

A Message from Your Pastor KEEP IT UP!

Talofa & Aloha Legacy Faith Family,

Praise Jesus! Let everything that has breath Praise the Lord (Psalm 150:6). As we move into the fall season I am reminded of the old saying, "Its not how you start but how you finish that matters." We started the year off with Covid protocols in place and online in January and now we are fully open and in person with Vaccination clinic done at our church almost monthly so that we can remain open and in person. Fall season is evident with pruning of leaves and weather changes which is a good contrast to our faith and how God prunes us to prepare us to bear more fruit in season. Same God that protect and provides also prunes us to make room for more! This is what excites me about Fall season, God making room for more, God is good! We serve a God of more than! For our Legacy family joining us online we want to give you the opportunity to stay connected w/your time, talents, and tithes in this fall season of the more than! Here are couple ways you can stay connected & experience the God of the more than...

- website: legacy808.com
- Sunday services online links:
  - Facebook: Legacy Church Social Media
  - YouTube: legacychristian808
- Snail mail w/newsletter & self-addressed tithes envelope w/stamp.

We still are envisioning our church as a community center for our kupuna day care and adult special needs w/a certified kitchen to provide meals on wheels for our kupuna and house less families. This is where we ask for your continued faith and faithfulness w/your time, talents, & tithes. With our Kingdom Investor pledges we are hopeful to raise $30,000 every quarter, 4 quarters through out the year. We are now in the 4th qtr. of the year and want to finish strong! Let's give of our TITHES & OFFERINGS to reach our goals.

Malachi 3:8-10AMP

8 "Will a man rob God? Yet you are robbing Me! But you say, 'In what way have we robbed You?' In tithes and offerings [you have withheld]. 9 You are cursed with a curse, for you are robbing Me, this whole nation! 10 Bring all the tithes (the tenth) into the [a] storehouse, so that there may be [b]food in My house, and test Me now in this," says the Lord of hosts, "if I will not open for you the windows of heaven and pour out for you [so great] a blessing until there is no more room to receive it.

The tithe is a measure of our obedience and the offering is a measure of our generosity. God bless you faith family for your obedience and generosity to stay blessed by the GOD of the more than, JESUS!

LCCC is home for you and me. Let's continue to work together to make this important goal happen and I promise to write to you monthly on our goal's progress. THE BEST IS YET TO COME and I'm excited for you to be a part of this!

In our abba's care & covering,

Yours truly!

Pio & Carol Sua-Godinet

FOUR SQUARE FOUNDER AIMEE SEMPLE MCPHERSON

Oct. 9, 1890 – Sept. 27, 1944

Four Square Church's Founder Aimee Semple McPherson was a woman of intense passion, creativity and energy. She led an incredible life that exemplified God's miraculous mercy. She sparked revival, established a major evangelical center in Los Angeles, and changed the lives of countless individuals.

Born Aimee Elizabeth Kennedy, she grew up in a Christian home in Ontario, Canada, but began to feel conflicted about faith as a teenager. Then, at age 17, she attended a revival led by Robert Semple. After three days of fierce uncertainty, Aimee asked the Lord to save her.

A year later, she married Robert, and they soon set sail for China as missionaries. Tragically, shortly after the newlyweds arrived in China, they both contracted malaria. Robert died as a result, leaving young Aimee both pregnant and penniless in a foreign land.

After giving birth to Roberta Star Semple, Aimee moved to New York to be near her mother. Aimee later married Harold McPherson, a Christian businessman, and they had a son, Rolf Kennedy McPherson.

Ultimately, though, while she and Harold were on an evangelistic campaign in Key West, Fla., their marriage came to end. Sadly, Aimee's third marriage to David Hutton also ended in heartbreak. He filed for divorce while Aimee was in Europe recuperating from illness. Though a staunch supporter of family values, heartbreak and pain were a reality for Aimee's marriages.

Meanwhile, her love for God and dependency on His grace continued to grow, as did her miraculous ministry. During revivals and Spirit-led services she hosted across the United States, people were regularly healed by God from illnesses and infirmity. The American Medical Association even launched an investigation in 1921 in response to reports of astonishing physical healings and found that they were "genuine, beneficial and wonderful."

Famously refusing to bow to the social injustices of her day,

Aimee preached to everyone: men and women, rich and poor, black and white, German and Japanese. All were welcome at her events.

Aimee rented large auditoriums to accommodate vast crowds. At one event in San Diego, the National Guard had to be called in to control a crowd of more than 30,000. People would wait in line for hours, even overnight, to hear “Sister McPherson” (now affectionately referred to as “Sister Aimee”) preach and pray.

In 1923, Aimee founded the first Foursquare church, Angelus Temple, in Los Angeles. There, she held services presented in five languages, encouraged ‘round-the-clock prayer, and created “illustrated sermons” to bring the gospel to life through the arts near the city’s budding Hollywood scene.

She opened a commissary and fed more than 1.5 million people during the Great Depression. She explored new technologies and became the first woman to preach a sermon over the radio, which reached all the way to the Cape Verde islands off Africa’s coast.

However, as Aimee’s reputation grew so did the threats. In 1926, she was kidnapped and held for ransom. After she escaped from the tiny shack in Mexico where she was being held captive, the media cast it as a ploy to cover up an affair. A district attorney tried to indict Aimee for conspiracy, but admitted that he couldn’t produce a single witness to testify against her.

Aimee’s public image took a beating but, as always, she continued to work hard to bring the gospel to those who needed to hear it.

During her ongoing ministry, many more thousands of people found healing and salvation in Jesus through her tireless work. Under Aimee’s direction, the first Foursquare Bible institute (known today as Life Pacific College) opened to train men and women alike and send them out as ministers. Church plants began to take root, and congregations multiplied.

Missionaries were sent out worldwide to reach people who had never before heard about Jesus. Her ministry led to such growth that in 1927, after 100 Foursquare churches had been established, steps were taken to incorporate what would become the International Church of the Foursquare Gospel (ICFG) denomination.

Meanwhile, evangelism remained an integral part of Aimee’s life. She relied on the Holy Spirit to maintain her gospel-centered message, but also to reveal new methods to reach people who needed Jesus’s restoration through repentance.

While ministering in Mexico in 1943, Aimee contracted an aggressive bacillus in her intestinal tract. She maintained a vigorous schedule, and she took tablets to help her sleep.

After she led a revival service in Oakland, Calif., on Sept. 27, 1944, a tube running to her kidneys ruptured, allowing the tablets’ medication to directly enter her system. Aimee Semple McPherson died as a result.

But the movement that she started survived. Known today as The Foursquare Church, it continues her powerful legacy of passionate evangelism and worldwide missions in the name of Jesus Christ—Savior, Baptizer With the Holy Spirit, Healer and Soon-Coming King.
