Apparently Walter and Janet Lamont face several charges and with all the evidence I have it should be quick for the judge to decide their sentences.

As a result of being imprisoned in hospital as a result of the Lamonts getting me illegally sectioned, the leaks in my roof made a holes in two ceilings and the ball bearing gun that he used smashed a hole through the windows leaving small pieces of glass all over the place.

There were large cracks in the glass from the force of the ball bearing gun but none of the glass had been knocked in and there were no signs of anyone breaking in.

The Lamonts obviously wanted to keep the carpets dry so that they could live in the property while they painted it and replaced the butchered appliances in the kitchen and the work surface which was cut with a knife and was butchered probably with a screwdriver puncturing holes around the edge next to the wall.

The new oak doors of the kitchen cupboards were as I left them. The matching oak table and oak chairs with fake suede seats were untouched. They must have fancied it. The very expensive handmade coffee oak table in the lounge had only a very slight mark on it so they must have wanted quality oak furniture and obviously want to lose everything they have.
