Introduction to the Resilience Association

- A body which freely connects people, content and ideas from across the resilience spectrum with the common aim of championing and improving organisational resilience across our community by promoting open communication, sharing best practice and extending networks, knowledge and performance
- An organisation that provides an informed and influential voice on all aspects of resilience, being open to all interested parties.
- Intended to act as a hub, which brings together ideas, information and resources from the many organisations and experts that support and promote resilience, offering an even playing field in a non competitive environment.
- Currently at the start of our journey, and in the process of establishing a website that will include links to relevant industry bodies, providing a source of materials for education, research and development
