

SERVICE DOG TRAINING

Service Dogs are dogs that have been specially trained to perform tasks for the benefit of an individual with a disability. A service dog provides safety, confidence, independence and companionship to their owner. We train service dogs to meet each person's individual needs.

The most popular types of service dogs:

- Psychiatric Assistance
- Seizure Alert
- Diabetic Alert
- Mobility Assistance

We also train therapy dogs!

OUR MISSION

To promote and strengthen the bond between dogs and their owners through education, consistency, and effective, practical training. To teach owners how to safely and humanely train their dogs to become reliable, fun loving companions

PRIVATE LESSONS

Our private lessons provide one-on-one instruction with our expert trainers. We offer flexibility in terms of location, as we can come to your home, office, a nearby park, or wherever suits your training needs best. Alternatively, you can visit our facility. Our custom lessons can help overcome behavioral challenges and achieve your obedience training goals.

BACKGROUND & EXPERIENCE

Sandy Sandberg

Sandy Sandberg has been working with animals her entire life. She has worked with hundreds of species of animals over the past 30 years. She's worked with Service Dogs for more than 10 years. She has worked with penguins, dolphins and whales at Sea World; big cats, primates, elephants and over 200 other animals while employed at the Santa Barbara Zoo. Sandy worked at Michael Jackson's Neverland Valley Ranch as the Lead Elephant Supervisor. She has also worked with a variety of canines as a doggie trainer at the "Animal Behavior and Training Associates" center located in Los Angeles. She founded Doggie Do Good in 1998.
