

“The Napkin Game”

Works best with round tables.

First round: The DJ will ask one person from each table to hold up a napkin and wave it in the air. The DJ will tell everyone when the music starts (typically Brown Eyed Girl) begin passing the napkin around the table like “hot potato”. It doesn’t matter which direction the napkin is passed as long as it is circulating. The DJ will randomly stop the music. Now the person who’s holding the napkin when the music stops is asked to stand up, introduce themselves to the 2nd person on their right. They then hand that person the napkin to begin the next round.

Second round: Music starts and the napkin is again passed around. The DJ again stops the music and whoever is holding the napkin that person is asked to go the first person on their left and give them a big hug! Hand them the napkin and begin the next round.

Third round: Music starts and the napkin is passed. DJ stops the music and instructs the guest holding the napkin to please stand up and go to the 3rd person on their right and give them a big kiss!

Final round: Music starts and the napkin is passed around. The DJ stops the music and instructs the guest holding the napkin to stand up, turn and face their table, take the napkin and fold the napkin in half, place it over their forearm, and repeat: “Hello my name is (say your name) I will be your server/waitress for the rest of the evening!” usually gets a huge laugh and the DJ will say “Let’s give everyone a round of applause who had the napkin today”. Thank you.
