

Notice of intention to vacate rented premises by renter(s)

Residential Tenancies Act 1997 Section 91Z

The renter may use this form to let the residential rental provider (formerly known as the landlord) know that they plan to vacate the rented premises.

Part A – Information for the renter

- You should only use this form where all renters are leaving. If one renter is leaving, for example, it may be possible to assign (transfer) their part of the lease to someone else.
- If you are experiencing hardship and will be breaking your lease, you may wish to seek legal advice before giving a notice of intention to vacate.
- Once this notice is given, it can only be withdrawn with the agreement of the residential rental provider in writing.
