WRITER'S BIO

Kimaya Floyd aka The Curly Scribe is an African-American, comedic writer from the inner city of Los Angeles who has worked as a Scripted & Unscripted Development and Casting Assistant since 2010. She is also an award winning screenwriter. One of her most recent pilots, “Code Switchin’”, an imaginative comedy inspired by her experience of always being the only Black person in the office, landed her a spot as a semi-finalist in the CBS Writer’s Mentorship Program. Known for her strong command in the elements of story and her ability to write over the top, raw and absurd comedy, Kimaya writes untapped stories about multicultural and female characters, overcoming rejection while trying not to snap (probably inspired by her one year of mandatory anger management). To learn more about this emerging, new comedic voice or to read the script many are calling “hilariously relatable”, please contact Faith France at CAA.

ODD JOBS & JOBS I HATED LEARNED FROM:

Office Technician, State of California, Los Angeles, CA 2014-2015: Eggshell colored walls, gray cubicles and outdated technology. This is where dreams go to die!

Bank Teller, First Entertainment Credit Union, Miracle Mile, CA 2008-2010: Turns out, there's a lot of crooks out there!

Sales Associate, Fredericks of Hollywood, Torrance, CA 2007-2008: Where you compromise your morals and help old married men shop for their mistresses to make your monthly sales quota.

Model, Abercrombie & Fitch, Northridge, CA 2006-2007: One day, I'm going to have to explain this to my grandchildren...

Sales Associate, Universal Studios, Universal City, CA Summer 2006: Quit after one week... it was way too hot to be out in that sun!

Sales Associate, PacSun, West Los Angeles, CA Summer 2005: The summer I was learning how to drive and would hit random cars in the mall parking lot, then move my car to the next level in hopes of not being found out.

Youth Camp Counselor, Tom Bradley Youth & Family Center, Los Angeles, CA Summer 2004: The summer I learned that after kids turn nine years old, they become terrible people.

~~TRAUMA~~... NOTABLE LIFE EXPERIENCES

- Father was high ranking gang member of the Crips and sent to prison for 25 years... Missed my entire childhood, but my parents (childhood sweethearts) stayed together. Recently released. Oh and he's a chauvinistic Trump supporter now. So... yeah... there's that!
- Grew up a latchkey kid in Los Angeles; exposed to lots of wild parties and the Hollywood club scene as a teen.
- Went to the most Diverse school in the state and first real encounter with racism was in a California college. Also had the world's most disgusting roommates!
- Was sent to anger management & group therapy as a teen...
- Survivor of domestic violence.
- First person in family to finish college with a 4 year degree.
- Dumped in college on social media at the height of Facebook!
- Perpetual F***boy magnet: one of my exes cheated and got a stripper pregnant in Vegas... hid it for seven months, then kidnapped me when I broke up with him... no seriously!
- There's plenty more but I've run out of space!

“DO SOME F-BOY SHIT TO ME & IT’S GOING IN A SCRIPT! HI, I’M THE
BLACK TAYLOR SWIFT OF THIS SCREENWRITING SHIT!”

Sincerely,

Kimaya Floyd aka The Curly Scribe
