

CONDITIONS WE TREAT – WORK RELATED INJURIES

WORKERS COMPENSATION

For individuals hurt on the job in New York State, the law mandates that they may chose chiropractic care for their injuries. Many times companies will try to direct their injured workers to specific doctors and although the company may suggest that you attend these doctors, they may not force you to do so. It's not uncommon for company doctors to be more concerned about the best interests of the company than those of the injured worker. They may offer less care than you really need. You will never find that situation in our offices. Our patients come first. Although we like to think of ourselves as being both company and patient friendly, we will never ignore or minimize your injuries at the insistence of the company.

Additionally, we will communicate well with your employer and the Workman's Compensation Board, write reports and attend any hearings required. If you have an old injury which has not responded well to previous treatment and have become dissatisfied with care or anxious that you will never improve, you may wish to consult our office. We are expert in the treatment of joint, muscular and spinal worker's compensation injuries. We utilize various effective therapies and offer x-ray facilities on site.
