A Letter from the Publisher

*By Stefanie Riggs
Publisher*

It is hard to believe that this publication has been in Jackson for five years this month.

Thank you, Jackson, for embracing this idea we had! Looking back to our first issue, and all of those on our journey to where we are now, it is incredible to see the change. Our community has grown and changed, but the support has never faltered.

It is our privilege to share with the people of Jackson all of the wonderful happenings going on throughout our community, as well as being able to share the expertise of many of our local professionals. As a collaborative resource guide, we welcome area businesses and non-profits to share what makes their company unique. Who better to tell your story than you?

Advertising is important as we all know. The world runs very quickly and people absorb things in short snippets. So a clear concise message is a must. But, when given a chance to share more, an article that provides details of an event or topic is a great way to reinforce and support an eye-catching marketing piece.

As a community resource guide, we want to share all resources. If you have a business or organization that you want the community to be aware of please contact us. Keep in mind that 70 to 80 percent of all buying decisions are made by women and that is who we reach. Families need a wide variety of services and items such as insurance, automobiles, cloth-tion. Through these difficult situations, we are able to band together with the goal of creating a world in which each and every person would want their children to grow up. Through our words and daily actions, we have the ability to change things. Whether it is a friendly greeting to a person you have never met, an email to someone you have not spoken to in some time, or paying for the car behind you in a drive thru line, there are many ways that each of us can create joy and solidarity in our community.

Though this time has been difficult for individuals and companies, we want to let all of you know that we will be continuing our mission of strengthening families in the Jackson community by providing fun and useful information.

We look forward to continuing to share with Jackson all the wonderful knowledge, culture and activities this community has to offer. Thank you for supporting us and please continue to tell your friends and family about us. We can be found in more than 150 area businesses and during school months we go home from school with most Jackson County elementary school children.

The Black Lives Matter Movement

By Elizabeth Farmer &
Sarah Nisenson

On May 25, Derek Chauvin, a police officer, responded to a call about an alleged fraudulent bill. He handcuffed George Floyd, the suspect, and pinned him to the ground. He then knelt on his neck for 8 minutes and 46 seconds. Officer Chauvin murdered George Floyd. There is no nuance. George Floyd, a black man, was murdered by a white police officer. Just as Breonna Taylor, a 26-year-old black EMT, was murdered by police after they entered the wrong apartment and shot her 8 times while she was asleep in her bed. Police failed to arrest the murderers of black 25-year-old Ahmaud Arbery for months after his death, until a video went viral of armed white men pursuing Arbery on his daily jog.

At the end of all this, we are left with one certainty: black lives matter. Which brings us to new questions: who, exactly, do the police serve? Who are they protecting? Officer Chauvin did not respond to that call alone: there were three other officers there, each of whom stood by and did nothing while George Floyd repeated that he couldn't breathe. If Officer Chauvin is the "bad apple" touted by Police PR, then what does that make his fellow officers?

It is easy to forget the whole expression: one bad apple spoils the whole bunch. This is the reality of policing: officers are complicit in a system built to serve and protect a white hierarchy. The police operate on an outdated ideology built around policing black bodies. The modern police trace their origins back to slave patrols of a bygone era, designed to enforce the power of a white ruling class. While the time of slaves has come and gone, we have reintroduced the concept through the massive private prison system that sees countless non-white people jailed for far less than their white counterparts. Prisoners are paid slave wages for their work done in prison, and they experience far less labor protections than their free peers. They can't vote, face massive unemployment challenges, and many end up right back in jail upon release. These systems are not designed to rehabilitate criminals and aid them in becoming productive members of society. These systems are designed to be profitable, which means filling them with as many bodies as possible. The police are integral to this system; furthermore, they arrest and charge black people at an alarmingly higher rate than whites.

Jackson, Michigan, houses a massive prison. In fact, it houses the first Michigan state prison ever constructed. This, unfortunately, is what it is known for. Anyone driving along the highway, upon seeing the sign for Jackson, will remark upon passing "Prison City." But will they know that Jackson is regarded by many as the birthplace of the Republican party? Will they know that Jackson is one of the first cities to ever house an argument for the abolishment of slavery? Like many places, Jackson is instead defined by the prison industrial system it houses, another injustice of such a system. As a city, what do you wish to be defined by? What will be your legacy?

There is a better world waiting for us at the end of all this grief. We can design a system that doesn't rely on violence and force to solve problems that could be better handled by a social worker or a mental health professional. Police officers are not the only way we can uphold law and order in America. We must all do our part to build this better world. Sign petitions. Donate. Use your voice. And remember that black lives matter.

Elizabeth Farmer is a junior studying English at the University of Michigan. She is a recent recipient of the Hopwood Nonfiction Award for writing. Sarah Nisenson is a recent graduate of the University of Michigan. In her studies she completed an honors thesis entitled "Can We Ever See Their Faces" that focuses on memorializations of Hurricane Katrina.

Learn to Be a Tourist in Your Hometown

Golf Games, Walking Tours, & More this Summer!

By Val Herr

Well, I never expected - as I'm sure most of you would agree - that in June we would still be dealing with a stay at home order due to COVID-19. It's been an interesting spring and I hope all of you have been able to make some good family memories while being at home. My family has done more projects around the house than my guys care for, but they are great guys so they keep doing them. We planted fruit trees and put in an extension garden.

Every Thursday has been Take-Out Thursday which entails choosing a new restaurant each week. We have enjoyed finding locally owned restaurants that we didn't even know existed before. While we have tried to make the most of this time, we are ready to hit the road and do something new and different. With the unofficial launch of summer behind us it's time to be outside and enjoy Michigan weather. Although many of the popular events are cancelled this summer, there are still ways to spend time with friends and family, and create lasting memories. Be sure to check with each location prior to your arrival to ensure they are open and see what regulations they have:

1. Cascades Foot Golf Course-1992 Warren Ave, Jackson MI.

This is a unique cross between golf and soccer and something the entire family can enjoy. Footgolf is a sport, in which players kick a spherical soccer ball into a cup in as few shots as possible. The name is a portmanteau of football and golf, and the game combines the two sports, being more closely related to golf.

2. Visit the Cascades Falls-1401 S.Brown Street, Jackson MI. This iconic Jackson landmark receives thousands of visitors a year but when is the last time you were there? The Falls were built in the early spring of the 1930s. Its first display to the public was on May 10, 1932. The Cascades Falls are 500 feet in length, a vertical height of 64 feet, and a total width of 60 feet. There are 6 fountains, 16 Falls (11 are illuminated), 1,230 Colored Electric Lights, and a 2,000 gallon per minute water pump that filters, chlorinates, and recycles water in a closed loop system. There are 126 steps along each side of the Falls. This walkway passes 3 main pools of water that are 30 feet by 90 feet. (Jackson County website).

3. Play some Putt Putt at Ella Sharp Park's Miniature Golf Course-2800 Fourth Street. This 18 hole course is perfect for the entire family and a great way to also spend time in the park. Take a picnic lunch and make a day of it.

4. Check out the list of downtown Jackson walking tours from Experience Jackson: <https://www.experiencejackson.com/things-to-do/uniquely-jackson/walking-tours>

Strap on your comfy shoes and head out to our amazing downtown. I bet you will learn a few things along the way and walking is a great form of exercise and stress reducer.

As always it's less about what you do and more about who you do it with. Get out there, try new things and make some great memories along the way.

Jackson YMCA Distributes Free Meals, Essential Items

By Bonnie Gretzner,

Jackson YMCA Marketing Director

Although the Jackson YMCA remains closed this month due to a state-mandated order, a small group of staff has remained to handle essential services, including facility maintenance, membership inquiries and distribution of student and family meals and emergency care items.

All items are distributed FREE of charge weekdays from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; access is through the alley from Wesley Street. The Y has partnered with many community organizations to offer the following:

- With Jackson Public Schools, the Y is offering sack breakfasts, lunches and dinners. On Friday, enough meals are provided for the weekend. Adults do not need to have their children with them to pick up the meals. The week of May 4, the Y team served 4,461 meals!

- In partnership with Compassionate Ministries of Jackson County, the Jackson YMCA is providing nonperishable family meal kits.

- The Y is also distributing essential care items - such as infant items (diapers, wipes, formula), personal hygiene products (soap, toothpaste, each week.

"Within days of closing we were able to pivot to provide emergency services for ALL," said Jackson YMCA CEO Shawna Tello. "I am grateful that our Y is able to support kids, adults and families during this challenging time."

The Y continues to meet community needs as they arise. For instance, Calvary United Methodist is providing meals and a place to sleep for up to 25 homeless individuals and families. On May 7, the Y was able to provide the group with transportation and showers at the Y.

A recent grant will help the Y continue the meal and essential item distribution well into the summer. The YMCA recently received a $5,000 grant from the COVID-19 Response Fund from the United Way of Jackson County and the Jackson Community Foundation.

Said Shawna, "We are so appreciative of this funding, as so many people look to the Y for support."

July List of Scholarships from the College & Career Access Center

Contributed by College & Career Access Center

Scholarships are extremely important to the college funding process, as they are a source of money that is awarded to the student. Unlike student loans, these funds represent dollars that do not require repayment. In dedication to our mission, the CCAC will assist students in exploring all possible options. Our advisors research local, state, and federal scholarships from a broad variety of scholarship resources. We seek out unique opportunities based upon each student's eligibility. We take into consideration criteria such as: academic performance, financial need, and major concentration. We also look for scholarships that base awards on the unusual. Writing contests, fun competitions, and talent based contests provide creativity in college funding.

You may visit this site for a monthly list of scholarships and their respective deadlines. You may also schedule an appointment with any of our advisors to research options as well as discuss individual concerns.

My Beautifully Inspired Mess...

Up, Up & Away

By Kelli Schweizer

One of my absolute FAVORITE traditions/events that we have here in Jackson is the Annual Hot Air Balloon Jubilee. I have been going to it since I can remember. My mom used to wake me up so early so that we could go chase them around the county. Even to this day, I will call her when I see one flying so she can hopefully see it too.

My heart is so heavy knowing that we will not get to experience such a wonderful event this year due to COVID-19. I decided to bring the hot air balloons into my home as fun activities for my kiddos while we wait out this long period of isolation.

We created two fun crafts to do inspired by the Hot Air Balloon Jubilee. First, we created a 3D hot air balloon constructed out of paper and glue. It was fun and relatively easy. Younger kiddos will need some guidance but it was fun for me too! One of my favorite things about hot air balloons are their different designs. Personally, I love the bright, rainbow colored ones. My kiddos like the one shaped as Sugar Bear. For our second craft, we decided to Google a few hot air balloons for inspiration and design our own! It was SO easy and only required two materials!

3D Hot Air Balloons

Materials Needed:

- Construction Paper
- Print out to trace (optional, can also draw freehand)
- Marker/tracing utensil
- Glue
- Scissors
- String or Fishing Line (optional)

How To:

Step 1: Find what hot air balloon size/shape you'd like to create. You can easily draw the shape yourself, however, I have zero drawing ability so I Googled "Hot Air Balloon Template" and up popped so many options!

Step 2: Trace Hot Air Balloon shape onto various colors of construction paper. (You could also use plain white printer paper and have them color)

Step 3: Cut out balloon shapes.

Step 4: Fold each shape in half vertically so it bends in the middle.

Step 5: Glue the back of each folded shape together to create a 3D balloon (it takes 4, folded balloon shapes to create one balloon.)

Step 6: Add fishing line or string at the top if you'd like to hang them up!

Design Your Own Hot Air Balloon

Materials Needed:

- Latex Balloon (or any solid color birthday balloon)
- Markers

How To:

Step 1: Blow up latex balloon and tie to close.

Step 2: Let your kiddos decorate the balloon with markers any way they'd like! Look up hot air balloons online for inspiration!

Sunscreen shields your skin from the sun's rays and reduces your risk for developing skin cancer. Lips can get sunburned too, so remember to apply a lip balm with an SPF of 15 or higher. Learn more about comprehensive skin care at HenryFord.com slash dermatology.

Your skin is designed to protect you, but it needs protection too. Whether it's sunny or cloudy, make sunscreen part of your daily routine to protect against skin cancer. The American Academy of Dermatology recommends a Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of 30 or higher. Learn about your risk for different types of skin cancer at HenryFord.com slash skin cancer.

Before you head out to enjoy time in the sun this summer, remember to protect your skin with a broad-spectrum sunscreen to guard against both UVA and UVB rays. UVA rays are connected to signs of premature aging and linked to melanoma. UVB rays are the ultraviolet rays that burn your skin. Find more ways to protect your skin at HenryFord.com slash skin cancer.

Regardless of the weather, protecting your skin from the sun is important all year long. Wear sunscreen daily and limit sun exposure by wearing long sleeves and a broad-brimmed hat – making sure to stick to shady spots between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., when sunburn is more likely.
