All Residential Parking are Equipped with EV Charging Capability

One of the largest demands of everyday energy consumption come from transportation. In an ideal world, these demands would only be supported with sustainable green energy power sources. By design, our urban master-planned communities drastically reduce dependence on transportation and encourage walking and cycling as a viable and enjoyable means of moving around. Recognizing that some personal modes of transportation are inevitable, Concord supports car share programs and has pioneered EV infrastructure in most of its new developments. In fact, Concord was the first to provide quick-charge EV car parking stalls to a multi-family residential tower in Canada.

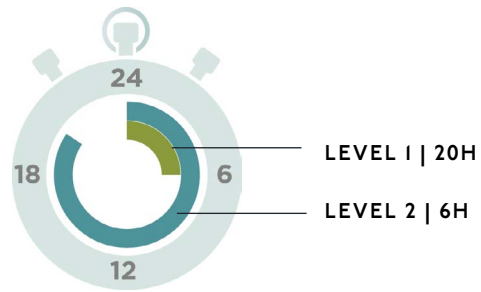

Making further history, Concord Brentwood will be the first community in Burnaby with electric vehicle charging outlets in all residential parking stalls. These will be pre-installed 208-Volt, 40 Amps electric vehicle charging outlets. In addition to this, residents will have access to an electric vehicle car-sharing program. We encourage and facilitate greener living.

EV Charging Outlets For Every Residential Parking Stall at Oasis

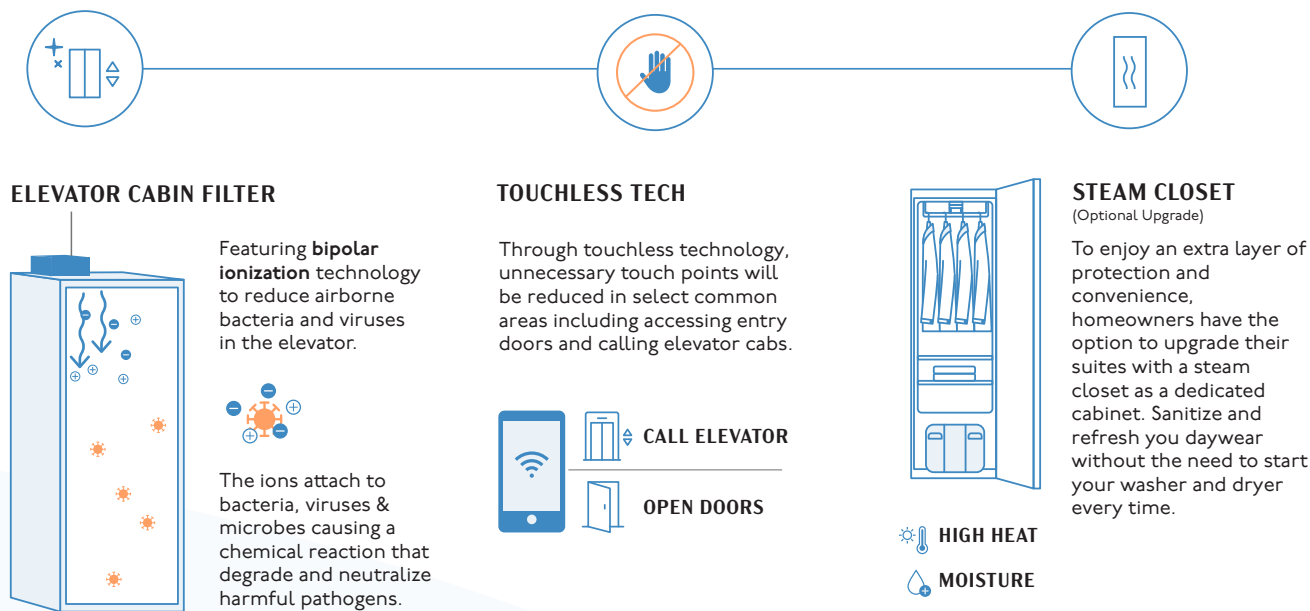

Charge Faster at 208V

Depending on the battery technology used in the vehicle, Level 2 charging generally takes 4 to 6 hours to completely charge a fully depleted battery. Today Level 2 charging is the most widely used medium for electric vehicle charging.

Working with the top consultant team, Concord will now add multiple preventative measures and redundancy systems to help mitigate water damage. These measures include preventing unintended triggers of fire sprinklers, protecting the elevators, early detection of water incidents and enabling a fast response to shut off the water source. Concord’s current green energy projects can power more than twice the needs of all its 150 towers globally.

Home owners in other Concord communities have long appreciated and enjoyed subtle but significant value. In the process of creating a master-planned community, Concord is directly and intimately involved in each step of the development process, from land selection, community planning and development, through to construction and customer service. Concord ensures a well-coordinated and balanced development at every stage and in turn provides a solid investment you can count on and enjoy for generations to come.
