

KATRINA

Katrina came and swept away the cars and trees
Old man left with no home all alone
Rents soared as the water poured in Man collects beer cans a penny a time
All those years he worked
Insurance company just don't give a dime

Worked hard all his life
Just trying to build a home
Never wanted for anything more
Countless years spent trucking across the land
Long and lonely nights looking forward to home
Now he ends up with nothing
Too old to roam

But he doesn't let the mildew stop him
Even when banks wouldn't give him a loan
His sole aim only to try to rebuild his home
Happy to survive now he collects
Ten thousand cans to buy a sheet of drywall
Seems like there aren't too many people
Listening out for others when they call

Worked hard all his life
Just trying to build a home
Never wanted for anything more
Countless years spent trucking across the land
Long and lonely nights looking forward to home
Now he ends up with nothing
Too old to roam
