BJJ Black Belt

Krav Maga Black Belt

Coach Hahn at 57 years of age, though his life long commitment to learning, training, and using techniques in real life situations professionally as a bouncer, private security, personal protection services and former prison guard, has designed a self-defense program for real people in real life self defense scenarios. These techniques are becoming more needed and important to each of us and our loved ones in the world we live in everyday. These classes are taught in regular gym clothes and sometimes everyday clothing to teach students the reality of self defense. No gi's needed. Introductory free class available to new students.
