- Live cannabis plants are a fresh product, and keeping them healthy from our facility to your customer takes a little coordination. We work closely with our retail partners to make the process as easy and reliable as possible.
- Plan ahead. We recommend gauging customer demand by having customers sign up and place a deposit in advance, then encouraging prompt pickup when their plants arrive. This minimizes the amount of time plants need to be maintained by your staff.
- Give them the right environment. Plants need good airflow and adequate lighting while waiting for pickup. Supplemental lighting and strong air circulation help keep plants healthy and vigorous.
- We'll help with shipping. Delivery options vary by location. We work with each retailer to find the fastest, most cost-effective shipping and delivery method for their area. Speak with Loree to discuss the best option for your store.

We can help manage your supply throughout the spring to help minimize common storage issues such as mould and mildew, damping-off, over-drying, accidental flower triggering and unnecessary returns.

We're here to help you plan your supply, coordinate delivery, and keep your plant program running smoothly.
