

All instruments from Jas Linford's Brassworks come with a guarantee of playability and have been professionally cleaned and overhauled as needed. In the rare event that something breaks Jas will repair it, and his complete workshop is conveniently located near Rolling Bay. If your child accidentally damages the instrument Jas will repair it for a low fee.

All instruments will hold their value if cared for and can often be sold for what you paid on Craigslist or Bainbridge Island yard sale. If you want to sell it back to Jas at the end of the school year he will usually pay 1/2 of what you paid. Still cheaper than renting.

If your child wants to switch instruments after a few months, contact Jas and he will help your child find something they like, and he will work out a trade.
