Biography

Val Johnson is an R&B/ Hip Hop artist from Brooklyn, New York. Growing up, Val listened to a wide range of old school artists including Michael Jackson, Stevie Wonder, Teddy Pendergrass, Barry White, Tina Turner, and Sade. As he grew older, other artists like Usher, Chris Brown, Mario, Ne-Yo, and Drake inspired him to become an artist. Val was also inspired by R&B/ Hip Hop Moguls like Berry Gordy (Motown Records), Sean “Diddy” Combs (Bad Boy Records), Dame Dash/ Karrem Burke, Jay- Z (Roca-fella Records/Roc Nation) and Rick Rubin/Russell Simmons (Def Jam Records.) Val began singing and rapping at the age of 12. “I started writing lyrics in my notebook, recording songs off the radio, one day my Godfather brought me a karaoke machine and the rest was history.” Since then Val started a record label called Handsome Boy Records inspired by his dear, late mother and moguls that came before him. His latest single/video "I'm Handsome" along with a short album titled "I'm Handsome" EP is out now.
