fair, you were born to love.
Oliv: Why you say true, Sir Arthur, she was ybore to it.

So well as her Mother; but I pray you shew us
Some Zamples or Reasons why you will not marry?

Dil. Not that I do condemn a married Life,
For 'tis no Doubt a sanctimonious Thing:
But for the Care and Crosses of a Wife,
The Trouble in this World that Children bring,
My Vow's in Heav'n in Earth to live alone,
Husbands, howsoever good, I will have none.

Oliv. Why then, chil live a Batchelor too,
Che zet not a Vig by a Wife, if a Wife zet not a Vig
By me: Come, shall's go to Dinner?

Fath. To-morrow I crave your Companies in Mariz-Lane:
To-night we'll frolick in Mr. Civer's House,
And to each Health drink down a full Carouse.

[Excunt omnes.]
