

“Bring the Storm (Anchored Version)”

Written By: Preston Allen Fredrich

[Intro – Spoken Word, Ambient Piano]

Are we pickin’ fruit on desire alone?
Buildin’ houses without roofs not protectin’ the soul?
Buildin’ faster than the architect’s design?
Tryin’ to pulse life while leadin’ with lies?

[Verse 1 – Spoken/Chanted Flow, Male Voice + Deep Pad]

Have I not seen the sword on the East Side Guardin’?
Does it not flash back and forth as a reminder to the forgotten?
Does He not walk on water like unspoken words?
Like the day and the hour that has been reserved?
Everyone cries against the storm they think is brewin’
Did we forget our inheritance and who sits on the Throne?
Are we chasing control or surrendering our souls?

[Pre-Chorus – Female Voice, Slow Build with Choir Echoes]

I choose Wisdom... I choose my Soul... I choose Inheritance... I am not alone!
I choose Wisdom... I choose my Soul... I choose Inheritance... I am not alone!
His name holds... The weight of the world... I choose Inheritance... from the Throne!
I see Proverbs 4:23... my heart a vessel... guardin’ me!

[Chorus – Full Ensemble, Rising Intensity]

So Bring the storm! Bring the rain! Bring the wind!
I’m not afraid!
There is no Fear... When I call the name!
Bring JESUS!
Ohhh Come Lord Jesus! In Your Name!

[Bridge – Spoken Surge + Choir Echo]

Your heart still beats...
Your breath still flows...
And Heaven knows...
This storm is not your grave!
So rise up!

[Chorus – Repeat, Gospel Soar]

Bring the storm!
Bring the rain!
Bring the wind!
Say... His... Name...

Thank you Jesus... Thank You Father... Thank You Spirit... We... Thank... You... Jesus!

Prophetic gospel fusion, cinematic ambient intro with piano and pads, male spoken word with female vocal pre-chorus, gospel choir ensemble, rising revival energy, worship climax
