I dedicate this book to everyone who knows the heartache of someone ignoring the wedding band you carefully purchased and enjoying your spouse without any guilt or remorse.

Prologue

Moving on from past relationships can become a difficult task. Sometimes we are met with a fight. What do you do when your ex doesn't want to be with you anymore but simultaneously doesn't want to see you with anyone else. Many women and men have to endure this very thing daily. Fighting many micro battles created in attempt to keep them from achieving their goal FREEDOM.

So then you broke up but it wasn't easy it's probably came with tears from the rejection followed by angers and aggression once they realized you are no longer responding to their broken advances or better yet a fight to get away. You safely get away with whatever items you managed to get away with and now what....

Plan and build your story in a way that helps you start (and keep) writing.

There's no way around the fact that the idea of this shhhh hurts. Nobody wants to find out they've been a fool. And ironically many enjoy making others out to be the fool. It's insane how on one hand of the spectrum you have people who will take you outta here behind their spouse. There are no questions asked then those that go out of their way to disrespect the vows you Made to each other. Sometimes it ends before it can began you thought you met the perfect match then boom they're in the restroom with someone else and boom she bragging about it to her friends. And you look STUPID.

I get it it didn't mean anything ... you tell that to my heart as it tears to shreds but who wants to be that person nobody Anybody placed in this position will indeed become angry. And some of you had to deal with jezebel demons that deliberately slept with your spouse in an attempt to start war with you. Your next decision is depending on several different things do you want to save it or are you done? If you are done be done.... If not does your spouse want to save it? Are they putting forth effort ? Are they even sorry? I mean there are several different questions you have to ask yourself in this situation. Now who is the other party? Is that still a thing or is it over obviously if your spouse won't leave them alone you will have to face that it's over v.s. If your spouse has stopped all contact and turned away from them completely. I can't Tell you what decision to make but I will say listen to your heart and choose what makes YOU happy.

If you CHEATED you gotta eat that. I know there may be specifics such as they wouldn't give me any which typically is Non Sense most women who are cheated on are pulling their hair out trying to get their husbands attention. Trust me I know it can be frustrating but that doesn't mean you allow it to lead to the next reason because your spouse wouldn't stop cheating on you and you had a breakdown.

Regardless if your person decides that they don't want to be with you anymore you must accept it and move on. Just be careful not to move on too soon or it might cause your ex to be offended.
