B.A. degree in psychology is built on a 'liberal arts' or 'humanities' line. The early semesters, therefore, have the basic foundation courses; the later semesters have more courses in the specialized field. (X). Besides psychology as a major, I have philosophy and art as minor or secondary fields in my B.A. program.

The term CREDITS refers to credit hours- how many hours per week are spent lecture, discussion and or lab groups, per subject.
