

TEACHING AND LEARNING POLICY

In 2011, the government defined British Values as democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, mutual respect and tolerance of different faiths and beliefs. This guidance was initially published to further strengthen the previous guidance published in improving the spiritual, moral, social and cultural development of pupils to ensure young people leave school prepared for modern life in Britain.

In November 2014, the government outlined that all schools must now have a clear strategy for embedding these values and show how their work has been effective in doing so.

IncludEd promotes these values through our own school values, curriculum delivery, and the school offer and enrichment activities. The purpose of our actions will ensure that all pupils at IncludEd have a voice that is listened to through the school based activities outlined below. In order to recognise the impact of these values through our work we have identified key performance indicators to allow us to judge the effectiveness of our work through our curriculum offer, school vision statement and IncludEd Code of Conduct.

The aims and principles of this policy have been arrived at through a considered process of discussion, consultation and reflection involving all teaching staff, pupils and parents.

Introduction

At IncludEd, we are passionate about the concept of 'life-long learning' and believe that learning should be a rewarding and enjoyable experience for all. We need all to be 'active participants' in their learning and not 'passive recipients'.

Through our Teaching we should equip our pupils with the skills, knowledge and understanding necessary to be able to make informed choices about the important things in their lives. Appropriate Learning and Teaching experiences help our pupils to lead happy, fulfilled and rewarding lives.

We believe that it is the entitlement of every child to have access to a high quality 'learning environment' and 'effective teaching' and that it is the provision of these that are the most significant factors in determining:

- Pupil attitudes to, and successes with, learning
- Standards of attainment
- Rates of progress

Key Learning Principles

We believe that: •

- There is no known ceiling to achievement – intelligence can be developed.
- Each student must know what to do in order to improve and how to do it - high expectations on their own are not enough.
- Each student has the right to be successful and the ability to achieve.
- pupils should be taught how to learn and how to reflect and improve on their learning.
- Learning objectives and outcomes are shared and reviewed.
- Clear, structured lessons promote learning.
- All staff must create and maintain a purposeful learning environment.
- Achievement should be recognised and rewarded.
- Underachievement must be challenged, not processed.
- All teaching styles are valued as long as they support pupils' learning and progression.
- No opportunities are missed to teach literacy and numeracy skills across all subject areas.

Stage 1 – The school aims

- To ensure that every pupil receives the teaching and learning necessary for them to learn within their individual pace, identified need, behaviour and emotional state.
- IncludEd offers a broad curriculum which holds regard for the National Curriculum.
- To ensure that the curriculum is delivered through positive opportunities and regard to PSHE and personal, social development
- To meet the SEN needs of pupils.
- To ensure that, as pupils leave the school, they have a desire to continue to learn and undertake opportunities which remove the risk of them becoming a NEET statistic.
- To equip pupils with the tools necessary to positively influence their own lives and lives of others.
- That when pupils look back on their time at school, albeit much later, they will do so with positive regard to the experience they received.

When can teaching and learning happen?

If pupils are to learn in school, it can happen within three contexts; lesson, routines and events.

- Lessons – those planned experiences when pupils are in the care of a teacher or others and work through a programmed scheme of work to move towards their learning goals. The lesson may take place in a range of settings.
- Routines – those regular occurrences in schools when pupils go about their school life whilst being influenced by the place in which they find themselves. Routines, the start of the day, lunchtime, leisure time, moving around the school, access to ICT, homework and many others.
- Events – IncludEd arrange events such as sporting occasions, community volunteering, residentials and the like. All of these events create opportunities for pupils to both learn curriculum content and/or develop qualities and personal characteristics. IncludEd recognises that the aims of the school will be achieved through lessons, routines and events and they can be achieved much more successfully if all of these are planned and carefully managed.

Important considerations;

- Approaches – these will be delivered through careful assessment, planning evaluation and delivery.
- Skills – IncludEd staff will have clear knowledge of skills which are important for children at each phase of their development and will enable them to be taught effectively. Staff will be employed who have a variety of skills and backgrounds related to pupil need. Where staff need training this will be accessed from external or internal routes.

- Purposes – children learn more when they understand the purpose of what is asked of them. The staff at IncludEd will show clear purpose in their planning of the curriculum.
- Relationships – the relationships within IncludEd will be based upon an understanding of the social, emotional, behavioural and learning needs of the child. There will be an expectation of appropriate challenge and mutual respect.
- Pupil Voice - as our pupils' are 'active participants' in their learning we are committed to the use of 'Pupil Voice'. Pupil Voice is used and actively encouraged both at the beginning of the 'theme' and throughout so as curiosity and the desire to pursue aspects of learning are satisfied. Pupil Voice is taken and phrased as 'questions' which can then be answered by the whole class, groups or individuals (but fed back to the whole class) as appropriate. The class teacher 'manages' the balance between Pupil Voice and National Curriculum Coverage on a continuous basis so as whilst the pupil's are shaping and having an active part in the direction of their learning, they are also still receiving a broad and balanced curriculum in terms of coverage, continuity and progression.
- Assessment – the pupils at IncludEd will learn well when learning is planned, based on what pupils know, understand and can do. Assessment of learning (summative) is there to inform the individual learning strategies for pupil progress. When pupils know where they are now, what they need to do next to improve, they are clearly involved in the assessment for learning (formative) process and will learn.

The key issues;

The key issues can be narrowed down into these essential components of school life.

- Teaching Style – schools need a balance of teaching styles ranging from whole class didactic teaching through to individual exploratory work passing through interactive group work or interactive whole class teaching on the way. IncludEd will undertake a range of styles based on learning preference and understanding of need through assessment and experience of working with the pupil.
- Environments – pupils learn well when the environment in which they find themselves is well ordered and well managed, where there is discipline and clarity about expectations. Environments will vary depending on the curriculum content or the characteristics that are being developed. IncludEd will provide or access a variety of environments.
- Rules and Behaviours – IncludEd will use a clearly defined and managed set of expectations and consequences to promote positive approaches to learning and each other.

Using resources

If the aims of Included are to be achieved in terms of teaching and learning it is essential that the adults arrange resources effectively and to good purpose.

- Space – the effective use of space, large and small, is a key element of effective teaching.
- Furniture – careful thought about furniture, how it is placed, how it is used, who is allowed to use it, will create the opportunity for learning to be successful.
- Time – approaches to time which allow for flexibility, for limits, for pupils to be given longer, reflective experiences or be demanded upon so that they hit deadlines will give children a sense of urgency and control within their work.
- People – learning takes place with the support of many adults within Included. Children will work with tutors, support staff, learning mentor, parents/carers and pupils in the classrooms. It is essential that these other people know some of the ways in which they can influence children's learning and that the children know many of the ways in which they can make best use of the adults.
- Material and Apparatus – if the pupils within Included are to use new skills for the right purposes to develop the right approaches, then it is essential that they know how to use the apparatus and materials, that they know what they are for, how to use them properly and where to keep them.

Opportunities for dissemination;

- The school offers to its pupils and the supporting ethos necessary to realise those aims demonstrated in the teaching and learning policy. Included will consider how pupils' view and contributions are to be built into the process. This will be undertaken through representation of pupils to the director on a regular basis.
- Included will include the sharing of existing good practice within the school, peer mentoring and teacher self evaluation processes.
- The teaching and learning policy will have a regular slot at staff meetings and needs to focus on the policy/sharing practice/pedagogical debate.
- Activities within the school improvement plan will reflect and support the teaching and learning policy of Included.
