

Poisonous Prescriptions – Do Antibiotics Cause Asthma and Diabetes? will make every reader think twice before taking another medicinal drug. Discover how you can protect your families' health by reading about Dr. Landymore-Lim's claims that diabetes and asthma may result from exposure to antibiotics and other drugs.

"I have now finished your book. It is great. Congratulations on the work you have done – it is indeed highly disturbing in its implications. Your documentation is valuable and impressive.

As you state yourself, it is now essential to do case control studies to determine exactly what the contribution is of medical drugs to asthma and diabetes."

Anthony R. Mawson, MA, DrPH, Visiting Professor of Public Health and Director, Institute of Epidemiology and Health Services Research, Jackson State University, Jackson, Mississippi, USA.

"Your results look most interesting and suggestive."

Medical Research Council epidemiologist (UK).

"There is no doubt that the medical profession accepts that exposure to antibiotics during manufacture can cause asthma."

Department of Health, Western Australia.
