Broncos Announce Burnham Yard as their Preferred Stadium Site

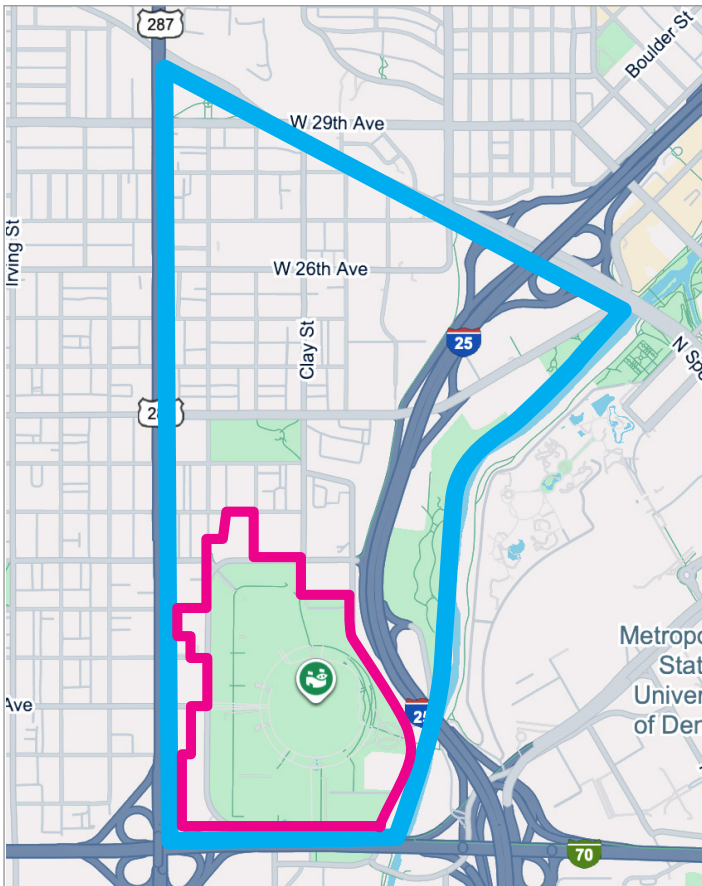

The Denver Broncos announced Burnham Yard as the preferred site for a new, privately funded retractable-roof stadium. The 70-acre former railyard, located just southeast of the current stadium, will also feature a mixed-use district. Public improvements will be supported by city and state partnerships, but no new taxes.

What happens next to Empower Field at Mile High?

Empower Field at Mile High and its surrounding 80 acres will revert to city ownership in 2030, opening the door to major redevelopment. In the City's press release, Council President Amanda Sandoval said, "The Broncos are so much more than a team. They are a vital part of Denver's identity and a cherished tradition. The current stadium site is a once-in-a-generation opportunity to create a dynamic neighborhood that will bring new jobs, investment, and much-needed affordable housing." Planning is expected to begin late 2027, which will amend the West Area Plan.

RNOs are groups formed by residents and property owners to share updates, organize events, and work on local projects. But not all RNOs operate the same way. While most people think of them as unique to a statistical neighborhood, the City allows many types of organizations to participate. Boundaries can overlap. There are numerous neighborhoods across the city where multiple RNOs are active. HOAs within a neighborhood can even register. This is especially helpful in situations where an RNO is inactive and no longer shares City updates with its constituents.

The current ordinance guiding RNOs was written in the 1970s and hasn't been updated since. Councilwoman Gonzales-Gutierrez and Councilman Kashmann aim to modernize the rules for equity, accessibility, and transparency.

Jefferson Park Pet Spotlight: Kovu

For our 10th issue, we finally have one of our feline friends, this time submitted by Emily:

My cat's name is Kovu. She's 11 years old. Biggest meow on this side of the Mississippi. She is 16,000 beans in weight. Loves to go on walks, very slowly smelling every bush along the way. She uses me for car rides, big on adventure. She has to be fed at specific times due to her non controllable eating when being free fed. She'll step on your face until you give her food in the morning.
