

Wednesday 9 July 2024

Janet and Walter Lamont

You knew that the deadline to compensate me a mere £10,000 was last Thursday, but you have both decided not to so it's now £20,000 as you didn't appreciate my extremely generous offer.

My barrister has all the details including photos to take you to Court for £550,000 unless you compensate me today. Your legal fees will probably cost you a couple of thousand whereas my barrister is a friend.

I know that you're a liar so I will not accept any excuse that you don't have enough money because you can release the equity in your house or simply take out a loan arranged over the phone with the Bank of Scotland and sell your cars. If you don't pay up you'll lose your house and live under the bushes in the snow just like I had to.

I have CCTV footage of the men who removed the treated decking that I installed, and I know that you put them up to it as well as getting my bin removed twice!

Dr Lisa Landymore-Lim