CONSTRUCTION PRACTICE

Sustainable success in the construction industry depends on many factors. Vision, organizational skills, problem solving, craftsmanship, experience, and perseverance are all critical to profitability operating in this complex industry. However, it is equally vital to have a correct understanding of the risk that is inherent in today's construction environment and how to mitigate it.

At Shank & Associates Insurance Services we have made it our practice to be experts in the ever changing world of Construction Risk. Our construction clients are guided through a continual process of assessing, transferring, and controlling risk. In addition, we have developed strong relationships with the insurance underwriters who specialize in the construction industry. These two aspects of our expertise enable us to develop extremely comprehensive risk management programs for our construction clients.
