Always consult your professional tax or legal advisor to determine the tax implications for your situation prior to making a gift. This document contains guidelines to assist in the mechanics of making a charitable gift of agricultural commodities and is not to be construed as specific tax advice.

TIPS FOR GIFTS OF GRAIN

- Timing. Gifts of grain to charity can be made from the current or previous year's harvest.
- Unsold commodity. The gift must be from unsold crop inventory with no prior sale commitment. A farmer will gift the grain to the Community Foundation (CF*), or designate a specific charitable fund within the Foundation.
- Physical delivery. Be sure the gift is farm commodities, not warehouse receipts, which could be considered a cash equivalent. The CF must be able to demonstrate "control and dominion" over the gifted property.
- Retention of control. Farmers cannot offer guidance in the transfer agreement as to retention or sale of the gifted commodity.
- Documentation. The transaction must be well-documented to show the CF as owner of the grain. A Gift of Grain Form and a properly executed warehouse receipt in the Community Foundation's name must be completed. The original sales invoice for the gift of grain must list the CF as the seller.
- Storage and transportation costs. After the transfer of ownership of the grain, the CF assumes the risks of storage, marketing & transportation costs, as well as price risk.
- Crop share landlords. Crop share landlords cannot gift grain. Shares of crop are rental income that must be reported as income on their tax return.
- Tax outcomes. Costs associated with growing the crops may not be deductible if those costs are incurred in the same year as the year of the donation of the grain. Therefore, gifts made from the prior years' unsold crop inventory may offer the best tax results. Tax outcomes are also impacted by whether a farmer does cash or accrual accounting. See your tax advisor to determine if this is the best course of action for your circumstances.
- Farm Corporations. The benefits described in this brochure apply to calendar year-cash basis sole proprietorships. Corporations are not treated the same way from a tax perspective. Ask your tax professional to see if your farm operation can benefit from a charitable gift.
- Government payments limitation caps. The gift of grain will not count as income in government payments limitation caps calculation.
