

#11 Today's Young Man

(Mature Readers ONLY)

Today's young man is basically lost
Little does he realize how much it will cost.
He does not see the things he does
Will send him to hell and that is because

He's willingly ignorant, refuses to see
The real man that God wants him to be.
He's got scales upon scales that cove his eyes
And Satan wants to keep him there till the day he dies.

Unless he's willing to look at his peers,
To open up his heart and unplug his ears
And listen to what God's saints have to say
About the state of the world today.

They tell him it's evil and it's all a big plan.
The Devil wants to take with him all that he can
Into the Lake of Fire down below
Not understanding you'll reap what you sow!

He lives in a world that's ruled by his head.
Thinks constantly about how to get chicks into bed.
He constantly hovers around the young girls,
Seeking to uncover their sweet precious pearls.

I understand the feelings that are driving his soul.
When I was young, that too was my goal!
I wanted to find a beautiful mate
To get down to business and go procreate!

That desire is normal for this modern man.
When he can't fulfill it, he uses his hand
To quell the fires that rise up inside
Until he finds the one who'll be his bride.

He looks with his heart and not with his heart.
If he sticks to that plan, with God he will part.
It's unsafe, dangerous and certainly wrong.
Those evil influences are ungodly strong.

The chances are great he'll catch a disease
Like syphilis, or clap, or more S.T.D's.
If lucky, the symptoms with medicine fades;
But no one can stop the onslaught of AIDS!

My hope is that this young man will turn to the Lord,
And turn from the hate and the Devil's discord,
To find peace and security and true happiness,
And to know of his purpose. Then no more to guess.

It's his personal will that must turn the tide,
And figure out to God's will he must learn to abide,
And follow Christ Jesus' plan for success
To save him from his life that's been such a mess.

It matters not how bad we were!
The blood of Jesus is our only cure!
Believe in Him; for He forgives!
And he who does... forever lives!
