

The Mindful Journey

A boy, Reed, flees his responsibilities by into the jungle, but finds wisdom in the mythical Kingdom of Shambala.

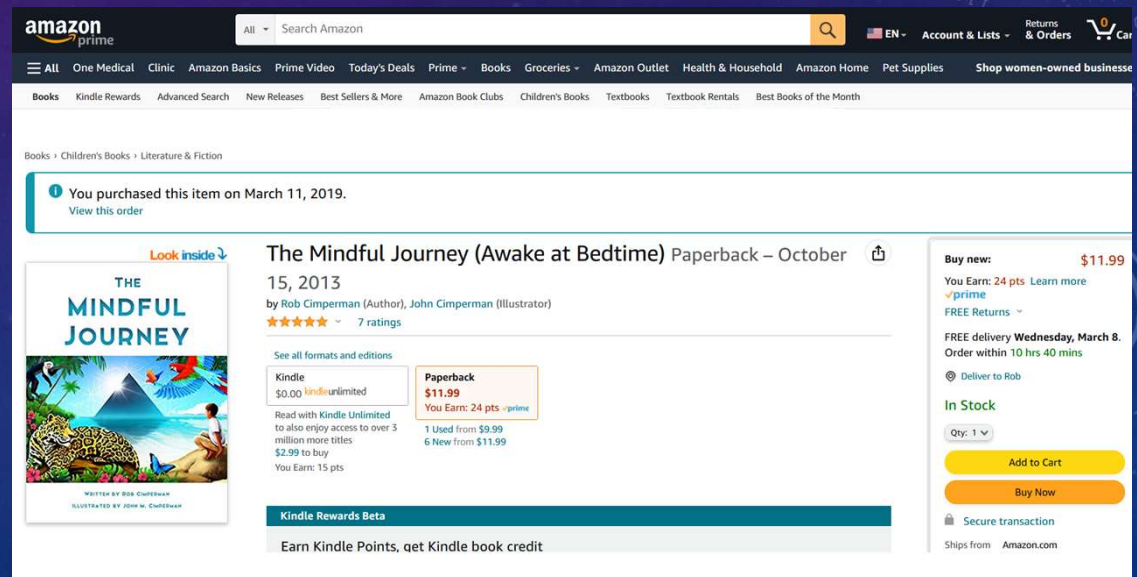

This poetic children's book and discussion of Buddhist principles helps young and old see that all the magic we seek has been with us from the start.

This film is a visual reimagining of the 2019 edition of "The Mindful Journey," brought to life by John M. Cimperman's original artwork plus a collection of AI Art, and sound effects, voiced by the family upon which the story is based (my own).

*"When you stew about a chore,
or fight imaginary war,
Just take a break, and see each day like it's a brand new door.*

*Life becomes a wonder—always your first day of school.
Creative juices start to flow.
Your world is what you rule."*

Problem This Film Solves:

Life's not fair. So this beautifully-illustrated dramatic reading of an 8-minute children's book and 4-minute discussion make a bite-sized Buddhist message of Basic Goodness that is essential for Westerners to hear, now more than ever: happiness comes from facing our world rather than escaping it.
