ABOUT ISLAND iV

Meet Greg Bowen, a registered nurse, Founder and CEO of Island iV, LLC.

Greg oversees a staff of 7 doctors and nurses who specialize in administering outpatient intravenous therapy, providing a much-needed service for the community.

Greg was born on the Caribbean Island of Grenada and grew up in Brooklyn, NY where he received his nursing degree from Medgar Evers Community College in 2010. He has more than 10 years experience as an Oncology Nurse, where he became proficient in administering IV therapy.

In 2020, Greg was able to fulfill his six-year-long dream of bringing IV therapy to the US Virgin islands. The initial idea, according to Greg, was that "fun, sun and rum made the use of IV therapy as a hangover cure, a highly marketable no-brainer."

Island iV offers a variety of infusions including hydration therapy, chemo recovery, B12 injections (a vegan favorite), fat burners and more.

Bowen often tells stories about the miraculous less-than-an-hour results of the "hangover be-gone," infusion he administers – often to tourists who need to catch their plane.

Bowen and his wife Ava, who is also a registered nurse, have two boys, Avery, 8 and Wyatt, 5. They enjoy family time together and just hanging out on the beach having fun in the sun.

Bowen says he likes to focus on the lighter side of intravenous therapy: revitalizing sun-damaged skin, improving athletic performance and burning fat while boosting energy – as well as the startlingly quick hangover relief!
