

2024 YOUNG ARTISTS AND AUTHORS
CHANDLER STUDENTS SHOWCASE

CHANDLER GRAND PRIZE PHOTOGRAPHY

“A Flood of Green”

Sadie Johnson

While driving around one day, I saw a building that I thought defined the idea of redefining tomorrow's climate. With plants flooding off of each level, it showed the effort that cities are making to help improve the climate and make better living conditions for its inhabitants. It inspires me and gives me hope that we can undo the damage humans have inflicted on our planet and greatly improve the state of the environment.

