COMING IN 2021	OUR BOARD

In 1955 when our founder, Regina Levi-Bianchini Soria, brought together a group of Baltimore Italophiles to celebrate the Italian experience in America she inspired all who would follow to appreciate the characteristics of a renaissance man. There is no more an ideal Italian Renaissance Man than Leonardo da Vinci.

We ended 2019 with our tribute to Leonardo da Vinci in our art galleries celebrating his achievements from the arts, engineering, medicine and humanities. Little did we know the beginning of 2020 would bring the Italian Cultural Center to emulate one of Leonardo's greatest talents: the ability to adapt and overcome turning challenges into reality.

Through the stewardship of our Executive Director and the tenacity of our volunteers, an educational program known as "Be a Chef for a Day" transformed itself almost overnight from teaching Baltimore City youth and their families how to cook healthy meals on a budget using the Mediterranean diet to a community kitchen preparing over 1000 warm meals daily and delivering them to neighbors city wide in Baltimore and in central Baltimore County, all this at the height of the COVID-19 Pandemic.

Moving forward and continuously adapting to the needs of our community, Monica Lapenta is guiding ICCM to respond to the need for youth training and job opportunities through our next program: "In Cucina" a Baltimore Food Social Enterprise. 2020 has been quite a ride. More work still has to be done. I invite each and every one of you to get on the "BACFAD Bus" and be a part of the bright future ICCM has in store for our city and state. Let's make Leonardo proud!

Francesco Luigi Legaluppi
Board Chair

ICC was conceived as a home away from home for immigrants who had to escape persecutions and for immigrants who felt non accepted here in the US.

A place that feels like home and where everyone belongs.

When Circolo Culturale Italiano and Italcultura decided to join forces and created The Italina Cultural Center (ICCM) they did so to keep alive that purpose of being a home for everyone who was in need of one.

As such we welcome those who speak our beautiful idiom as well as those who speak every other idiom that feels like home to them.

We all have experienced, at different levels, the struggle of starting a life all over again and we know what mutual aid means.

That hand extended to you, when you least expected it, to lift you up, to show you with small gestures "we are here for you".

In cucina (in the kitchen) is where Italians gather, where the community is celebrated, where we welcome everyone.

"Dove mangiano due, mangiano tre" is, in all its variations, a very common Italian way of saying. That there is always a seat at our table and for that however little you have, it is never too little for you to share with your neighbors. This saying has never been more true than this year for us all.

In March we opened our Center to a transformation and stepped up to serve the neighbors who needed us.

A small program that first prepared a few hundred meals per week, became a kitchen for thousands.

Although there are numbers I share weekly, there are no words adequate enough to portray the struggles and, at the same time, the gratitude on the faces of the hundreds of families to whom we have extended a hand.

A heartfelt thank you to the hundreds of volunteers who showed up for us and have helped us to create and continue this mutual aid kitchen program in various capacities, to our funders, partners, and supporters, and to my incredible team.

V' "io in cucina.

Monica

NIAG

NATIONAL ITALIAN AMERICAN GALLERY

At ICCM we believe the Arts are a solution. For the first 30 years our Foundation relied mostly on the Arts to build a bridge to connect Italian immigrants and Marylanders with the love for Italy and its culture. Enrico Causici, Antonio Capellano were the first artists whose lasting impact every Baltimorean can see while walking the streets of Charm City. Lady Baltimore, symbol of the city was created by an Italian, the Bromo Seltzer Tower was created by Capt. Emerson to resemble Florence's Palazzo della Signoria. Through NIAG we made that connection visible. Leonardo Arts Day is a must and an exhibit every year with selected artists from Italy and Maryland will continue that tradition of bringing to Maryland the best of the contemporary Italian Art tradition and craft.

CAFFÈ LETTERARIO

Caffè Letterario is an intimate conversation with selected guests about the arts, community and culture over coffee and pastries in the classic Italian style.

It facilitates the sharing of our culture with a diverse community, encouraging and supporting education, creativity, curiosity, respect for history, respect for the arts and respect for each other.

2019-2020 guests:

- The Civility Dinner honoring late ICCM Board Member Pier Massimo Forni

BE A CHEF FOR A DAY

The Be a Chef for a Day Program (BACFAD BEAT), is a youth-centric and skills-centered dynamic food initiative of the Italian Cultural Center of Maryland that operates in the Greater Baltimore-Washington Area, providing meals, nutritional education, life, and culinary skills, and training to youth and their families.

The ultimate goal is to pull our community out of hunger and address poor nutrition-related diseases, household instability due to financial struggles, and food insecurity.

In our logo on the bottom right are our helpers: Sphen (ancient Greek word for Spoon) and Matt (short for Matterello the Italian world for "rolling pin"). Our classes are now virtual.

COMING IN 2021

We are committed to families and youth and we know that the youth of our community need job opportunities.

Our experience during COVID-19 has taught us that support through warm nutritious meals, is a permanent, not a temporary, need so we have looked for a solution to combine job creation and meal service. In Cucina was born.

Youth will be trained in every aspect of the business, not only the culinary aspect, and one of the products of this social enterprise will be warm nutritious meals. Our first wholesale product will be artisanal dry pasta made with Maryland grains.

Supporting our community starts with providing our neighbors with choices. Healthy eating is what we teach to our little ones in school everyday, but the reality is that not everyone has access to healthy nutritious food and fresh produce and fruit at affordable cost.

Our BACFAD Mobile Teaching Training Kitchen and Market (BACFAD MTTKM) will have a full classroom / market space on wheels and a full commercial training kitchen.

This space will allow us to serve the York Road and Greenmount Corridor, providing classes, fresh produce, fruit and meals daily at affordable prices.

About our Foundation

The Italian Cultural Center is a tax-exempt 501(c)(3) non-profit corporation established in 1955 and incorporated in 1999 to build a strong bridge between our Italian culture, love of the Arts, and family life. It supports neighborhoods and community with love and respect.

We have called Baltimore home since 1955 and our Center is headquartered just a few yards away from where ICCM was originally founded. Our lifelong goals are to empower kids and families, build stronger communities, and create lasting change at the local, national, and global levels. The foundation oversees the Be a Chef for a Day Educational Program, and the In Cucina Food Social Enterprise.

We believe long-lasting changes come with informed choices and that education is the key to open the coffer of possibilities. The Arts, including the Culinary Arts, are the arrows in our quiver.

THANK YOU
