Hello PC Fordham,

Its Lisa Landymore-Lim here.

I have been in contact with GSK for several weeks now, asking some questions about a drug called Amoxicillin used in children.

As I had been in contact with them back in 1991 through their drug information officer.

They have responded with many emails asking me what my article was about and which publication it is for. I told them that its about child health and for the media.

I dropped off a book for them about a week ago at their security front desk for Dan Smith a Director who has been writing to me after he spoke to me over the phone.

Security handed me the phone as he asked to speak to me as he was working away. I followed up with an email to him and Sarah Clements also a Director as she had previously asked to speak with me.

I can send you their emails if necessary.

Regards,

Dr Annalisa Landymore-Lim

Hello PC Fordham,

GSK obviously don't want to meet with me, that's fine. I won't contact them again.

As mentioned in my email to you, I only called once to drop off a book and Dan Smith apologised for not being there.

Regards,

Dr Annalisa Landymore-Lim

Dr Landymore-Lim,

Please can I ask that you refrain from contacting GSK as from this moment.

Regards

PC Fordham

Dear PC Fordham,

As mentioned in an email just sent I have no intention of ever contacting GSK again.

They kept on responding so I thought I'd give them more information.

Thank you for your time.

Regards,

Lisa Landymore-Lim
