

PUREBLOOD Returns with New Single “TWO FACE”

Out August 26, 2026 via Hola Entertainment

Nashville, TN — August 26, 2026 —

PUREBLOOD, the collaboration between vocalist Cesar Punski, formerly of Oh Romeo!, and guitarist/producer Alex Lipshaw of Hey Monday, returns with its new single, “TWO FACE,” released via Hola Entertainment.

Built around sharp guitars, melodic hooks, and a high-energy pop-punk edge, “TWO FACE” explores deception, contradiction, and the distance between who people claim to be and who they reveal themselves to be.

“Everybody has encountered someone who presents one version of themselves while hiding another,” says Cesar Punski.

“The song takes that frustration and turns it into something direct, energetic, and easy to sing along with.”

“Musically, we wanted the track to hit immediately,” adds Alex Lipshaw. “It has the melody people expect from PUREBLOOD, but there is also more tension and aggression behind it.”

The single continues PUREBLOOD’s ongoing rollout of material created during the band’s initial formation and songwriting run. Each release is being introduced individually as the project expands its sound, visual identity, and growing audience.

The artwork for “TWO FACE” draws from traditional Japanese-inspired imagery and includes subtle One Piece Easter eggs for fans. The visual concept reinforces the record’s themes of duality, rebellion, and hidden identity without revealing every detail at first glance. An official lyric video will accompany the release, supported by short-form promotional content before and after release day.

“TWO FACE” fits naturally alongside modern pop-punk, alternative rock, emo, breakup, betrayal, and high-energy playlists. The single will be available across all major streaming platforms on August 26, 2026.
