Diane Rowley,

(Little fish as a child because of her love of the water) was born in Washington DC where she attended school until the family moved to

She met Jack, her late husband, on a blind date, when he was a young Marine Corps Lieutenant in basic training at Quantico, Virginia in 1951. They had a church wedding just 42 days after that eventful date; and then he was sent off to Korea just three months later. Welcome to the Marine Corps, Diane!

Young Diane worked for the Republican National Committee in DC as a receptionist and actually attended the Inaugural Ball in Washington DC in 1953.

She traveled with her husband as he served his country, living three years in Guam, where she and the whole family took up SCUBA diving three times a week. While there she chaired the wives' bazaar and shopped extensively, visiting the Philippines, Japan, Taiwan, Kuala Lumpur and Singapore. She says her house is full of mementos to prove it.

When Jack was stationed in Washington, DC, Diane worked as a librarian at her kids grade school. Yes, along their journey together, they managed to raise four children: Dana, Brett, Jan and Lynn, all UC graduates, Dana and Jan from UCSB, Brett and Lynn, from UCLA.

Upon his retirement from the Marine Corps in 1982, Col. Rowley accepted a supervisory position at the dock in Lagos, Nigeria which enabled the couple to take a six week vacation around the world, the highlight of which, for Diane, was visiting the Taj Mahal.

Diane and her husband moved to Brookings in 1990, twenty nine years ago. They chose a location where they could look out to sea. They enjoyed fishing and playing bridge together. Unfortunately, Diane lost her husband of 55 years in 2006. Diane then filled her time as an active member of DAR, Red Shirts, and the Marine Corps League.

She still travels to visit her kids every Christmas and Fourth of July and other times whenever possible. She is very proud to say that she has nine accomplished grandchildren, 8 have graduated from college – one still in school. The grandkids careers include doctor, aeronautical engineer, marketing, business, finance, and mother. She now has two great grandchildren.

Diane would like the reader to know that she will turn 91 next birthday and was 77 when she last went SCUBA diving.
