

Permanent and fixed-term contract opportunities for aspiring Graduate Ecologists

Mortimer Environmental Ltd (www.mortimerenvironmental.com) is a small but rapidly growing environmental consultancy providing specialist bid and project coordination services alongside ecological survey, mitigation and licensing support. We are based in a rural location just outside Ludlow, Shropshire (www.ludlow.org.uk) and work on projects and schemes throughout the central England region and beyond. Our work is interesting and diverse, ranging from support for large infrastructure schemes to high-profile projects with an applied focus on conservation and innovative mitigation design.

We are seeking individuals with a passion for wildlife and ecology to be involved with project planning and coordination, development and implementation of new approaches to surveying, licensing and on-site supervision, and client and stakeholder liaison. The right individuals will have a genuine interest in supporting growth of the business they join - a business which has been operating for three years, but which is now in a position for expansion and sharing its success amongst its employees.

We are seeking Graduate Ecologists to join our business on permanent and fixed-term contracts. Individuals will ideally have the many of the following skills, competencies and personal ambitions:

- A developing portfolio of protected species field survey skills and experience, and an appetite to develop these further
- A pro-active, can-do attitude and clear willingness to get involved and support the team in all business activities
- Strong presentation and communication skills, including promotional skills via social media and other on-line platforms
- One or more protected species survey licences, or otherwise the ability to demonstrate they are working towards applying for these
- An appetite to support work-winning and project coordination activities with a view to contributing to growth of the business
- An ambition to develop as a key member of this expanding business, and to be a beneficiary of its future success
- A personal commitment to supporting safe working practices in all that we do

Qualifications and Professional Memberships

- Qualifying or Associate membership of CIEEM, or otherwise the ability to demonstrate they are working toward applying for this
- A Degree or Masters in Ecology or a related subject;

At Mortimer Environmental you will experience unparalleled opportunities for personal growth and career progression. The scope and diversity of your role will be self-defined. You won't be limited by your grade but instead you'll be supported and encouraged to grow and develop as an ecologist, and to contribute to the success of the business.

To apply please send a CV and covering letter quoting reference RO1 to: enquiries@mortimerenvironmental.com